RED CROSS CAMPAIGN — ANSWER THE CALL

VOL. LXXXIII—No. 132 CITY OF KINGSTON, N. Y., WEDNESDAY EVENING, MARCH 24, 1954. PRICE FIVE CENTS

Where Stone Was Milled for City Use

Most of us who hear anything today about Ulster county's once prosperous stone industry, might hear mention of stone quarries, yards and docks, but few of us hear anything said of the stone mill, which was important to the area's output. One such mill, started before the turn of the century by Joseph Riseley, grandfather of former Fire Commissioner Richard F. Riseley, operated for many years near the old West Hurley railroad station along the Ulster & Delaware railroad before the Ashokan reservoir opened in 1913. The founder of the mill died in 1909 and his son, Edward, assisted by another son, Joseph, continued with it. Joseph was Richard's father and Edward, the father of Attorney William E. Riseley. The brothers lived in Shandaken, and when they were not commuting between there and West Hurley, they stayed at Lane's Hotel in the old community, which was wiped off the map to make way for New York city's reservoir. Mostly bluestone was quarried in the area, and Michael Joyce, of Joyce Brothers', who operate a store and post office at the present West Hurley, recalls working in the old U. & D. station, and seeing the stone being loaded and shipped on flat cars to New York and other points in the metropolitan area. The mill turned out window sills, flagstone, curbing and other stone work and "did a good business" Joyce said. The picture reproduced here was supplied by Richard F. Riseley.

Crewmen Called Safe After Blast

92 on Navy Tanker Get Rain of Radioactive Ash; Danger Zone Is Now 450 Miles

Pearl Harbor, March 24 (AP)—The hydrogen explosion March 1 at Bikini Atoll—described by one congressional observer as so tremendous that it was out of control—showered radioactive ash on a U. S. navy tanker carrying 92 crewmen.

The navy in a cautiously-worded announcement last night disclosed the new victim of the mighty blast but said "no apparent injury to crewmen exists."

The 14th Naval District here said the 4,200-ton tanker Patapsco had received" a slight and not a dangerous contamination of radioactive fallout."

It did not say how far the vessel, one of the fleet supporting the test task force, was from the scene of the explosion.

Twenty-three Japanese fishermen were burned seriously in a shower of nuclear ashes from the same blast. They said they were 80 miles away and outside the official hazard zone.

In addition, 28 American technicians and 264 Marshall Islands natives more than 100 miles from the flashpoint were exposed to milder radiation.

Danger in Fish

In Tokyo, U. S. Ambassador John M. Allison said there is "some hazard" in eating fish caught near the Bikini area for a short period after test explosions.

He added, however, "there is negligible hazard, if any . . ." from fish caught outside the Pacific test area."

Rep. Chet Holifield (D.-Calif.) said Monday the explosion "was so far beyond what was predicted that you might say it was out of control." Holifield said the explosion had blasted "a tremendous hole in the ocean floor."

Its power has been estimated as between 600 and 700 times greater than that of the Hiroshima atomic bomb which killed 60,000 persons.

The navy said the tanker Patapsco was laid up at Pearl Harbor "for checking and complete decontamination."

No Apparent Injury

"It has been established that no apparent possibility of injury to crewmen exists," the navy said.

"All members of the crew were removed from the ship and given thorough medical examinations as an extra safety measure. This examination gave no evidence of any harmful effects from the slight exposure."

Confronted with the tremendous power of the latest thermonuclear devices, the United States has more than tripled the distance ships must keep between them and the flashpoint of any new Pacific tests. It set a radius of 450 miles for the new danger zone, an increase of more than 20 times in square miles. The old hazard zone was roughly 150 by 200 miles.

Tests Kept Secret

The new zone will remain effective until about the end of June, but secrecy cloaked plans for additional tests.

Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission returned here yesterday ahead of schedule from the test site but declined any comment. There had been speculation that an even more powerful hydrogen blast would come off during his visit to security-shrouded Bikini. However, it was possible the unexpected violence of the March 1 explosion had caused a reshuffling of test dates. Strauss was there four days.

Plans Better Weather Service for Farmers

Washington, March 24 (AP)—The weather bureau said today it will open a revised and more informative farm weather forecast program on April 1.

On that date, the bureau said, the agricultural weather forecast program for this year's crop growing season will begin over most of the country.

It said the program has been redesigned to deliver weather information to farm homes earlier in the day. Main forecasts will be put on the air through local radio stations from 6 to 8 a. m., local time.

Honig Resigns, Schechter Fills Position on BPW

Pressing Business, Civic Interests Are Reasons Given for Leaving After Six Years

Mayor Frederick H. Stang today announced the resignation of Joseph E. Honig, of 309 Albany avenue, as a commissioner on the Board of Public Works, and the appointment of former Sixth Ward Alderman David Schechter to succeed him.

Honig, who was first appointed by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, had been reappointed for a second four-year term, which was due to expire Sept. 8, 1954. His successor was appointed to serve until that date.

In his letter to Mayor Stang, Honig said he no longer "finds it feasible" to serve on the BPW because of pressing business and civic matters.

Thanked by Stang

Mayor Stang, in answering the letter, thanked him for performing an "excellent service to the people of this community," and emphasized that inasmuch as he will still be in civic affairs the city will have the benefit of his services.

Schechter, who had served as Sixth Ward alderman during Newkirk's administration, moved out of the ward to 51 Florence street and was succeeded by George P. Norton, Jr., of 2 St. Mary's street.

The other members of the Board of Public Works are Raymond L. Whitbeck, Charles O. Davis and Kenneth Hyatt.

2,248 Persons Attend Opening of Lions Club Exposition at Armory

Cut Ribbon for 5-Day Program

Hundreds of people thronged the state armory on Manor avenue last night for the gala opening of the seventh annual industrial and mercantile exposition and automobile show sponsored by the Kingston Lions Club.

A total of 2,248 persons, believed to be the largest in the seven-year history of the exposition, visited the armory on opening night, it was reported by Joseph A. Fassbender of the ticket committee.

"Best opening we've ever had!" was the comment of Lawrence M. Jenson, general chairman of the 1954 "Kingston Area on Parade."

Crowds Throng Armory

Opening crowds drifted slowly among the more than 60 exhibits which overflowed the gymnasium into the drill hall and feasted their eyes on the latest car models supplied by 14 new car dealers of the city.

Attracting considerable attention was a 1918 Willys-Overland that had eyes popping almost four decades ago.

The commercial booths were most effectively set up, heightened by the colorful bunting festooning from the ceiling.

Opening Ceremonies

The exposition was officially opened with ceremonies in front of the armory at 7 p. m., arranged by Max Oppenheimer. The Boys Drum Corps, sponsored by the Lions Club, went through its paces under the direction of Albert Rossi, and the new flood lighting system which brilliantly illuminates the front of the armory was officially dedicated by Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkin, commanding officer of the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, New York National Guard. The flood lights were erected with funds contributed by the Lions Club.

Mayor Frederick H. Stang brought greetings on behalf of the city, calling attention to the value of the exposition to the community and praising the Lions Club for making it possible.

Lions Club President William Stall welcomed the public in brief remarks and Jenson cut the ribbon to make it official.

TV Attracts Interest

Attracting unusual attention was the WKNY-TV booth in the gymnasium with its mobile camera and closed circuit telecast. Hundreds of people saw themselves reproduced on the television screen at the booth as members of the WKNY staff interviewed the crowd. The new station will telecast over Chancel 66.

The refreshment stand, sponsored by the 156th Field Artillery Battalion, was reported to have done a "bang-up business." Dozens of awards are made by the Lions Club each night.

The exposition will continue through Saturday evening.

There were many interesting attractions among the exhibits—too many to mention all of them. The Royal Tire Service had on exhibition a giant tire used by earth movers. It weighs 1,200 pounds and retails at $3,166.72.

Albany, March 24 (AP) — Gov. Dewey today signed two bills giving the attorney general and the comptroller each a $5,000 pay raise.

His action insured that the four top state officials to be elected next November will receive higher salaries. The Legislature doubled the pay of the governor and lieutenant governor in resolutions that did not require Dewey's signature.

Staples Elected As Director of CH

Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., stockholders re-elected a board of directors at their annual meeting Tuesday in Poughkeepsie. The board includes Alva S. Staples, local brick manufacturer.

It was reported that 1,851,595 shares, or 82 per cent of the common stock entitled to vote, was represented either by attendance of the owners or by their signed proxies.

The board of directors re-elected to serve until the next annual meeting were Ernest R. Acker, president and general manager of Central Hudson; Peter Cantline, Newburgh attorney; Harris E. Dexter, Central Hudson vice-president in charge of commercial relations; Robert B. MacGuinness, Central Hudson vice-president; Henry D. Sherwood, Pine Plains farmer; William W. Smith, 2nd, president of Smith Brothers, Inc., Poughkeepsie; Alva S. Staples, Kingston brick manufacturer; John Wilkie, Central Hudson vice-president and treasurer, and Fabian L. Russell, president of the F. L. Russell Corp., Saugerties.

Sixty-five stockholders of the utility company attended the meeting at which Ernest R. Acker, president of Central Hudson, reviewed 1953 progress and outlined plans to meet continued growth.

90 Men Will Guard 427-Mile Route When It Is Completed

Albany, March 24 (AP)—A special detail of state troopers, part of which already is in training, will provide continuous traffic patrol on the New York city-Buffalo thruway.

A thruway authority spokesman said yesterday that plans now call for a force of 85 to 90 men when the 427-mile express route is completed. Most of them will begin their duties this year.

The authority expects to have a 25-man patrol in uniform by June 24 for assignment on a 110-mile stretch—between Rochester and Verona—scheduled for opening on a toll basis on that date.

Wages and equipment for the full patrol will be financed by a $500,000 appropriation contained in Gov. Dewey's supplemental budget. The money will be repaid to the state treasury after the thruway authority begins collecting tolls.

Half Veteran Troopers

About half of the thruway force will be veteran troopers, the other half recruits. They will be assigned only to traffic duty but will wear the same uniforms and wield the same authority as all other troopers.

The Legislature approved a bill that would permit the authority to establish its own police force, but, the spokesman said, the group now has no plans to do so.

Instead, the authority will use the special trooper detail, whose members will rotate on thruway duty with the rest of the state police division.

Dewey's supplemental budget provides also for continuation of three state investigations into crime and alleged corruption. $72,000 for the Saratoga county probe; $54,000 for the one in Columbia county, and $30,000 for an inquiry now in progress on Staten Island.

Other Items

Other items in the supplemental bill provide for:

Engineering and legal services in the state's project to develop St. Lawrence river power, $200,000, to be repaid from State Power Authority revenues.

State Income Tax Payments Lagging

Albany, March 24 (AP)—With the deadline only 22 days away, less than 10 per cent of those expected to pay state income taxes have filed returns.

The State Tax Commission said yesterday it had received only 454,420 returns, compared with 500,902 for the corresponding date last year.

The deadline is April 15.

Single persons who had net income and net capital gains of $1,000 or more in 1953 and married couples whose combined net incomes and net capital gains amounted to $2,500 or more must file returns.

The 10 per cent reduction of the tax has been continued.

Meadows Prison Is To Be Fixed for Younger Offenders

Training Director Horan Explains Correctional Program in Talk to Lions Club

Developments within the past two years in the State Department of Correction were outlined in a talk Tuesday noon before the Kingston Lions Club by Leonard F. Horan, director of correctional training.

Addressing the club's regular luncheon meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Horan noted that on April 1 Great Meadows Prison will be changed from a maximum security institution to an intermediate type reformatory for "young offenders too advanced in crime to be proper Elmira Reformatory charges but not sufficiently 'crime wise' to be suitable for incarceration in our prisons."

A course in morals and ethics for all inmates newly committed to state institutions was inaugu-

Dairymen Discuss Parity Reduction

Ithaca, March 24 (AP)—Hundreds of upstate farmers, with a wary eye on impeding cuts in federal price supports on milk products, gathered here today to hear Agriculture Secretary Benson outline the Eisenhower administration's farm program.

In a speech at Cornell University's week-long 43rd annual farm and home program, Benson was expected to discuss particularly the current dairy problem.

Effective April 1, price supports under butter, cheese and dried milk will be reduced from 90 to 75 per cent of parity.

Economists have predicted that the cut will cost each New York dairyman about 30 cents a hundredweight (about 47 quarts) in lost revenue.

Dairy organizations and a committee composed of representatives of boards of supervisors in nine counties have recorded themselves in opposition to the scheduled slash.

Condon Connection In Thruway Firm Is Called Proper

Attorney General Advises Tallamy No Reason $3,835,029 Job Can't Be Let

Albany, March 24 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Nathaniel L. Goldstein held today that there was nothing improper in Sen. William F. Condon's business connection with a contracting firm that entered a bid on a segment of the cross-state thruway in Yonkers.

Goldstein told Bertram D. Tallamy, thruway chairman, that there was no reason for withholding a $3,835,029 contract to the Yonkers Contracting Co. Inc.

To Study Opinion

A spokesman for the Thruway Authority said Tallamy planned to study Goldstein's opinion before deciding whether to award the contract to Yonkers Contracting.

In a letter to Tallamy, Goldstein said the investigation by the Thruway Authority had shown Condon had "no interests in the particular contract" and "would gain no credit, benefit or increased remuneration on account of it."

The inquiry stemmed from a charge made by Robert Mac Lea, Yonkers civic leader, who had said that Condon exerted "hidden control" over the Yonkers Contracting Co. Condon is a Republican senator from Yonkers.

Gets $5,000 a Year

Goldstein said Condon was not an officer, director or stockholder of either the contracting company or an equipment rental firm associated with it. He said Condon, working on a commission basis, was paid about $5,000 a year by Yonkers Contracting for his efforts in attracting non-governmental business.

"It does not appear that the Senator had any part in the mak-

Declares Effects of H-Blast Are Surprising to All

Washington, March 24 (AP) — President Eisenhower said today (a) there is nothing in the current unemployment situation calling for emergency action, and (b) in response to a question about Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), that no man should sit in judgment on his own case.

The two hot subjects were tossed to the President at a news conference.

Eisenhower was reminded by a reporter that he had said March probably would be the key month in determining whether a slump in business and employment would be offset by new gains.

The President replied that he had implied that March was a significant month because there

Former Clergyman Urges Doctors to Forget Purses

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(AP Science Reporter)

Cleveland, March 24 (AP)—A physician who was once an ordained minister today criticized doctors "who feel that God made them, and everybody else just happened."

Dr. Robert Myers of Kansas City, Mo., made the remark in urging doctors to "become more human" in dealing with patients, especially prospective mothers.

Speaking to the American Academy of General Practice, Dr. Myers said:

"I have a very definite conviction that the professional doctor interested in his pocketbook instead of the patient, and thinking only of retiring as soon as possible, does far more to further the cause of state or socialized medicine than all the politicians who ever lived."

Fear is the most common complication of pregnancy and the doctor can do much to relieve it, Dr. Myers said.

"See 'Nora Brown' as a complete individual instead of seeing her only as a machine which shall soon give birth to a baby."

British Pamphlets Publishing Atomic Information That Is High Secret in U. S.

New York, March 24 (AP)—A British pamphlet which anyone can buy for about 70 cents is reported to contain atomic energy information of a type long kept highly secret in this country.

The New York Times reported the pamphlet in a dispatch today from Kansas City, where the American Chemical Society is holding its 125th national meeting.

The Times said the British government pamphlet written by K. E. B. Jay of the Division of Atomic Energy of the Minister of Supply is being studied by leading American scientists "with avid interest." The Times added:

"It tells the story of atomic energy production in Britain. The avidity of American scientific interest in the pamphlet is because it tells in detail how the British enrich uranium to fissionable levels and how they produce plutonium, material for the atomic bomb.

"These techniques, developed first in the United States, are known in detail to few American scientists because here security regulations, established by Congress, require that such information be 'classified.' That is, it has to be stamped 'top secret' and filed in a safe.

"It can be shown to only a few trusted men, and then only if they need the information for their own works."

The British pamphlet was published about a month ago, and copies are now reaching this country, it was said.

It contains enough information of a type called "classified" in this country to send a person to jail and possibly even death as a traitor if made public by an American scientist, it was believed.

The Legislature approved a bill that would permit the authority to establish its own police force, but, the spokesman said, the group now has no plans to do so.

Instead, the authority will use the special trooper detail, whose members will rotate on thruway duty with the rest of the state police division.

Dewey's supplemental budget provides also for continuation of three state investigations into crime and alleged corruption. $72,000 for the Saratoga county probe; $54,000 for the one in Columbia county, and $30,000 for an inquiry now in progress on Staten Island.

Other Items

Other items in the supplemental bill provide for:

Engineering and legal services in the state's project to develop St. Lawrence river power, $200,000, to be repaid from State Power Authority revenues.

State Income Tax Payments Lagging

Albany, March 24 (AP)—With the deadline only 22 days away, less than 10 per cent of those expected to pay state income taxes have filed returns.

The State Tax Commission said yesterday it had received only 454,420 returns, compared with 500,902 for the corresponding date last year.

The deadline is April 15.

Single persons who had net income and net capital gains of $1,000 or more in 1953 and married couples whose combined net incomes and net capital gains amounted to $2,500 or more must file returns.

The 10 per cent reduction of the tax has been continued.

Meadows Prison Is To Be Fixed for Younger Offenders

Training Director Horan Explains Correctional Program in Talk to Lions Club

Developments within the past two years in the State Department of Correction were outlined in a talk Tuesday noon before the Kingston Lions Club by Leonard F. Horan, director of correctional training.

Addressing the club's regular luncheon meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel, Horan noted that on April 1 Great Meadows Prison will be changed from a maximum security institution to an intermediate type reformatory for "young offenders too advanced in crime to be proper Elmira Reformatory charges but not sufficiently 'crime wise' to be suitable for incarceration in our prisons."

A course in morals and ethics for all inmates newly committed to state institutions was inaugu-

Dairymen Discuss Parity Reduction

Ithaca, March 24 (AP)—Hundreds of upstate farmers, with a wary eye on impeding cuts in federal price supports on milk products, gathered here today to hear Agriculture Secretary Benson outline the Eisenhower administration's farm program.

In a speech at Cornell University's week-long 43rd annual farm and home program, Benson was expected to discuss particularly the current dairy problem.

Effective April 1, price supports under butter, cheese and dried milk will be reduced from 90 to 75 per cent of parity.

Economists have predicted that the cut will cost each New York dairyman about 30 cents a hundredweight (about 47 quarts) in lost revenue.

Dairy organizations and a committee composed of representatives of boards of supervisors in nine counties have recorded themselves in opposition to the scheduled slash.

Condon Connection In Thruway Firm Is Called Proper

Attorney General Advises Tallamy No Reason $3,835,029 Job Can't Be Let

Albany, March 24 (AP)—Atty. Gen. Nathaniel L. Goldstein held today that there was nothing improper in Sen. William F. Condon's business connection with a contracting firm that entered a bid on a segment of the cross-state thruway in Yonkers.

Goldstein told Bertram D. Tallamy, thruway chairman, that there was no reason for withholding a $3,835,029 contract to the Yonkers Contracting Co. Inc.

To Study Opinion

A spokesman for the Thruway Authority said Tallamy planned to study Goldstein's opinion before deciding whether to award the contract to Yonkers Contracting.

In a letter to Tallamy, Goldstein said the investigation by the Thruway Authority had shown Condon had "no interests in the particular contract" and "would gain no credit, benefit or increased remuneration on account of it."

The inquiry stemmed from a charge made by Robert Mac Lea, Yonkers civic leader, who had said that Condon exerted "hidden control" over the Yonkers Contracting Co. Condon is a Republican senator from Yonkers.

Gets $5,000 a Year

Goldstein said Condon was not an officer, director or stockholder of either the contracting company or an equipment rental firm associated with it. He said Condon, working on a commission basis, was paid about $5,000 a year by Yonkers Contracting for his efforts in attracting non-governmental business.

"It does not appear that the Senator had any part in the mak-

Declares Effects of H-Blast Are Surprising to All

Washington, March 24 (AP) — President Eisenhower said today (a) there is nothing in the current unemployment situation calling for emergency action, and (b) in response to a question about Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), that no man should sit in judgment on his own case.

The two hot subjects were tossed to the President at a news conference.

Eisenhower was reminded by a reporter that he had said March probably would be the key month in determining whether a slump in business and employment would be offset by new gains.

The President replied that he had implied that March was a significant month because there

Dietz Name Won't Be Added by VFW

Members of Joyce-Schirick Post, No. 1386, Veterans of Foreign Wars last evening voted to continue the name of the post as presently organized.

A proposal had been made to change the name of the post to include the name of Sergeant Robert Dietz, World War 2 Congressional Medal of Honor veteran. Since a movement has already been started to dedicate the municipal stadium to his memory and name it the Dietz Memorial Stadium, the proposal to include the name of Sergeant Dietz in the VFW Post name was not adopted.

Police Resist 'Goon' Demonstrators

Police attempt to hold back a band of noisy demonstrators at a New York city pier as members of the old ILA heckled a back-to-work move by AFL longshoremen. Moving from pier to pier, the "goon" squads tried to discourage the AFL dockmen who were manning about a dozen piers. Police quelled flare-ups at several of the piers as the strike moved into its 19th day. (NEA Telephoto).

Former Clergyman Urges Doctors to Forget Purses

(AP Science Reporter)

Cleveland, March 24 (AP)—A physician who was once an ordained minister today criticized doctors "who feel that God made them, and everybody else just happened."

Dr. Robert Myers of Kansas City, Mo., made the remark in urging doctors to "become more human" in dealing with patients, especially prospective mothers.

Speaking to the American Academy of General Practice, Dr. Myers said:

"I have a very definite conviction that the professional doctor interested in his pocketbook instead of the patient, and thinking only of retiring as soon as possible, does far more to further the cause of state or socialized medicine than all the politicians who ever lived."

Fear is the most common complication of pregnancy and the doctor can do much to relieve it, Dr. Myers said.

"See 'Nora Brown' as a complete individual instead of seeing her only as a machine which shall soon give birth to a baby."

British Pamphlets Publishing Atomic Information That Is High Secret in U. S.

New York, March 24 (AP)—A British pamphlet which anyone can buy for about 70 cents is reported to contain atomic energy information of a type long kept highly secret in this country.

The New York Times reported the pamphlet in a dispatch today from Kansas City, where the American Chemical Society is holding its 125th national meeting.

The Times said the British government pamphlet written by K. E. B. Jay of the Division of Atomic Energy of the Minister of Supply is being studied by leading American scientists "with avid interest." The Times added:

"It tells the story of atomic energy production in Britain. The avidity of American scientific interest in the pamphlet is because it tells in detail how the British enrich uranium to fissionable levels and how they produce plutonium, material for the atomic bomb.

"These techniques, developed first in the United States, are known in detail to few American scientists because here security regulations, established by Congress, require that such information be 'classified.' That is, it has to be stamped 'top secret' and filed in a safe.

"It can be shown to only a few trusted men, and then only if they need the information for their own works."

The British pamphlet was published about a month ago, and copies are now reaching this country, it was said.

It contains enough information of a type called "classified" in this country to send a person to jail and possibly even death as a traitor if made public by an American scientist, it was believed.

Nine Men Fined For Army Thefts In Upstate Areas

Albany, March 24 (AP)—Nine men have been fined a total of $1,100 in connection with "share-the-wealth" thefts of $7,000 worth of government property from the army depots at Schenectady and nearby Voorhesville.

The nine, who pleaded guilty in federal court yesterday to charges of stealing tools and clothing, were among 28 employes of the depots arrestd by the FBI last November.

Federal authorities said the men had taken tools and clothing from the army storehouses and set them aside. Then, authorities said, they would tell friends where the loot was, and the friends would pick it up.

Judge James T. Foley fined six of the men $100. They were Gerald Casso, Harold C. Sparrow, Williard H. Palmer and Vivian Vrooman, all of Schenectady; Robert J. Schweigard of Schoharie and Robert H. Esslie of East Durham.

Other Sentences

Dominick A. Altieri, Schenectady, was fined $250 and placed on one-year probation on six charges of theft.

Arthur R. Westervelt, Schenectady, drew a $100 fine and one year's probation on five theft counts and John A. White of Rotterdam was fined $150 on three counts. Two other counts against White were dropped.

In another case Walter Henderson Moak, 33, of New York city pleaded innocent to a charge of violating the federal statute covering interstate transportation of stolen property.

The charges arose from an alleged $60,000 swindle here of a Massachusetts business woman, Mrs. Amy B. Keating of Newton Center.

Moak was arrested Feb. 9 in New York city, where he had been living in Queens under the name David Butler. He has been in Albany county jail. Judge Foley reduced his bail from $40,000 to $25,000.

Most people find that their hearing is less keen immediately after meals.

STRANGE PLACE FOR SKIS—Marine Pfc. Robert G. Everett, training at Ft. Richardson, Alaska, would be the first one in the world to agree. But after reading his story you'll probably be sympathetic with his predicament. While practicing his skiing, Everett ran into a moose. After a lengthy staring period, the moose made the first move and Everett made the second move—straight up the tree, skis and all. After a half hour he was rescued by a group of men who scared the moose off with blank cartridge shots.

Council Leader Is For Closing Tracks

New York, March 24 (AP)—Joseph T. Sharkey, Democratic majority leader of the city council, says he plans to introduce measures next Tuesday to close the horse race tracks within the city limits.

Sharkey charges "thievery" by the state in the progressive annual reduction of the city's share in the proceeds from pari-mutuel betting.

The Brooklyn councilman told the council yesterday it should make an immediate "punitive" investigation of its power to close the tracks.

After the council meeting, Sharkey said consideration ought to be given to using the race-track areas as sites for new housing developments.

Two Are in City

The Jamaica and Aqueduct tracks are in New York city. A small part of Belmont is in the city and the rest in Nassau county.

Sharkey's threat was made as the council reluctantly gave unanimous approval to a resolution accepting the mandated downward revision of the city's share in the proceeds from pari-mutuel betting.

The city's share—2 per cent this year—has dropped 1 percentage point a year under state law since 1951, when it was 5 per cent. The city's share will vanish in 1956.

The tax yielded about 12 million dollars a year to the city at 5 per cent. The total this year will be about 2½ million dollars at 2 per cent.

Hunt 'Maniac Mugger'

Newark, N. J., March 24 (AP)—Police today intensified their hunt for the slayer of a 44-year-old seamstress, and said they were looking for "a maniac who in all probability will stop at nothing." "We are not looking for an ordinary mugger in this case" Police Commissioner Arthur Weller said yesterday. The victim was Miss Margaret Puleo of 80 Columbia avenue. She died of a skull fracture Monday night in Martland Medical Center after being found beaten on a street near her home. The contents of her purse were found scattered on the grass in Vailsburg Park. But her wallet, believed to contain about $10, was missing. Police theorized that her slayer was the same man who beat and robbed three other women earlier this month. Also found near Miss Puleo's purse was a heavy sashweight.

Robbers Get $1,000

New York, March 24 (AP)—A cigarette vending machine servicer was robbed of $1,000 in cash and cigarettes in a holdup of his truck by two thugs yesterday, police of the Bronx Park station reported. The victim, Joseph La Mantia, of 232 Mulberry street, told police he was punched in the stomach by one of the robbers, who was armed with a gun. With his wind knocked out, La Mantia watched helplessly as the robbers jumped into an automobile and sped away, police said.

Nine Men Fined For Army Thefts In Upstate Areas

Albany, March 24 (AP)—Nine men have been fined a total of $1,100 in connection with "share-the-wealth" thefts of $7,000 worth of government property from the army depots at Schenectady and nearby Voorhesville.

The nine, who pleaded guilty in federal court yesterday to charges of stealing tools and clothing, were among 28 employes of the depots arrestd by the FBI last November.

Federal authorities said the men had taken tools and clothing from the army storehouses and set them aside. Then, authorities said, they would tell friends where the loot was, and the friends would pick it up.

Judge James T. Foley fined six of the men $100. They were Gerald Casso, Harold C. Sparrow, Williard H. Palmer and Vivian Vrooman, all of Schenectady; Robert J. Schweigard of Schoharie and Robert H. Esslie of East Durham.

Other Sentences

Dominick A. Altieri, Schenectady, was fined $250 and placed on one-year probation on six charges of theft.

Arthur R. Westervelt, Schenectady, drew a $100 fine and one year's probation on five theft counts and John A. White of Rotterdam was fined $150 on three counts. Two other counts against White were dropped.

In another case Walter Henderson Moak, 33, of New York city pleaded innocent to a charge of violating the federal statute covering interstate transportation of stolen property.

The charges arose from an alleged $60,000 swindle here of a Massachusetts business woman, Mrs. Amy B. Keating of Newton Center.

Moak was arrested Feb. 9 in New York city, where he had been living in Queens under the name David Butler. He has been in Albany county jail. Judge Foley reduced his bail from $40,000 to $25,000.

Most people find that their hearing is less keen immediately after meals.

STRANGE PLACE FOR SKIS—Marine Pfc. Robert G. Everett, training at Ft. Richardson, Alaska, would be the first one in the world to agree. But after reading his story you'll probably be sympathetic with his predicament. While practicing his skiing, Everett ran into a moose. After a lengthy staring period, the moose made the first move and Everett made the second move—straight up the tree, skis and all. After a half hour he was rescued by a group of men who scared the moose off with blank cartridge shots.

Council Leader Is For Closing Tracks

New York, March 24 (AP)—Joseph T. Sharkey, Democratic majority leader of the city council, says he plans to introduce measures next Tuesday to close the horse race tracks within the city limits.

Sharkey charges "thievery" by the state in the progressive annual reduction of the city's share in the proceeds from pari-mutuel betting.

The Brooklyn councilman told the council yesterday it should make an immediate "punitive" investigation of its power to close the tracks.

After the council meeting, Sharkey said consideration ought to be given to using the racetrack areas as sites for new housing developments.

Two Are in City

The Jamaica and Aqueduct tracks are in New York city. A small part of Belmont is in the city and the rest in Nassau county.

Sharkey's threat was made as the council reluctantly gave unanimous approval to a resolution accepting the mandated downward revision of the city's share in the proceeds from pari-mutuel betting.

The city's share—2 per cent this year—has dropped 1 percentage point a year under state law since 1951, when it was 5 per cent. The city's share will vanish in 1956.

The tax yielded about 12 million dollars a year to the city at 5 per cent. The total this year will be about 2½ million dollars at 2 per cent.

Hunt 'Maniac Mugger'

Newark, N. J., March 24 (AP)—Police today intensified their hunt for the slayer of a 44-year-old seamstress, and said they were looking for "a maniac who in all probability will stop at nothing." "We are not looking for an ordinary mugger in this case" Police Commissioner Arthur Weller said yesterday. The victim was Miss Margaret Puleo of 80 Columbia avenue. She died of a skull fracture Monday night in Martland Medical Center after being found beaten on a street near her home. The contents of her purse were found scattered on the grass in Vailsburg Park. But her wallet, believed to contain about $10, was missing. Police theorized that her slayer was the same man who beat and robbed three other women earlier this month. Also found near Miss Puleo's purse was a heavy sashweight.

Robbers Get $1,000

New York, March 24 (AP)—A cigarette vending machine servicer was robbed of $1,000 in cash and cigarettes in a holdup of his truck by two thugs yesterday, police of the Bronx Park station reported. The victim, Joseph La Mantia, of 232 Mulberry street, told police he was punched in the stomach by one of the robbers, who was armed with a gun. With his wind knocked out, La Mantia watched helplessly as the robbers jumped into an automobile and sped away, police said.

ELECTION CONTRAST

Our election campaigns sometimes lack dignity, are over-long and boring. But with all their faults a quick look at how elections are conducted in the Soviet Union is enough to let us know how lucky we really are.

The New Yorker Magazine recently carried a description of how an election is held in Russia. Many of the trappings of our elections also play a part in Red elections. One thing is missing, however, without which any election is a farce. That is the right of a free choice between candidates and issues.

In the Soviet elections all candidates are hand picked by the party. A voter has only the choice of voting for that candidate or not voting for him. To not vote for a particular candidate a voter must take certain steps which are a tip-off to the authorities as to what is taking place.

The Communists hang out the flags on election day. There are bands and groups of election workers who try hard to get the people out to vote. One wonders about this sham, this spectacle without meaning, which is a part of the Soviet system of tyranny. What is its purpose? Do the leaders need assurance that they are popular with the masses, even though they must gain that assurance with rigged elections? Who knows? Americans only know that observation of the way the Reds conduct an election makes us feel a bit better about some of the faults which are apparent during our own campaigns.

Thieves robbed a Cleveland, Ohio, store of thirty cans of coffee. What can a store owner expect when he fails to lock the stuff in his safe with his other valuables?

RED FLANNELS

Are woolies going out? Once upon a time winter was the time for donning long underwear, preferably red flannel. These garments are still worn, but less commonly than once. In fact, so reduced has the market become that a Troy, N. Y., manufacturer, one of the chief sources for woolen underwear, has closed his plant.

One reason for this lessened demand is undoubtedly the increase in steam and hot water heating. Long underwear was all very well as long as the wearer spent most of his time outdoors in the cold. For office workers in buildings with plenty of artificial heat, it was just too much.

If red flannels go out of business entirely, this will end the time-honored query to a person in the spring, "Did you take them off too soon?"

After watching some of the drivers along the highways we wonder if that fellow way back there really did the human race a favor when he invented the wheel.

THE HATCH ACT

One of the strange bills which Congress occasionally gets but which fortunately are not as a rule taken seriously, has been introduced by Congressman Frank Small, Jr., of Maryland. He would amend the Hatch Act, which restricts the political activities of officeholders, almost out of existence. His measure would permit all government officials and employes "to take an active part in political management and political affairs."

This would undo practically all the advances made since the original Civil Service Act was passed in 1883. If the Small bill were enacted, no one but an active politician could get or hold a federal job. Letter carriers would find it desirable to solicit votes for the party which appointed them. Few citizens would think this is an improvement.

One reasonable assumption is that this bill did not originate from pressure from officeholders under civil service, clamoring to be subjected to the hazards of politics. It is meant to help those who would like to get political control of the non-political offices.

We have always admired many parking lot attendants. No one else can get two into the space that one held before.

Some people have a wonderful way with children. Among them are some who should learn the same with adults.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE LOSING BATTLE

Senator Alexander Wiley makes a point that should be obvious to all but is overlooked because historic changes are difficult to note at the time that they occur. He says:

". . . Let us first note that Soviet Russia has demonstrated that techniques of internal destruction are integral parts of its foreign policy. The U.S.S.R. has, in effect, revolutionized the entire intelligence and related fields in international relations. It has placed espionage on an assembly-line basis, graduating hundreds and thousands of agents, expertly trained as cadres in the interrelated skills of agitation, insurrection, espionage, sabotage, and subversion in countries throughout the world."

This has never occurred before in any country. Espionage used to be an art devoted to the single purpose of obtaining military secrets and policy plans. To "agitation, insurrection, espionage, sabotage and subversion" should be added "infiltration," which is the strongest weapon because it places directly inside a government agents of another government. The very existence of such a weapon has a damaging effect since literally everyone becomes suspicious of everyone else. The fact that there could be even one Alger Hiss, one Harry Dexter White, one William Remington lays all employes of government open to the prospect of screenings, investigations, clearances, etc. It is a demoralizing condition.

In a report prepared by the Committee on Foreign Relations with the assistance of the Library of Congress, dealing with the "Adequacy of United States Laws with Respect to Offenses Against National Security," from which the above quotation from Senator Wiley was taken, this idea is emphasized that while only a fraction of one per cent of those engaged in the British-American-Canadian atomic energy program were in a position to give Soviety Russia any vital information, the Russians got the information:

". . . But, the Soviet nework penetrated that tiny fraction of 1 per cent and achieved the remarkable feat of stealing crucial secrets through Klaus Fuchs, Bruno Pontecorvo, Alan Nunn May, and David Greenglass—all of whom possessed the variety of relatively rare requisites to secure valuable information about our atomic program."

When, therefore, it is suggested that all the investigations lead to nothing because they usually only turn up small men, the answer must be that who could have been more obscure than Julius Rosenberg or his brother-in-law, David Greenglass? Nevertheless, Rosenberg penetrated two of the most secret areas in the world, Los Alamos and Fort Monmouth; he arranged to place his cells in both organizations; he secured cover for his agents; got the stuff out; and prevented his agents from being caught. It was hoped that the Fort Monmouth investigation would produce the techniques of Rosenberg's operations. Congressional investigations may be a last opportunity to discover how an obscure personality like Julius Rosenberg could do so magnificent a job for his principals.

The Constitution in the current situation really protects traitors and it may one day be necessary to amend the Constitution to safeguard this country against the new weapons that the Soviety Universal State uses against us. This is the Constitutional definition of treason:

"Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court."

Neither Congress nor the courts may enlarge on this definition. That is why most traitors are convicted of perjury or not convicted at all. It is growing increasingly difficult to prove that a person is adhering to our enemies and if faced by the question, he need only take a plea under the Fifth Amendment and he is safe.

To prove by "two witnesses to the same overt act" is rarely possible, because the nature of this penetration is so complex and is directed by a vast international power that can order men from country to country, cause them to disappear as though they were dead, provide them with coverage or kill them as may be necessary. Corroborative witnesses thus become difficult to obtain. In the Alger Hiss case, this was a primary issue and finally a typewriter became a witness against a man.

Not all problems can be solved swiftly, by the twist of the wrist. This one requires thorough study. As of today, the agents of the Kremlin are not losing the battle of America.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

RESULTS OF STUDY OF ALCOHOLISM

Civilization has come a long way when we see how our alcoholics are now treated by our governments and hospitals. Alcoholism is now recognized as a disease, although some people still think that quitting the habit is just a matter of will power. Physicians who have given alcoholism deep study are quite convinced that the great majority of these patients really desire to be free of alcoholism and its dire effects.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. L. J. le Vann points out that foods of the citizens are carefully guarded and that the same care should be given to alcohol and its effects. The Yale school for the study of alcohol, which gathers up all that is being learned about alcohol, runs a summer session attended by those interested in helping their fellow man to conquer the liquor habit. I have mentioned before the excellent work being done by Alcoholics Anonymous as I have seen many of the men and women alcoholics now able to live a new life thanks to the patient work done by this organization. Closely associated with Alcoholics Anonymous in many countries is what is known as the Foundation for the Study of Alcoholism.

It is of general interest to learn of Dr. le Vann's definition of alcoholics. "Alcoholics are those excessive drinkers whose dependence upon alcohol has attained such a degree that it shows noticeable disturbance or an interference with their body or mental health and their personal relations and their smooth social and economical functioning or who show early signs of such development."

Dr. le Vann is Medical Superintendent, Provincial Training School, and Psychiatrist, Provincial Guidance Clinic, Red Deer, Alberta. What are his conclusions after studying the alcohol problem and its effects upon alcoholics? Despite all our governments are doing to help alcoholics, the alcoholic must first try to help himself. He states:

1. Our present-day culture encourages the individual to solve his problems by resorting to alcohol.

2. Alcoholics may be divided into two main groups; primary alcoholics, those whose personality shows little inner resources to combat problems and frustrations and, secondly, reactive alcoholics who show many signs of a neurosis (thinking they have an ailment of some kind yet no ailment is present).

Primary alcoholics respond most favorably to group treatment and reactive alcoholics, alcoholics who have been careless and allowed alcohol to get the better of them, respond best to individual treatment by a psychiatrist.

While the Danish treatment by use of Antabuse helps many individuals to overcome their desire for alcohol, Alcoholics Anonymous, by actual application of its principles stands first in the battle with alcoholism.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Anyone who can get his mind off the McCarthy dispute for just a minute should note a great debate of real importance to every citizen of America and the free world.

The key question is: How will the United States and its allies retaliate in case of a surprise attack by the Russians?

The issue was raised by Democratic leader Adlai Stevenson in his Miami speech, in which he questioned the interpretation of the Eisenhower administration's "new look" foreign and defense policies." It was further questioned by Canada's Secretary of State Lester B. Pearson in his recent speech before the National Press Club.

The original policy had been broadly stated by President Eisenhower before the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington last April. It was amplified in Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' speech before the Council on Foreign Relations in New York Jan. 14.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon replied to Stevenson's criticism of the policy in his broadcast March 12. President Eisenhower pin-pointed it further by his press conference statement that the United States would not be drawn into any war in Indo-China unless it was the result of a Constitutional declaration of war by Congress.

Secretary Dulles has now further refined all this by an article in the new issue of Foreign Affairs quarterly, and in his press conference statements. He emphasizes now that the important thing in U. S. defense policy is building up "the capacity" to retaliate as the best means to deter war.

Application of Politics

So much for the background of how this great debate has developed. What must come next is the practical application of these policies to particular circumstances.

The North Atlantic Treaty declares that an attack against one of the NATO countries shall be considered an attack against them all.

An attack on Washington, Ottawa, London or Paris could be met with instant retaliation by the U. S., Canada, the United Kingdom or France, alone, acting in self-defense. But the North Atlantic Treaty pledges each of other NATO countries to assist those attacked "by taking . . . such action as it deems necessary."

Under democratic government, no other course of action is possible.

There is a further area of uncertainty in the NATO treaty. If the attack came against western Europe, there could be instant and automatic retaliation by the NATO forces, for self-defense. If the attack came against western Germany, however, or against the middle-eastern countries which are not members of NATO, how the NATO forces would be used is not clear.

Atom Changes Defense Concepts

During the past year, while the Eisenhower administration has been developing its "new look" defense policies, the NATO command has also been making a new appraisal for what Secretary Dulles calls "the long haul."

This has been based on the realization that for the next few years, at least, the NATO countries will have smaller forces than they anticipated three years ago. But they will have greater strength in nuclear weapons. This changes the NATO concept of defense.

It also emphasizes the importance of having the European countries complete their ratification of the European Defense Community, which would bring German troops into the picture.

EDC is admittedly not the perfect solution for unified command under supra-national authority. But it is said to be the best solution now available.

For Russia's Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov made two things clear at the Berlin Big Four conference. Russia does not want NATO and EDC to succeed and Russia does not want western Germany rearmed.

These are some of the major problems confronting the NATO Council meeting which is scheduled to convene in Paris in early April, on NATO's fifth birthday.

Meaningless Cohn-Schine-Adams Dispute Viewed as Trap for GOP Leadership

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 24 — The Republican leadership in the Senate has allowed itself to be boxed in by the Democrats and the whole Cohn-Schine-Adams affair —which, in the end, will be found to be "much ado about nothing"— is having the effect of stopping investigations into the infiltration of Communist sympathizers into the various government departments under the Democratic administration.

When all the testimony has been taken and all the cross-examination has been concluded in the Cohn-Schine-Adams controversy, it will be found that no crime was committed by anybody. As for the issue of veracity between the two sides, it will prove to be the usual misinterpretations which sometimes occur when somebody tries to put on paper his recollection of conversations that took place over a period of many months before.

On its face, the so-called Army report has an ambiguous aspect which indicates clearly that much has been omitted concerning the regular business between the McCarthy committee and the Pentagon. An effort apparently has been made to give the impression in compiling the report that all that was talked about at various conferences was the giving to Pvt. Schine of a different assignment or some weekend passes. As for those who compiled the so-called Army report, their words sometimes give an impression which perhaps doesn't always take into account the facetious vein in which some of the conversations were doubtless carried on.

Although those who are trying to discredit Sen. McCarthy are emphasizing that there is an issue of truth-telling involving the Wisconsin Senator himself, it will be noted that many of the memoranda issued by Sen. McCarthy in reply to the Army's report were written by Francis Carr, who was for eleven years with the FBI and occupied a position of responsibility. Mr. Carr is trained in such things as truth-telling and court testimony under oath, and it was not Mr. McCarthy but Mr. Carr who wrote on Dec. 9, 1953:

"Again today John Adams (legal counsel for the Secretary of the Army) came down here after the hearings and, using clever phrases, tried to find out, 'What's there in it for us' if he and Stevens did something for Schine. He refers to Schine as our hostage or the hostage whenever his name comes up. I made it clear that, as far as I was concerned, I don't personally care what treatment they gave Schine, and that, as far as I was concerned, he was in the Army. I did say I thought it wasn't fair of them to take it out on Schine because we were investigating the Army, or to keep using it to try to stop our investigations. I told him the only contact we were authorized to have with him about Schine was on investigations committee business.

"My telling him this does no real good, as he constantly lumps together all his talk about Schine with suggestions that we stop holding hearings on the army. I am convinced that they will keep right on trying to blackmail us as long as Schine is in the army.

The foregoing will be sworn to by Mr. Carr. But it is also possible that his interpretation of the motive back of the conversations about Schine is as faulty as are some of the interpretive statements in the army's report.

Thus, on Dec. 10, 1953, in the army's document an emphasis is given to some things that really may have occupied much less attention at the time or could easily have been forgotten weeks later. The report says:

"At Sen. McCarthy's request, Secretary Stevens and Mr. Adams lunched with Sen. McCarthy and Mr. Francis Carr at the Carroll Arms. According to Mr. Carr, Mr. Cohn was too upset to attend the lunch because of the Pvt. Schine situation and the Army's unwillingness to settle on Pvt. Schine's future assignment, and had departed for New York immediately after the conclusion of the morning hearings."

Now what were the facts? Was this all they talked about at lunch? Mr. Cohn was upset, but about what? On that day, Mr. Cohn's father had suffered a heart attack and he rushed back to New York. Mr. Carr will doubtless have sworn testimony on what he did say to Mr. Adams about this.

Another portion of the Army report gives an altogether erroneous impression, for instance by omitting to give the details of what was actually discussed and leaving the inference that the subject talked about was the very one referred to in previous sections of the report. The Army's memorandum of Feb. 16, 1954, says:

"Mr. Carr stated that if the Army would be reasonable, probably the committee would be reasonable. Mr. Adams inquired how Mr. Carr thought that the Army should be 'reasonable' and Mr. Carr answered rather facetiously that, if the Army would only do all that had been requested of it, the Army's problems would be at an end."

Now, any person reading that section of the report would assume this was a reference to requests from committee staff members in the past concerning the treatment of Pvt. Schine. Actually the Schine matter had nothing to do with it. The subject under discussion was how to set up a meeting of the Senate subcommittee at which the Army would produce certain witnesses desired by the committee, and the issue was which side would try to meet the convenience of the other or try to satisfy the requests of the other. The reference did not concern the Schine situation, but many readers have jumped to the conclusion that here was a bit of bargaining on a matter relating to Schine's assignment or his treatment in the Army.

When all the facts are brought out in sworn testimony, the basis for the conflict will be readily understood and the whole episode will prove to have been given exaggerated importance.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Palm Beach, March 23—As I was rushing for the plane, a de luxe production which ran into heavy weather and lost an engine within the first hour, I bundled up a batch of mail which included further memoirs of Charlie Porter, the Rabelais of the era of wonderful nonsense in Denver.

This helped while away an extra 90 minutes which more than frustrated the dreams of some 66 gullible travelers of a flight on a magic carpet with coy sprites administering euphoria somewhere, 'twixt heaven and earth, off Hatteras. It is rub of the green and it were petty to mention the fact that the sprites ran out of ice cubes around Asbury Park and that when a lady in front of me rang for seconds, the siren in the jaunty cap said the limit was one to a customer.

The lady said no bird ever flew on one wing, but the motorman was carrying on a raucous crackle, on the speaking machine, reminiscent of the dry, gravelly voice of the late Hugh Johnson, and she dropped the discussion to try to piece together incoherent blurts about a storm, about the triviality of the engine trouble and the unfortunate delay which therefore must be put up with. Twice the phrase came through, "nothing to worry about." Once would have been enough, but the second call was excessive.

I confess my age when I recollect that some years ago when the Broadway and the Century were roaring from Chicago to New York and vice versa in 16 hours the railroads refunded a dollar for each hour of delay. They abandoned this affectation because de luxe passengers disdained to stand in line and fill out forms to claim a dollar or two, but it has occurred to me, and this time it occurred again, that the airlines might take better care of their engines if they had to pay back some of that first-class fare for Toonerville performance. As much too often is the case, we paid for four engines and settled for three with a burden of deadweight thrown on those surviving three quite early in the flight with no margin left if another one wearied out over the Atlantic on an uncommonly wild night.

Mr. Porter is a problem. He says that in his newspaper days he never was a "writer" but just a reporter who could put into terse and sensible words the plain fact that an unidentified man was found frozen to death in a Grand Trunk boxcar down in the yards.

He yearns for a book to be done by a "writer" on the harmless spontaneities of the inspired cult of kids, gentlemen of the finest instincts, even scholars, and bums of the lowest, who chased fire engines and stole family pictures off the walls of homes in Denver where disaster had struck. But nobody knows as many of these little things as Charlie Porter does and the veteran who never could "write" adorns them with an affection and a joy of recollection which imparts a quality of Dickens rewritten by one of the ribald Frenchmen.

Thus there was an incident at the Denver Press Club on a Thursday night, two days from pay-day, when a knee-sprung braggart came in picking his teeth with a quill bearing the stamp of the Manhattan cafe and boasting that a prospector from Cripple Creek with a pound of nuggets had bought him not only a Manhattan T-bone, as big as a bathmat, but an order of hothouse tomatoes as well. Mr. Porter said succinctly: "You are a liar."

However, that pleasanthy passed, nor did Charlie get to grips with the wretch until a third party pulled out a pint of Forty-Rod rye and the gourmet remarked offhand: "For a bet of a dollar, come pay-day, I can drink that halfway down without taking a breath."

Mr. Porter faded him and the issue was joined.

"He was within one last plug of winning that buck," Mr. Porter says, "when his eyes rolled up, his knees buckled, his gills turned green and he went down in an offensive heap. We called the police station and soon the patrol wagon came with a sergeant, a cop and a doctor. They put a stomach pump to work on this worthless scoundrel. I had never wavered in my firm conviction that he was deceiving us about this T-bone rare and hothouse tomatoes. Now I was vindicated. All that pump brought up was 15 cents worth of Chinese noodles."

I came to Palm Beach for the wedding of two cherished friends, Mrs. Frances Uihlein, of Milwaukee, to Bill Pfeiffer, our ambassador to the Dominican Republic, who somehow got elected to Congress as a Republican from the gashouse district on the east side of New York although he did not reside in the district nor, officially, in New York. I have been told by others that they share my unholy and almost irresistible impulse at weddings to profane the sacrament and create awful confusion by hollering "yes" when the question is put whether anyone present knows any reason why these twain should not be joined together.

But this was a subdued problem on this happy evening at the Everglades Club, for I was victim to a mischievous reminiscence from Charlie Porter which had lasted me well down below Jacksonville in the troublesome dark of the night before. Charles had recalled an outing among the south side speaks in the age of Al Capone when a sport writer among our group, a pudgy character but outspoken to an offensive degree, had somehow incurred a designing female with a horrible determination to espouse him.

ELECTION CONTRAST

Our election campaigns sometimes lack dignity, are over-long and boring. But with all their faults a quick look at how elections are conducted in the Soviet Union is enough to let us know how lucky we really are.

The New Yorker Magazine recently carried a description of how an election is held in Russia. Many of the trappings of our elections also play a part in Red elections. One thing is missing, however, without which any election is a farce. That is the right of a free choice between candidates and issues.

In the Soviet elections all candidates are hand picked by the party. A voter has only the choice of voting for that candidate or not voting for him. To not vote for a particular candidate a voter must take certain steps which are a tip-off to the authorities as to what is taking place.

The Communists hang out the flags on election day. There are bands and groups of election workers who try hard to get the people out to vote. One wonders about this sham, this spectacle without meaning, which is a part of the Soviet system of tyranny. What is its purpose? Do the leaders need assurance that they are popular with the masses, even though they must gain that assurance with rigged elections? Who knows? Americans only know that observation of the way the Reds conduct an election makes us feel a bit better about some of the faults which are apparent during our own campaigns.

Thieves robbed a Cleveland, Ohio, store of thirty cans of coffee. What can a store owner expect when he fails to lock the stuff in his safe with his other valuables?

RED FLANNELS

Are woolies going out? Once upon a time winter was the time for donning long underwear, preferably red flannel. These garments are still worn, but less commonly than once. In fact, so reduced has the market become that a Troy, N. Y., manufacturer, one of the chief sources for woolen underwear, has closed his plant.

One reason for this lessened demand is undoubtedly the increase in steam and hot water heating. Long underwear was all very well as long as the wearer spent most of his time outdoors in the cold. For office workers in buildings with plenty of artificial heat, it was just too much.

If red flannels go out of business entirely, this will end the time-honored query to a person in the spring, "Did you take them off too soon?"

After watching some of the drivers along the highways we wonder if that fellow way back there really did the human race a favor when he invented the wheel.

THE HATCH ACT

One of the strange bills which Congress occasionally gets but which fortunately are not as a rule taken seriously, has been introduced by Congressman Frank Small, Jr., of Maryland. He would amend the Hatch Act, which restricts the political activities of officeholders, almost out of existence. His measure would permit all government officials and employes "to take an active part in political management and political affairs."

This would undo practically all the advances made since the original Civil Service Act was passed in 1883. If the Small bill were enacted, no one but an active politician could get or hold a federal job. Letter carriers would find it desirable to solicit votes for the party which appointed them. Few citizens would think this is an improvement.

One reasonable assumption is that this bill did not originate from pressure from officeholders under civil service, clamoring to be subjected to the hazards of politics. It is meant to help those who would like to get political control of the non-political offices.

We have always admired many parking lot attendants. No one else can get two into the space that one held before.

Some people have a wonderful way with children. Among them are some who should learn the same with adults.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

THE LOSING BATTLE

Senator Alexander Wiley makes a point that should be obvious to all but is overlooked because historic changes are difficult to note at the time that they occur. He says:

". . . Let us first note that Soviet Russia has demonstrated that techniques of internal destruction are integral parts of its foreign policy. The U.S.S.R. has, in effect, revolutionized the entire intelligence and related fields in international relations. It has placed espionage on an assembly-line basis, graduating hundreds and thousands of agents, expertly trained as cadres in the interrelated skills of agitation, insurrection, espionage, sabotage, and subversion in countries throughout the world."

This has never occurred before in any country. Espionage used to be an art devoted to the single purpose of obtaining military secrets and policy plans. To "agitation, insurrection, espionage, sabotage and subversion" should be added "infiltration," which is the strongest weapon because it places directly inside a government agents of another government. The very existence of such a weapon has a damaging effect since literally everyone becomes suspicious of everyone else. The fact that there could be even one Alger Hiss, one Harry Dexter White, one William Remington lays all employes of government open to the prospect of screenings, investigations, clearances, etc. It is a demoralizing condition.

In a report prepared by the Committee on Foreign Relations with the assistance of the Library of Congress, dealing with the "Adequacy of United States Laws with Respect to Offenses Against National Security," from which the above quotation from Senator Wiley was taken, this idea is emphasized that while only a fraction of one per cent of those engaged in the British-American-Canadian atomic energy program were in a position to give Soviety Russia any vital information, the Russians got the information:

". . . But, the Soviet nework penetrated that tiny fraction of 1 per cent and achieved the remarkable feat of stealing crucial secrets through Klaus Fuchs, Bruno Pontecorvo, Alan Nunn May, and David Greenglass—all of whom possessed the variety of relatively rare requisites to secure valuable information about our atomic program."

When, therefore, it is suggested that all the investigations lead to nothing because they usually only turn up small men, the answer must be that who could have been more obscure than Julius Rosenberg or his brother-in-law, David Greenglass? Nevertheless, Rosenberg penetrated two of the most secret areas in the world, Los Alamos and Fort Monmouth; he arranged to place his cells in both organizations; he secured cover for his agents; got the stuff out; and prevented his agents from being caught. It was hoped that the Fort Monmouth investigation would produce the techniques of Rosenberg's operations. Congressional investigations may be a last opportunity to discover how an obscure personality like Julius Rosenberg could do so magnificent a job for his principals.

The Constitution in the current situation really protects traitors and it may one day be necessary to amend the Constitution to safeguard this country against the new weapons that the Soviety Universal State uses against us. This is the Constitutional definition of treason:

"Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court."

Neither Congress nor the courts may enlarge on this definition. That is why most traitors are convicted of perjury or not convicted at all. It is growing increasingly difficult to prove that a person is adhering to our enemies and if faced by the question, he need only take a plea under the Fifth Amendment and he is safe.

To prove by "two witnesses to the same overt act" is rarely possible, because the nature of this penetration is so complex and is directed by a vast international power that can order men from country to country, cause them to disappear as though they were dead, provide them with coverage or kill them as may be necessary. Corroborative witnesses thus become difficult to obtain. In the Alger Hiss case, this was a primary issue and finally a typewriter became a witness against a man.

Not all problems can be solved swiftly, by the twist of the wrist. This one requires thorough study. As of today, the agents of the Kremlin are not losing the battle of America.

That Body of Yours

RESULTS OF STUDY OF ALCOHOLISM

Civilization has come a long way when we see how our alcoholics are now treated by our governments and hospitals. Alcoholism is now recognized as a disease, although some people still think that quitting the habit is just a matter of will power. Physicians who have given alcoholism deep study are quite convinced that the great majority of these patients really desire to be free of alcoholism and its dire effects.

In the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. L. J. le Vann points out that foods of the citizens are carefully guarded and that the same care should be given to alcohol and its effects. The Yale school for the study of alcohol, which gathers up all that is being learned about alcohol, runs a summer session attended by those interested in helping their fellow man to conquer the liquor habit. I have mentioned before the excellent work being done by Alcoholics Anonymous as I have seen many of the men and women alcoholics now able to live a new life thanks to the patient work done by this organization. Closely associated with Alcoholics Anonymous in many countries is what is known as the Foundation for the Study of Alcoholism.

It is of general interest to learn of Dr. le Vann's definition of alcoholics. "Alcoholics are those excessive drinkers whose dependence upon alcohol has attained such a degree that it shows noticeable disturbance or an interference with their body or mental health and their personal relations and their smooth social and economical functioning or who show early signs of such development."

Dr. le Vann is Medical Superintendent, Provincial Training School, and Psychiatrist, Provincial Guidance Clinic, Red Deer, Alberta. What are his conclusions after studying the alcohol problem and its effects upon alcoholics? Despite all our governments are doing to help alcoholics, the alcoholic must first try to help himself. He states:

1. Our present-day culture encourages the individual to solve his problems by resorting to alcohol.

2. Alcoholics may be divided into two main groups; primary alcoholics, those whose personality shows little inner resources to combat problems and frustrations and, secondly, reactive alcoholics who show many signs of a neurosis (thinking they have an ailment of some kind yet no ailment is present).

Primary alcoholics respond most favorably to group treatment and reactive alcoholics, alcoholics who have been careless and allowed alcohol to get the better of them, respond best to individual treatment by a psychiatrist.

While the Danish treatment by use of Antabuse helps many individuals to overcome their desire for alcohol, Alcoholics Anonymous, by actual application of its principles stands first in the battle with alcoholism.

Edson's Washington News Notebook

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — Anyone who can get his mind off the McCarthy dispute for just a minute should note a great debate of real importance to every citizen of America and the free world.

The key question is: How will the United States and its allies retaliate in case of a surprise attack by the Russians?

The issue was raised by Democratic leader Adlai Stevenson in his Miami speech, in which he questioned the interpretation of the Eisenhower administration's "new look" foreign and defense policies." It was further questioned by Canada's Secretary of State Lester B. Pearson in his recent speech before the National Press Club.

The original policy had been broadly stated by President Eisenhower before the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington last April. It was amplified in Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' speech before the Council on Foreign Relations in New York Jan. 14.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon replied to Stevenson's criticism of the policy in his broadcast March 12. President Eisenhower pin-pointed it further by his press conference statement that the United States would not be drawn into any war in Indo-China unless it was the result of a Constitutional declaration of war by Congress.

Secretary Dulles has now further refined all this by an article in the new issue of Foreign Affairs quarterly, and in his press conference statements. He emphasizes now that the important thing in U. S. defense policy is building up "the capacity" to retaliate as the best means to deter war.

Application of Politics

So much for the background of how this great debate has developed. What must come next is the practical application of these policies to particular circumstances.

The North Atlantic Treaty declares that an attack against one of the NATO countries shall be considered an attack against them all.

An attack on Washington, Ottawa, London or Paris could be met with instant retaliation by the U. S., Canada, the United Kingdom or France, alone, acting in self-defense. But the North Atlantic Treaty pledges each of other NATO countries to assist those attacked "by taking . . . such action as it deems necessary."

Under democratic government, no other course of action is possible.

There is a further area of uncertainty in the NATO treaty. If the attack came against western Europe, there could be instant and automatic retaliation by the NATO forces, for self-defense. If the attack came against western Germany, however, or against the middle-eastern countries which are not members of NATO, how the NATO forces would be used is not clear.

Atom Changes Defense Concepts

During the past year, while the Eisenhower administration has been developing its "new look" defense policies, the NATO command has also been making a new appraisal for what Secretary Dulles calls "the long haul."

This has been based on the realization that for the next few years, at least, the NATO countries will have smaller forces than they anticipated three years ago. But they will have greater strength in nuclear weapons. This changes the NATO concept of defense.

It also emphasizes the importance of having the European countries complete their ratification of the European Defense Community, which would bring German troops into the picture.

EDC is admittedly not the perfect solution for unified command under supra-national authority. But it is said to be the best solution now available.

For Russia's Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov made two things clear at the Berlin Big Four conference. Russia does not want NATO and EDC to succeed and Russia does not want western Germany rearmed.

These are some of the major problems confronting the NATO Council meeting which is scheduled to convene in Paris in early April, on NATO's fifth birthday.

Meaningless Cohn-Schine-Adams Dispute Viewed as Trap for GOP Leadership

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 24 — The Republican leadership in the Senate has allowed itself to be boxed in by the Democrats and the whole Cohn-Schine-Adams affair —which, in the end, will be found to be "much ado about nothing"— is having the effect of stopping investigations into the infiltration of Communist sympathizers into the various government departments under the Democratic administration.

When all the testimony has been taken and all the cross-examination has been concluded in the Cohn-Schine-Adams controversy, it will be found that no crime was committed by anybody. As for the issue of veracity between the two sides, it will prove to be the usual misinterpretations which sometimes occur when somebody tries to put on paper his recollection of conversations that took place over a period of many months before.

On its face, the so-called Army report has an ambiguous aspect which indicates clearly that much has been omitted concerning the regular business between the McCarthy committee and the Pentagon. An effort apparently has been made to give the impression in compiling the report that all that was talked about at various conferences was the giving to Pvt. Schine of a different assignment or some weekend passes. As for those who compiled the so-called Army report, their words sometimes give an impression which perhaps doesn't always take into account the facetious vein in which some of the conversations were doubtless carried on.

Although those who are trying to discredit Sen. McCarthy are emphasizing that there is an issue of truth-telling involving the Wisconsin Senator himself, it will be noted that many of the memoranda issued by Sen. McCarthy in reply to the Army's report were written by Francis Carr, who was for eleven years with the FBI and occupied a position of responsibility. Mr. Carr is trained in such things as truth-telling and court testimony under oath, and it was not Mr. McCarthy but Mr. Carr who wrote on Dec. 9, 1953:

"Again today John Adams (legal counsel for the Secretary of the Army) came down here after the hearings and, using clever phrases, tried to find out, 'What's there in it for us' if he and Stevens did something for Schine. He refers to Schine as our hostage or the hostage whenever his name comes up. I made it clear that, as far as I was concerned, I don't personally care what treatment they gave Schine, and that, as far as I was concerned, he was in the Army. I did say I thought it wasn't fair of them to take it out on Schine because we were investigating the Army, or to keep using it to try to stop our investigations. I told him the only contact we were authorized to have with him about Schine was on investigations committee business.

"My telling him this does no real good, as he constantly lumps together all his talk about Schine with suggestions that we stop holding hearings on the army. I am convinced that they will keep right on trying to blackmail us as long as Schine is in the army.

The foregoing will be sworn to by Mr. Carr. But it is also possible that his interpretation of the motive back of the conversations about Schine is as faulty as are some of the interpretive statements in the army's report.

Thus, on Dec. 10, 1953, in the army's document an emphasis is given to some things that really may have occupied much less attention at the time or could easily have been forgotten weeks later. The report says:

"At Sen. McCarthy's request, Secretary Stevens and Mr. Adams lunched with Sen. McCarthy and Mr. Francis Carr at the Carroll Arms. According to Mr. Carr, Mr. Cohn was too upset to attend the lunch because of the Pvt. Schine situation and the Army's unwillingness to settle on Pvt. Schine's future assignment, and had departed for New York immediately after the conclusion of the morning hearings."

Now what were the facts? Was this all they talked about at lunch? Mr. Cohn was upset, but about what? On that day, Mr. Cohn's father had suffered a heart attack and he rushed back to New York. Mr. Carr will doubtless have sworn testimony on what he did say to Mr. Adams about this.

Another portion of the Army report gives an altogether erroneous impression, for instance by omitting to give the details of what was actually discussed and leaving the inference that the subject talked about was the very one referred to in previous sections of the report. The Army's memorandum of Feb. 16, 1954, says:

"Mr. Carr stated that if the Army would be reasonable, probably the committee would be reasonable. Mr. Adams inquired how Mr. Carr thought that the Army should be 'reasonable' and Mr. Carr answered rather facetiously that, if the Army would only do all that had been requested of it, the Army's problems would be at an end."

Now, any person reading that section of the report would assume this was a reference to requests from committee staff members in the past concerning the treatment of Pvt. Schine. Actually the Schine matter had nothing to do with it. The subject under discussion was how to set up a meeting of the Senate subcommittee at which the Army would produce certain witnesses desired by the committee, and the issue was which side would try to meet the convenience of the other or try to satisfy the requests of the other. The reference did not concern the Schine situation, but many readers have jumped to the conclusion that here was a bit of bargaining on a matter relating to Schine's assignment or his treatment in the Army.

When all the facts are brought out in sworn testimony, the basis for the conflict will be readily understood and the whole episode will prove to have been given exaggerated importance.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Palm Beach, March 23—As I was rushing for the plane, a de luxe production which ran into heavy weather and lost an engine within the first hour, I bundled up a batch of mail which included further memoirs of Charlie Porter, the Rabelais of the era of wonderful nonsense in Denver.

This helped while away an extra 90 minutes which more than frustrated the dreams of some 66 gullible travelers of a flight on a magic carpet with coy sprites administering euphoria somewhere, 'twixt heaven and earth, off Hatteras. Twice the phrase came through, "nothing to worry about." Once would have been enough, but the second call was excessive.

I confess my age when I recollect that some years ago when the Broadway and the Century were roaring from Chicago to New York and vice versa in 16 hours the railroads refunded a dollar for each hour of delay. They abandoned this affectation because de luxe passengers disdained to stand in line and fill out forms to claim a dollar or two, but it has occurred to me, and this time it occurred again, that the airlines might take better care of their engines if they had to pay back some of that first-class fare for Toonerville performance. As much too often is the case, we paid for four engines and settled for three with a burden of deadweight thrown on those surviving three quite early in the flight with no margin left if another one wearied out over the Atlantic on an uncommonly wild night.

Mr. Porter said succinctly: "You are a liar."

However, that pleasanthy passed, nor did Charlie get to grips with the wretch until a third party pulled out a pint of Forty-Rod rye and the gourmet remarked offhand: "For a bet of a dollar, come pay-day, I can drink that halfway down without taking a breath."

Mr. Porter faded him and the issue was joined.

"He was within one last plug of winning that buck," Mr. Porter says, "when his eyes rolled up, his knees buckled, his gills turned green and he went down in an offensive heap. We called the police station and soon the patrol wagon came with a sergeant, a cop and a doctor. They put a stomach pump to work on this worthless scoundrel. I had never wavered in my firm conviction that he was deceiving us about this T-bone rare and hothouse tomatoes. Now I was vindicated. All that pump brought up was 15 cents worth of Chinese noodles."

I came to Palm Beach for the wedding of two cherished friends, Mrs. Frances Uihlein, of Milwaukee, to Bill Pfeiffer, our ambassador to the Dominican Republic, who somehow got elected to Congress as a Republican from the gashouse district on the east side of New York although he did not reside in the district nor, officially, in New York. I have been told by others that they share my unholy and almost irresistible impulse at weddings to profane the sacrament and create awful confusion by hollering "yes" when the question is put whether anyone present knows any reason why these twain should not be joined together.

But this was a subdued problem on this happy evening at the Everglades Club, for I was victim to a mischievous reminiscence from Charlie Porter which had lasted me well down below Jacksonville in the troublesome dark of the night before. Dr. Myers said "if we have any reason to exist as the American Academy of General Practice, I believe it is primarily to bring the very best medical care at the very lowest possible cost to the most number of patients.

"It was Plato who said, 'For every good there are two evils, the extremes in the other direction.

"On the one hand we can become the picture which too often is called up as one visualizes the old family doctor—the kind-hearted gentleman who would drive 40 miles through rain or snow, and then not know just what to do when he got there.

"Too many doctors and particularly, perhaps, too many general practitioners, have felt that when they have patted the patient kindly on the head and dispensed large doses of humor and kindness, they have done their entire duty to the patient, forgetting there is not only an art but a science in the practice of medicine.

"So we come to the other extreme. We may become the thinking machine which does not see 'Nora Brown,' but sees only bed B in Ward 300.

"Somewhere in between those two groups stands the new man on the horizon of American medicine, the sincere, intelligent and I daresay dedicated practitioner."

Approve School Bills

Bills providing for 25 million dollars in emergency aid to public schools and creating a commission for a broad survey of educational financing were approved by the governor yesterday.

School systems will be given $13 for each pupil in daily attendance, figured on average attendance over the last three years, and $6.50 for each kindergarten youngster who attends only half-days.

Also among the 22 measures signed by the governor today were bills that:

Permit the governor to designate a state agency for coordination of relief to localities in the event of natural disaster.

Authorize the commissioner of motor vehicles to make up special license plates for automobiles assigned to the National Governors' Conference July 11-14 at Bolton Landing.

Reduce from $10 to $5 the additional annual registration fee for special license plates containing less than six numbers and letters.

Continue for another year, until March 31, 1955, the state's program of sharing 50-50 with counties in the cost of a campaign against rabid wild animals.

Salary Measure Unsigned

Still before the governor is a bill that would increase the annual salary of each member of the legislature from $5,000 to $7,500. With the pay raises for the four top officers, the total increase for elected officials would come to $565,000 a year.

The increase in school aid will mean that state assistance for education will have risen from 109 million dollars in 1945 to 325 million dollars by the end of the school year that begins next September.

Only 10 million of the 25 million dollars in emergency state aid will be ladled out in the fiscal year that begins April 1, because the state's fiscal year does not coincide with those of the various school systems.

The state will raise six million dollars toward the payments through an increase in its share of pari-mutuel wagers at harness race tracks.

A nine-member commission with $150,000 at it disposal will be set up for the study of public school financing that will cover a re-examination of the state aid formula, teachers' salaries and the long-range needs of the schools.

Rent Control Continues

Among the 14 bills Dewey signed yesterday were measures that:

Continue until July 1, 1955, the life of the temporary commission on rents.

Continue until April 1, 1956, the existence of the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

Provide that at least two physicians in private practice shall be on mental health boards established by localities.

Permit religious corporations to invest funds in real or personal property, inside or outside the state.

ing of the bid, that he could or did aid in bringing about the circumstance that it was the low bid, that he had any voice in the management of the corporations or proprietary or other interests in their assets or profits, or that he would profit any by award of the contract in question," Goldstein said.

"The law itself requires letting to the lowest responsible bidder after open competitive bidding," Goldstein added.

Only Bid

The Yonkers Contracting Co., on Nov. 5, 1953, was one of three firms that submitted bids for 3.2 miles of thruway construction in the city of Yonkers. Later, Mac Lea called upon the Moreland Act Commission probing harness racing to look into what he said were reports that Condon controlled the firm.

Mac Lea is chairman of the thruway committee of the Roman Catholic Church of St. John the Baptist in Yonkers. He has been a leader in a fight by certain local civic groups to switch the route of the thruway from Central avenue in the heart of the city to Tibbetts Brook Park, west of Yonkers.

Services and expenses of the revamped State Harness Racing Commission, $450,000.

Expense of registering non-religious charity solicitors as required by a bill Dewey is expected to sign, $20,000.

As Pegler Sees It

To all concerned this seemed a rather good idea at the time so they piled into a cab and drove to the home of a justice at Crown Point, Ind., where such traffic was part of the regular local commerce.

"They got the old bum out of bed," Mr. Potter relates, "and he got out his license-book, certificates and stuff and stood facing the happy couple in the parlor of his home.

"Our friend, Sam, was rocking on his heels but the broad grabbed him by the elbow and was a good bet to keep him on his feet until the judge gave them the business. The judge saw he had no time to lose and gave them a rush job.

"The judge said, 'Do you, Samuel, take this woman to be your lawful, wedded wife?' Sam gave first the broad and then the judge a bleary, myopic squint. Then he let out a roar. 'Hell no.' And the broad belted him one in the belly and they had to lay him on the judge's couch until morning."

Settlement Is Reached

White Plains, March 24 (AP)—An out-of-court settlement has been reached in the case of a woman who sued for $23,960 in back alimony from her husband who was legally declared dead in 1938 and turned up alive a year later, it was learned today. Supreme Court Justice Arthur D. Brennan termed the case a "novel and interesting situation" when he reserved decision Feb. 5 after hearing arguments on the motion for alimony. Since that time lawyers worked out a settlement, the details which were not disclosed, and Justice Brennan granted their application to withdraw the motion for alimony.

Easing in Business

Washington, March 24 (AP)—The Commerce Department says there was continued "gradual easing" in business activity the first two months of this year although the public had more buying power than a year ago. In its monthly survey of the business situation, the department said there was some shrinking of inventories—unsold stocks on the shelves of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers. Big inventories are blamed by the administration as chief cause of the business letdown. However, sales also were lower and total business inventories at the end of January were larger, in relation to sales, than during the third quarter of 1953.

Consumption of vodka in France increased about 50 per cent in 1953.

17 Institutions

A program of correctional training was established in 1953, financed from a special appropriation made by the Legislature on recommendation of the governor. Also, a youth correction council was formed, with Dr. Walter M. Wallack, warden of Wallkill Prison, as chairman.

The Department of Correction operates 17 institutions, including six prisons for men, one prison for women, four reformatories for men, two institutions for defective delinquents, two hospitals for the criminal insane and a reception center at Elmira for the study and classification of male offenders between the ages of 16 and 21. The women's prison is combined with a women's reformatory.

Notre Dame Graduate

Horan, who has been employed in welfare and correctional work for about 20 years, is a graduate of the Correctional Training Program of the University of Notre Dame and studied also at the School of Social Work, Columbia University. He has been field representative for the State Relief Administration, field worker for the Legislative Commission to investigate prison administration and more recently was director of youth bureaus for the State Youth Commission. During World War 2 he was an investigation officer in the Naval Air Service.

Licenses Ready, Dates Named for Racetracks

New York, March 24 (AP)—State Harness Racing Commissioner George P. Monaghan says he will soon issue 1954 licenses for racing at two tracks nearest New York city—Roosevelt Raceway at Westbury on Long Island and Yonkers Raceway.

The licenses, he said yesterday, will be "conditional" and will be issued "in a couple of days."

He said conditions of the licenses would be "in line with those recommended by the Moreland Act Commission."

The commission, which recently investigated state harness tracks, advised that certain individuals, including racketeers, not be permitted to hold stock in trotting associations or corporations which own the tracks.

Another condition suggested by the commission was that trotting associations should own the tracks where they meet.

Monaghan said the three associations that held meets at Yonkers and Roosevelt Raceways have applied for the following racing dates:

Yonkers Trotting Assn.—April 12 to May 22 and Aug. 16 to 28.

Old Country Trotting Assn.—May 24 to July 3 and Aug. 16 to 25.

Sprague Reelects Officers Tuesday

During the annual meeting of stockholders of the Sprague Electric Company Tuesday, all directors of the company were reelected, and Robert C. Sprague, founder and chairman of the board, was elected to the additional post of treasurer, succeeding George B. Flood. Flood has for many years had an important part in directing the financial affairs of the company, but for the past five years has been gradually passing on responsibilities looking toward his retirement. He had, however, elected to continue until certain important company projects, in which he had a special interest, had been completed.

Remains on Board

Flood remains as a member of the Board of Directors, and will make available his long experience in the company's affairs as a director-consultant.

Other officers and directors who were reelected at the meeting of the stockholders and at the meeting of the Board of Directors immediately following are Julian K. Sprague, president and director; Ernest L. Ward, executive vice-president and director; William J. Nolan, vice-president, secretary and director; Wilbur A. Lazier, vice-president and technical director; Neal W. Welch, vice-president in charge of sales; Preston Robinson, director-consultant; Frank A. Bond, director; Gordon W. Phelps, director; Harry C. Robbins, director; Robert C. Sprague, Jr., director.

Also reelected as assistant treasurers are Hollis R. Wagstaff and Paul J. Chittenden, who will assist Sprague in his added responsibility as treasurer. Reelected as assistant secretaries were Gordon W. Phelps and Mary E. Avery.

Preparedness Is Urged

Jerusalem, Israel Section, March 24 (AP)—Premier Moshe Sharett told Parliament today the tense situation along Israel's borders "now calls for the utmost preparedness and the strengthening of Israel's defense." He announced Israel was asking the United States, Britain and France to bring before the United Nations Security Council the Negev bus incident in which 11 Jews were killed by machinegunners a week ago. Israel blamed the killings on Jordan.

Docks Are Quiet Today

New York, March 24 (AP)—Quiet prevailed on New York's strife-torn waterfront early today. Pickets of a striking longshoreman's union marched peacefully in front of Manhattan piers, and there were no reports of any trouble elsewhere in the strikebound harbor. Yesterday there were numerous outbreaks of violence amid a slowly increasing back-to-work movement of cargo handlers.

Local Death Record

Martin Czyz

Funeral services for Martin Czyz of 298 Clinton avenue were held Tuesday at 2 p. m. from the Francis J. McCardle Funeral Home, 99 Henry street, with the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, DD, officiating. Burial took place in Montrepose Cemetery where the Rev. Dr. Gollnick conducted the committal.

Mrs. Margaret Hutton Cooper

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Hutton Cooper was held Tuesday at 2 p. m. from the Jenson and Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends together with a delegation from the Ulster County Highway Department. The Rev. Stanley Dean, rector of the Holy Cross Church, officiated both in the chapel and at Montrepose Cemetery where the burial took place. Monday at 8 p. m. members of Vanderlyn Council, Daughters of America, held ritualistic services for their departed member. Father Dean also called and held a short prayer service. Many members of the Ulster County Highway Department called to pay their respects. A beautiful floral display was banked about the casket in the funeral chapel.

Frank W. Rafferty

Frank W. Rafferty of 196 Main street died this morning at Benedictine Hospital. He was the son of the late Frank J. and Jane Kane Rafferty. Surviving are his wife, Gertrude A. Rafferty, a son, Frank J. Rafferty and a daughter, Catherine A. Rafferty, of this city. Also surviving is a brother, Edward D. Rafferty of Rochester. Mr. Rafferty was a plumbing and heating contractor for the past 22 years. Frank J. Rafferty, his son, was associated with him in business. He was a member of St. Joseph's Church and a member of the United Commercial Travelers. The funeral will be held from the F. Daniel Halloran Funeral Home 88 West Chester street, Saturday at 10:15 a. m. and at St. Joseph's Church at 11 a. m., where a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m. Wednesday through Friday. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Alfred A. Andersen

Saugerties, March 24—Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon for Alfred A. Andersen, long-time resident of the town of Saugerties who died early Saturday at his home in Fish Creek. Saugerties Memorial Post, 5034, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary conducted special services Monday night at the Hartley and Lamouree Funeral Home. Bernard E. McCutcheon, senior vice-commander and John J. Wood, chaplain of the post were in charge. The Rev. Theodore E. Hammer, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Atonement, conducted the services at the funeral home Tuesday afternoon. Members of the Lt. Charles A. Vroman Camp 129, United Spanish War Veterans of which Mr. Andersen was a charter member attended the ceremonies. The committal service at Mt. View Cemetery where burial took place was conducted by members of the American Legion, Lamouree-Hackett Post with Commander Leonard Gilmore and Chaplain Thomas Vaclavicek in charge. The bugler was Richard Thornton. The flag was presented to Mrs. Andersen. Bearers were Peter Williams, John Lowther, Thomas Vaclavicek, Arther Simmons, Leonard Gilmore and Nelson Van Bramer.

Leaves for Washington

New York, March 24 (AP)—Singer Dick Haymes, who yesterday was ordered deported to his native Argentina, left by plane today for Washington. The Justice Department issued the order on the ground he illegally re-entered the United States after going to Hawaii to visit actress Rita Hayworth, who since has become his wife. The purpose of Haymes' trip to Washington was not disclosed. Atty. Bartley Crum said yesterday Haymes would appeal the deportation order through the board of immigration appeals.

Guard Checks Cohn

Albany, March 24 (AP)—The New York National Guard is investigating the reserve service record of Roy Cohn, chief counsel to the McCarthy Senate Investigations subcommittee. Maj. John E. Kenny, public information officer of the State Division of Military and Naval Affairs, told newsmen yesterday that "a complete investigation and review" of Cohn's status was begun this week by an inspector general of the guard.

542 Are Discharged

Washington, March 24 (AP)—The army and air force reported today they have discharged 542 officers and men since May, 1949, as security risks in cases involving "loyalty connotations." With 48 similar separations reported previously by the navy, the figures brought to 590 the total of "loyalty" discharges among the shifting millions who have been in and out of the three services in the past five years.

Sawkill Grass Fire

The Sawkill fire department was called out to a grass fire at 12:07 p. m., and the Town of Ulster Hose Company was called out to another at 12:10 p. m.

Receives Discharge

DON F. COURSELLE

Radarman 2/c Don F. Courselle, son of Mrs. Elma Courselle of Rifton, has been honorably discharged from the U. S. Naval Receiving Station, Treasure Island, San Francisco, Calif., it was announced today.

Chavez Retains Seat

Washington, March 24 (AP)—A solid phalanx of Senate Democrats has turned back a Republican attempt to unseat veteran Sen. Chavez (D-N.M.) By so doing, they successfully defended their slim one-vote margin over the GOP in the Senate. All of Chavez' 47 Democratic colleagues joined with five Republicans and independent Sen. Morse of Oregon last night to defeat the ouster resolution, 53-36. Chavez did not vote. As a result, Chavez now has a firm hold on the Senate seat he has occupied since 1935 and the Democrats still outnumber the Republicans in the Senate, 48-47. Soundly beaten was a formal resolution declaring that the 1952 election in which Chavez outran Republican Patrick J. Hurley by about 5,000 votes was "no contest" and that Chavez' seat was vacant.

Scores Bitter Win

Rome, March 24 (AP)—Premier Mario Scelba's government won a bitter contest against Communist-Socialist opposition last night by forcing postponement of debate in Parliament on the explosive Wilma Montesi scandal until July 1. The Reds and fellow travelers, howling for the resignation of Scelba's center coalition on charges it is implicated in the mysterious death of the party girl, were beaten twice in Chamber of deputies voting last night.

Progress Is Reported

Kansas City, March 24 (AP)—Progress in developing an effective treatment for atomic radiation sickness was reported today to the American Chemical Society. Dr. R. K. Main of the United States Naval Radiological Defense Laboratory in San Francisco described the curing of radiation injury in mice by means of a "spleen protective factor."

Pope Goes for Ride

Vatican City, March 24 (AP)—Pope Pius XII took an automobile ride in the Vatican gardens today for the first time since he became gravely ill two months ago. This was the first time the Pope left his apartment in the Vatican Palace since Jan. 25.

About the Folks

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dunbar of Kingston spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Etta Buttles.

Mrs. Anna DuBois and daughter, Dorothy, of New York city spent the weekend here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Whittemore and daughter of White Plains spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Whittemore, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gladding of Richmond Hills were weekend guests of her brother, John Ostrander.

Mrs. Grace Marks had the misfortune to fall at her home Tuesday. She is a patient at the Kingston Hospital.

The regular meeting of the Town of Gardiner Civic Association will be held Monday evening, March 29, at the Fire House. All are invited to attend.

The Forest Glen Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. Edna Dugan Thursday. There were 11 members present and Mrs. Anna Donahue presided. A discussion on the available projects for the coming year was held. Plans were made for Demonstration Day at New Paltz May 17. Achievement Day will be held May 20.

At a recent meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Gardiner Fire Company; it was voted to discontinue the sending of cards announcing the regular meeting. The sum of $10 was voted for the Red Cross and a similar amount for the Kopaskie family of Plattekill. The auxiliary will sponsor a card party in May. The committee in charge of the party will be as follows: Chairman, Mrs. Lena Schiro, assisted by Mrs. Myron Wells, Mrs. Thomas Murphy, Mrs. Ivan Ostrander, Mrs. Joseph Pizzuto, Mrs. Theodore Lewis and Mrs. Carl Dommries.

Thankful for Arrest

Waterville, March 24 (AP)—At his arraignment on a charge of speeding, Richard C. Wolff of New York city turned to Deputy Sheriff Arthur Pughe and said: "I want to thank you. You may have saved my life and perhaps the lives of others. I had been to a sports show in Syracuse and was driving back home to attend another. I guess I just was not thinking. But thanks for arresting me. I guess I'm lucky you did." Peace Justice Basil Crandall fined Wolff $10.

Cite Rebel Loses

Hanoi, Indochina, March 24 (AP)—The French claimed today to have killed 184 Vietminh rebels and captured 85 others in beating off fresh harassing attacks on the vital rail and highway lines in the Red River Delta. The Communist-led Vietminh have stepped up these attacks the last few days in an obvious effort to divert French reinforcements from the beleaguered fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 24 (AP)—Stocks gave ground today in a rather moderate manner with spots of resistance to the decline appearing in scattered areas.

The decline was apparent from the start and carried into the early afternoon. Gains and losses with few exceptions were below a point with the emphasis on the losing side of the line.

Aircrafts behaved in a highly irregular manner. They were somewhat higher at the start and then dropped. A later recovery, however, brought on a mixed appearance. The aircrafts yesterday were higher most of the day and then fell sharply under late selling.

International Business Machines, which proposed to split its stock by issuing one-quarter share for each share held, jumped ahead 7 points to 300 immediately after the announcement.

The volume of business in the market was restrained as prices fell and came to less than yesterday's 2,180,000 shares.

President Gives

is usually an upturn in business in this month.

He said however, that he had not promised any immediate launching of large scale countermeasures by the government. Instead, he said, he had pledged a new examination of the problem which was causing real concern.

Cites War as Reason

He said that always after the end of war there was a drop in production, adding that employment went down at the same time.

He said unemployment has been rising since last July, but added that the reports for March are not all in.

One thing that is affecting the situation, the President said, is that Easter is late this year and the ladies just haven't been buying yet.

He said firmly, however, that nothing has yet developed which would call for a slam bang emergency program being applied at this moment.

Precipitate action might actually upset the situation rather than help it, Eisenhower declared.

Considering All Programs

But he said almost every conceivable kind of program is under consideration and study.

As to McCarthy, the President was asked his opinion of the senator's stand that he would not vote on matters related to his investigations subcommittee's inquiry into his dispute with army officials but would insist on the right to cross examine witnesses.

Eisenhower declined to express a specific opinion on that, but he said he was ready to go on record as to the general situation.

Shouldn't Be Judge

Then he declared:

When a man is party to a dispute in America—directly or indirectly—he should not be permitted to sit in judgment.

McCarthy, asked at the capitol for comment on the President's statement, said "I don't see there's any issue between us. We agree with each other completely."

Decided Before, He says

McCarthy added:

"It was decided long ago, that I would not vote on these matters. I'm not sitting in judgment.

"I might add that I think the American people are getting awfully sick of this idea of holding up the work of an important committee because of the blown-up squabble involving Cohn and Adams."

Roy Cohn is counsel to McCarthy's Senate Investigations Subcommittee and John Adams is counsel for the Department of the Army. Both are involved in the current dispute along with McCarthy and Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens.

Agrees to Step Aside

McCarthy has agreed to step aside as a member of the Senate Investigating Subcommittee when it looks into his charges that Army officials tried to "blackmail" the group into dropping an investigation of alleged Communists on the Army rolls.

But the senator has insisted he should be permitted to cross-examine Army witnesses, and that Army officials should be permitted to cross-examine him when he takes the witness chair.

The President was asked for his evaluation of McCarthy's position that he would give up his right to vote on the committee but would insist on cross examining witnesses.

Eisenhower said he had no feeling in any particular situation, that these were technicalities in which he could not concern himself.

On other matters, the President:

Said, regarding the tense situation in Indochina, it is important to the free world to have a settlement there in favor of those who want to live their own lives against Communist aggression.

Said there is no change in the United States attitude regarding Red China, in connection with the conference to be held at Geneva next month. Red China will be represented there, but not as one of the main consulting powers. The U. S. so far has refused to recognize Communist China on that basis.

All Surprised

Declared that the effects of the recent hydrogen blast in the Pacific apparently were surprising even to the Americans who conducted the tests. The President said things happened at the test which apparently hadn't happened before.

Warmly praised House Republicans who led a successful fight last week against a Democratic move to cut personal income taxes.

Said British Prime Minister Winston Churchill was entirely accurate in telling the House of Commons yesterday that the United States and Britain have arranged for instant consultations in the event of any attack by an aggressor.

Drew Professor Is To Speak Sunday In Stone Ridge

Dr. Franz Hildebrandt will be the speaker at the churches of the Stone Ridge Methodist Church, Kripplebush, Accord and Stone Ridge, Sunday, March 28.

Now a professor of theology at Drew Theological Seminary at Madison, N. J., Dr. Hildebrandt entered the Methodist ministry in 1946 and since 1951 until September 1, 1953, he served in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Dr. Hildebrandt was born in Germany where he later entered the German Lutheran ministry during the early days of the Nazi regime. Following a short assistantship under Martin Niemoller and later imprisonment by the Nazis, he went to Cambridge, England, where he served a German Lutheran refugee congregation.

The services on Sunday, Kripplebush at 8:45 a. m., Accord 10 a. m. and Stone Ridge, 11:15 a. m., are open to the public, the Rev. Malcolm E. Shattuck, pastor, has announced.

Special Plates $5

Albany, March 24 (AP)—Motorists who want to flash a distinctive license plate next year need pay only $5 more than the regular registration fee, Gov. Dewey guaranteed today. He signed into law a measure reducing the $10 fee fixed by the Legislature last year. Dewey also approved a measure authorizing special plates for cars assigned to the governors' Conference July 11-14 at Bolton Landing. The tags for the governors of 48 states and five territories will sport their names and their states during the conference.

Sprague Reelects Officers Tuesday

During the annual meeting of stockholders of the Sprague Electric Company Tuesday, all directors of the company were reelected, and Robert C. Sprague, founder and chairman of the board, was elected to the additional post of treasurer, succeeding George B. Flood. Flood has for many years had an important part in directing the financial affairs of the company, but for the past five years has been gradually passing on responsibilities looking toward his retirement. He had, however, elected to continue until certain important company projects, in which he had a special interest, had been completed.

Remains on Board

Flood remains as a member of the Board of Directors, and will make available his long experience in the company's affairs as a director-consultant.

Other officers and directors who were reelected at the meeting of the stockholders and at the meeting of the Board of Directors immediately following are Julian K. Sprague, president and director; Ernest L. Ward, executive vice-president and director; William J. Nolan, vice-president, secretary and director; Wilbur A. Lazier, vice-president and technical director; Neal W. Welch, vice-president in charge of sales; Preston Robinson, director-consultant; Frank A. Bond, director; Gordon W. Phelps, director; Harry C. Robbins, director; Robert C. Sprague, Jr., director.

Also reelected as assistant treasurers are Hollis R. Wagstaff and Paul J. Chittenden, who will assist Sprague in his added responsibility as treasurer. Reelected as assistant secretaries were Gordon W. Phelps and Mary E. Avery.

Preparedness Is Urged

Jerusalem, Israel Section, March 24 (AP)—Premier Moshe Sharett told Parliament today the tense situation along Israel's borders "now calls for the utmost preparedness and the strengthening of Israel's defense." He announced Israel was asking the United States, Britain and France to bring before the United Nations Security Council the Negev bus incident in which 11 Jews were killed by machinegunners a week ago. Israel blamed the killings on Jordan.

Local Death Record

Martin Czyz

Funeral services for Martin Czyz of 298 Clinton avenue were held Tuesday at 2 p. m. from the Francis J. McCardle Funeral Home, 99 Henry street, with the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, DD, officiating. Burial took place in Montrepose Cemetery where the Rev. Dr. Gollnick conducted the committal.

Mrs. Margaret Hutton Cooper

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Hutton Cooper was held Tuesday at 2 p. m. from the Jenson and Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends together with a delegation from the Ulster County Highway Department. The Rev. Stanley Dean, rector of the Holy Cross Church, officiated both in the chapel and at Montrepose Cemetery where the burial took place. Monday at 8 p. m. members of Vanderlyn Council, Daughters of America, held ritualistic services for their departed member. Father Dean also called and held a short prayer service. Many members of the Ulster County Highway Department called to pay their respects. A beautiful floral display was banked about the casket in the funeral chapel.

Frank W. Rafferty

Frank W. Rafferty of 196 Main street died this morning at Benedictine Hospital. He was the son of the late Frank J. and Jane Kane Rafferty. Surviving are his wife, Gertrude A. Rafferty, a son, Frank J. Rafferty and a daughter, Catherine A. Rafferty, of this city. Also surviving is a brother, Edward D. Rafferty of Rochester. Mr. Rafferty was a plumbing and heating contractor for the past 22 years. Frank J. Rafferty, his son, was associated with him in business. He was a member of St. Joseph's Church and a member of the United Commercial Travelers. The funeral will be held from the F. Daniel Halloran Funeral Home 88 West Chester street, Saturday at 10:15 a. m. and at St. Joseph's Church at 11 a. m., where a high Mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Friends may call at the funeral home from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p. m. Wednesday through Friday. Burial will be in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Alfred A. Andersen

Saugerties, March 24—Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon for Alfred A. Andersen, long-time resident of the town of Saugerties who died early Saturday at his home in Fish Creek. Saugerties Memorial Post, 5034, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary conducted special services Monday night at the Hartley and Lamouree Funeral Home. Bernard E. McCutcheon, senior vice-commander and John J. Wood, chaplain of the post were in charge. The Rev. Theodore E. Hammer, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Atonement, conducted the services at the funeral home Tuesday afternoon. Members of the Lt. Charles A. Vroman Camp 129, United Spanish War Veterans of which Mr. Andersen was a charter member attended the ceremonies. The committal service at Mt. View Cemetery where burial took place was conducted by members of the American Legion, Lamouree-Hackett Post with Commander Leonard Gilmore and Chaplain Thomas Vaclavicek in charge. The bugler was Richard Thornton. The flag was presented to Mrs. Andersen. Bearers were Peter Williams, John Lowther, Thomas Vaclavicek, Arther Simmons, Leonard Gilmore and Nelson Van Bramer.

Leaves for Washington

New York, March 24 (AP)—Singer Dick Haymes, who yesterday was ordered deported to his native Argentina, left by plane today for Washington. The Justice Department issued the order on the ground he illegally re-entered the United States after going to Hawaii to visit actress Rita Hayworth, who since has become his wife. The purpose of Haymes' trip to Washington was not disclosed. Atty. Bartley Crum said yesterday Haymes would appeal the deportation order through the board of immigration appeals.

Guard Checks Cohn

Albany, March 24 (AP)—The New York National Guard is investigating the reserve service record of Roy Cohn, chief counsel to the McCarthy Senate Investigations subcommittee. Maj. John E. Kenny, public information officer of the State Division of Military and Naval Affairs, told newsmen yesterday that "a complete investigation and review" of Cohn's status was begun this week by an inspector general of the guard.

542 Are Discharged

Washington, March 24 (AP)—The army and air force reported today they have discharged 542 officers and men since May, 1949, as security risks in cases involving "loyalty connotations." With 48 similar separations reported previously by the navy, the figures brought to 590 the total of "loyalty" discharges among the shifting millions who have been in and out of the three services in the past five years.

Sawkill Grass Fire

The Sawkill fire department was called out to a grass fire at 12:07 p. m., and the Town of Ulster Hose Company was called out to another at 12:10 p. m.

The Joiners

News of Interest to Fraternal Organizations

A regular meeting of Clinton Chapter, 445, OES, will be held Friday at 8 p. m. at Masonic Temple. Initiation of new members will take place and a business meeting will follow. Following the meeting, a covered dish supper will be held. Each member is requested to bring an item of food. Rolls, beverages and dessert will be furnished by the chapter.

Ancient Youngster

This well preserved body of a child, about 10 years old at death and thought to be 400 years old by anthropologists, was found in an ice-covered cave 20,000 feet above sea level in the Andes near Santiago, Chile. (NEA Telephoto).

Receives Discharge

DON F. COURSELLE

Radarman 2/c Don F. Courselle, son of Mrs. Elma Courselle of Rifton, has been honorably discharged from the U. S. Naval Receiving Station, Treasure Island, San Francisco, Calif., it was announced today.

Chavez Retains Seat

Washington, March 24 (AP)—A solid phalanx of Senate Democrats has turned back a Republican attempt to unseat veteran Sen. Chavez (D-N.M.) By so doing, they successfully defended their slim one-vote margin over the GOP in the Senate. All of Chavez' 47 Democratic colleagues joined with five Republicans and independent Sen. Morse of Oregon last night to defeat the ouster resolution, 53-36. Chavez did not vote. As a result, Chavez now has a firm hold on the Senate seat he has occupied since 1935 and the Democrats still outnumber the Republicans in the Senate, 48-47. Soundly beaten was a formal resolution declaring that the 1952 election in which Chavez outran Republican Patrick J. Hurley by about 5,000 votes was "no contest" and that Chavez' seat was vacant.

Scores Bitter Win

Rome, March 24 (AP)—Premier Mario Scelba's government won a bitter contest against Communist-Socialist opposition last night by forcing postponement of debate in Parliament on the explosive Wilma Montesi scandal until July 1. The Reds and fellow travelers, howling for the resignation of Scelba's center coalition on charges it is implicated in the mysterious death of the party girl, were beaten twice in Chamber of deputies voting last night.

Progress Is Reported

Kansas City, March 24 (AP)—Progress in developing an effective treatment for atomic radiation sickness was reported today to the American Chemical Society. Dr. R. K. Main of the United States Naval Radiological Defense Laboratory in San Francisco described the curing of radiation injury in mice by means of a "spleen protective factor."

Pope Goes for Ride

Vatican City, March 24 (AP)—Pope Pius XII took an automobile ride in the Vatican gardens today for the first time since he became gravely ill two months ago. This was the first time the Pope left his apartment in the Vatican Palace since Jan. 25.

About the Folks

Harold A. Hyatt of 198 Ten Broeck avenue, who has been a patient at Kingston Hospital, has returned to his home where it is reported he will convalesce for the next several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Schoonmaker, Sr. have moved to their new home on Broad street, West Hurley.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Farnham of Highland were guests Sunday of her sister, Mrs. Grace DuBois.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rizzuto spent a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs. John Saboriese of New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boyle are spending some time with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McNally, of Milford, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. James Doyle of Richmond Hills spent the weekend at their home on the Mountain Road.

Mrs. Ethel Williamson of Walden was a weekend guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boland.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Dunbar of Kingston spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Etta Buttles.

Mrs. Anna DuBois and daughter, Dorothy, of New York city spent the weekend here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Whittemore and daughter of White Plains spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Whittemore, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gladding of Richmond Hills were weekend guests of her brother, John Ostrander.

Mrs. Grace Marks had the misfortune to fall at her home Tuesday. She is a patient at the Kingston Hospital.

The regular meeting of the Town of Gardiner Civic Association will be held Monday evening, March 29, at the Fire House. All are invited to attend.

The Forest Glen Home Bureau met at the home of Mrs. Edna Dugan Thursday. There were 11 members present and Mrs. Anna Donahue presided. A discussion on the available projects for the coming year was held. Plans were made for Demonstration Day at New Paltz May 17. Achievement Day will be held May 20.

At a recent meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Gardiner Fire Company; it was voted to discontinue the sending of cards announcing the regular meeting. The sum of $10 was voted for the Red Cross and a similar amount for the Kopaskie family of Plattekill. The auxiliary will sponsor a card party in May. The committee in charge of the party will be as follows: Chairman, Mrs. Lena Schiro, assisted by Mrs. Myron Wells, Mrs. Thomas Murphy, Mrs. Ivan Ostrander, Mrs. Joseph Pizzuto, Mrs. Theodore Lewis and Mrs. Carl Dommries.

Thankful for Arrest

Waterville, March 24 (AP)—At his arraignment on a charge of speeding, Richard C. Wolff of New York city turned to Deputy Sheriff Arthur Pughe and said: "I want to thank you. You may have saved my life and perhaps the lives of others. I had been to a sports show in Syracuse and was driving back home to attend another. I guess I just was not thinking. But thanks for arresting me. I guess I'm lucky you did." Peace Justice Basil Crandall fined Wolff $10.

Cite Rebel Loses

Hanoi, Indochina, March 24 (AP)—The French claimed today to have killed 184 Vietminh rebels and captured 85 others in beating off fresh harassing attacks on the vital rail and highway lines in the Red River Delta. The Communist-led Vietminh have stepped up these attacks the last few days in an obvious effort to divert French reinforcements from the beleaguered fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

Financial and Commercial

New York, March 24 (AP)—Stocks gave ground today in a rather moderate manner with spots of resistance to the decline appearing in scattered areas.

The decline was apparent from the start and carried into the early afternoon. Gains and losses with few exceptions were below a point with the emphasis on the losing side of the line.

Aircrafts behaved in a highly irregular manner. They were somewhat higher at the start and then dropped. A later recovery, however, brought on a mixed appearance. The aircrafts yesterday were higher most of the day and then fell sharply under late selling.

International Business Machines, which proposed to split its stock by issuing one-quarter share for each share held, jumped ahead 7 points to 300 immediately after the announcement.

The volume of business in the market was restrained as prices fell and came to less than yesterday's 2,180,000 shares.

President Gives

is usually an upturn in business in this month.

He said however, that he had not promised any immediate launching of large scale countermeasures by the government. Instead, he said, he had pledged a new examination of the problem which was causing real concern.

Cites War as Reason

He said that always after the end of war there was a drop in production, adding that employment went down at the same time.

He said unemployment has been rising since last July, but added that the reports for March are not all in.

One thing that is affecting the situation, the President said, is that Easter is late this year and the ladies just haven't been buying yet.

He said firmly, however, that nothing has yet developed which would call for a slam bang emergency program being applied at this moment.

Precipitate action might actually upset the situation rather than help it, Eisenhower declared.

Considering All Programs

But he said almost every conceivable kind of program is under consideration and study.

As to McCarthy, the President was asked his opinion of the senator's stand that he would not vote on matters related to his investigations subcommittee's inquiry into his dispute with army officials but would insist on the right to cross examine witnesses.

Eisenhower declined to express a specific opinion on that, but he said he was ready to go on record as to the general situation.

Shouldn't Be Judge

Then he declared:

When a man is party to a dispute in America—directly or indirectly—he should not be permitted to sit in judgment.

McCarthy, asked at the capitol for comment on the President's statement, said "I don't see there's any issue between us. We agree with each other completely."

Decided Before, He says

McCarthy added:

"It was decided long ago, that I would not vote on these matters. I'm not sitting in judgment.

"I might add that I think the American people are getting awfully sick of this idea of holding up the work of an important committee because of the blown-up squabble involving Cohn and Adams."

Roy Cohn is counsel to McCarthy's Senate Investigations Subcommittee and John Adams is counsel for the Department of the Army. Both are involved in the current dispute along with McCarthy and Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens.

Agrees to Step Aside

McCarthy has agreed to step aside as a member of the Senate Investigating Subcommittee when it looks into his charges that Army officials tried to "blackmail" the group into dropping an investigation of alleged Communists on the Army rolls.

But the senator has insisted he should be permitted to cross-examine Army witnesses, and that Army officials should be permitted to cross-examine him when he takes the witness chair.

The President was asked for his evaluation of McCarthy's position that he would give up his right to vote on the committee but would insist on cross examining witnesses.

Eisenhower said he had no feeling in any particular situation, that these were technicalities in which he could not concern himself.

On other matters, the President:

Said, regarding the tense situation in Indochina, it is important to the free world to have a settlement there in favor of those who want to live their own lives against Communist aggression.

Said there is no change in the United States attitude regarding Red China, in connection with the conference to be held at Geneva next month. Red China will be represented there, but not as one of the main consulting powers. The U. S. so far has refused to recognize Communist China on that basis.

All Surprised

Declared that the effects of the recent hydrogen blast in the Pacific apparently were surprising even to the Americans who conducted the tests. The President said things happened at the test which apparently hadn't happened before.

Warmly praised House Republicans who led a successful fight last week against a Democratic move to cut personal income taxes.

Said British Prime Minister Winston Churchill was entirely accurate in telling the House of Commons yesterday that the United States and Britain have arranged for instant consultations in the event of any attack by an aggressor.

Drew Professor Is To Speak Sunday In Stone Ridge

Dr. Franz Hildebrandt will be the speaker at the churches of the Stone Ridge Methodist Church, Kripplebush, Accord and Stone Ridge, Sunday, March 28.

Now a professor of theology at Drew Theological Seminary at Madison, N. J., Dr. Hildebrandt entered the Methodist ministry in 1946 and since 1951 until September 1, 1953, he served in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Dr. Hildebrandt was born in Germany where he later entered the German Lutheran ministry during the early days of the Nazi regime. Following a short assistantship under Martin Niemoller and later imprisonment by the Nazis, he went to Cambridge, England, where he served a German Lutheran refugee congregation.

The services on Sunday, Kripplebush at 8:45 a. m., Accord 10 a. m. and Stone Ridge, 11:15 a. m., are open to the public, the Rev. Malcolm E. Shattuck, pastor, has announced.

Special Plates $5

Albany, March 24 (AP)—Motorists who want to flash a distinctive license plate next year need pay only $5 more than the regular registration fee, Gov. Dewey guaranteed today. He signed into law a measure reducing the $10 fee fixed by the Legislature last year. Dewey also approved a measure authorizing special plates for cars assigned to the governors' Conference July 11-14 at Bolton Landing. The tags for the governors of 48 states and five territories will sport their names and their states during the conference.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

While reading of late of the extraordinary and totally unexpected results from the March first hydrogen-bomb test, the Ruminator was reminded of a contrary thought expressed frequently over the past two or three years.

The thought expressed has been this: That peace is bullish, not bearish.

Perhaps this assertion should be qualified and defined a little. What I have in mind is that when a long-term peace appears in prospect, it will be bullish and not bearish.

Where the hydrogen-bomb explosion ties in with the "peace theory" is that the devastation now to be counted upon from these terrifying weapons is almost an assurance againt a world war soon flaring up.

Nations will literally be too scared to start a conflict in which they think the United States might become involved — and if involved will use so-called hydrogen weapons. We seem to be spelling it out plainly for the world to read just what the "New Look" in warfare and in U. S. defense strategy means. And further reports and details will be fed to the world as the months pass. It will be made cear — as reports and rumors from the Far East are now dramatizing — what it will mean for the United States to adopt the "instant retaliation policy" which includes various forms of atomic and hydrogen weapons.

What will this mean to our economic prospects?

As suggested above, instead of these further deterrents to war meaning that the economy will slide backward—because of any loss of defense business — the Ruminator believes you will see a renewed surge in business and in public buying.

Spending money comes from free minds. By that I mean minds freed from fears of a depression. War has been overhanging us for the past 12 to 15 years. People have spent money, yes, but their spending has been motivated by fears of shortages (during wartime) and fear of inflation. We have yet to experience, since World War 2, what you might call "natural" or normal spending. Which is to say, spending by both business and people for normal usage and luxury.

Industries, today, as we learn from the business press, are going all out in their researches and development of new goods and products. New technological methods are being installed that will cut costs while at the same time they will improve the products in question.

For the first time in many years industries can turn their concentrated attention from the development of new mechanical devices for war to new mechanical devices for serving the American manufacturer and consumer.

At the same time, the public generally (barring those presently unemployed) is regaining a sense of security in normal peacetime pursuits.

The Ruminator hazards the guess that as soon as the current wave of recession talk subsides—and it will subside as business fails to sink into a slump—you will find a tremendous enthusiasm for the new goods and services offered by industry. There are already encouraging reports of sales improvement in many lines.

The automobile situation is an interesting example. Squarely in the face of repeated gloomy forebodings of an auto slump we learn that sales have picked up surprisingly. What is more, automobile buyers are demanding the luxury models in all cars! It isn't the low-priced models that buyers are ordering. No indeed. They order the fancy, de luxe jobs. They want all the trimmings, all the automatic features, regardless of the extra hundreds of dollars tacked on the price. Manufacturers report throughout the industry that it is their luxury lines that are selling; not the lower cost, stripped-down models. I am speaking percentagewise now. All models of cars are selling, but the luxury jobs with the extras lead by a wide margin.

This is indicative, in my mind, of the "spirit" or sentiment that prevails. I think you will see this sentiment toward "better living" reflected more and more as world conditions become less critical.

All these factors—war, peace, prosperity or recession — become psychologically important. It is the Ruminator's view, as you know, that we do not give enough attention to the human side of economics. The human figure is more important than the statistical figure in guessing trends.

The present London Bridge is is still called New London Bridge although it is 123 years old.

Shokan

Shokan, March 23 — Sunday travel over the Onteora Trail and the Ashokan reservoir roads was fairly heavy despite the nipping wind and snow flurries. Skiers visited the mountain trails in considerable number though icy conditions made the sport somewhat hazardous.

Old School Baptist services are being held this winter at the home of Deacon Edward Adsit adjoining the meetinghouse grounds. Elder Amasa Slawson of Cedar street, Kingston, is the preacher upon these occasions.

Mrs. William V. Giles, Poughkeepsie woman who died recently at the age of 80, had a number of friends here. The former Ida Elmendorf was one of the few remaining persons who had been born and brought up near the present Shokan village center. She was the sister-in-law of Elizabeth Giles and Mrs. William Wardell.

Callers in the hub of the reservoir country Sunday included James Ashton, Klingsburg avenue contractor who was accompanied by Mrs. Thomas Ashton and the latter's twin sister, Mrs. Hotaling.

Having a birthday Thursday, March 25, is Robert Haver, local garage proprietor and Olive Democratic committeeman. Bob was born at Samsonville, son of Fred and Ethel (Barley) Haver who now reside at Ashokan. He is married to the former Lorraina Tweedy of Olive Bridge.

Neighboring Greene county is having another rabies scare according to the Examiner-Recorder. Infected animals killed recently include two foxes and a raccoon. The 'coon was killed by Charlie Simpson with a shovel after it had attacked him in the barn. The epidemic apparently is due to foxes which periodically migrate from Schoharie county to the Round Top and Cairo areas of Greene.

Mrs. Frank Lynch of Woodstock was a caller in the village Saturday. Mrs. Lynch planned to spend the weekend with relatives in Mt. Vernon.

There is no evidence of race suicide among the goats at George Hauser's place on the trail. George, a reservoir department employe who keeps a few of these interesting animals as a profitable hobby, reports his flock (or herd, whichever) has been augmented by quadruplets, triplets and twins.

John L. Sullivan defended his title only once under Marquis of Queensbury rules, losing the title to James J. Corbett in 1892.

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

While reading of late of the extraordinary and totally unexpected results from the March first hydrogen-bomb test, the Ruminator was reminded of a contrary thought expressed frequently over the past two or three years.

The thought expressed has been this: That peace is bullish, not bearish.

Perhaps this assertion should be qualified and defined a little. What I have in mind is that when a long-term peace appears in prospect, it will be bullish and not bearish.

Where the hydrogen-bomb explosion ties in with the "peace theory" is that the devastation now to be counted upon from these terrifying weapons is almost an assurance againt a world war soon flaring up.

Nations will literally be too scared to start a conflict in which they think the United States might become involved — and if involved will use so-called hydrogen weapons. We seem to be spelling it out plainly for the world to read just what the "New Look" in warfare and in U. S. defense strategy means. And further reports and details will be fed to the world as the months pass. It will be made cear — as reports and rumors from the Far East are now dramatizing — what it will mean for the United States to adopt the "instant retaliation policy" which includes various forms of atomic and hydrogen weapons.

What will this mean to our economic prospects?

As suggested above, instead of these further deterrents to war meaning that the economy will slide backward—because of any loss of defense business — the Ruminator believes you will see a renewed surge in business and in public buying.

Spending money comes from free minds. By that I mean minds freed from fears of a depression. War has been overhanging us for the past 12 to 15 years. People have spent money, yes, but their spending has been motivated by fears of shortages (during wartime) and fear of inflation. We have yet to experience, since World War 2, what you might call "natural" or normal spending. Which is to say, spending by both business and people for normal usage and luxury.

Industries, today, as we learn from the business press, are going all out in their researches and development of new goods and products. New technological methods are being installed that will cut costs while at the same time they will improve the products in question.

For the first time in many years industries can turn their concentrated attention from the development of new mechanical devices for war to new mechanical devices for serving the American manufacturer and consumer.

At the same time, the public generally (barring those presently unemployed) is regaining a sense of security in normal peacetime pursuits.

The Ruminator hazards the guess that as soon as the current wave of recession talk subsides—and it will subside as business fails to sink into a slump—you will find a tremendous enthusiasm for the new goods and services offered by industry. There are already encouraging reports of sales improvement in many lines.

The automobile situation is an interesting example. Squarely in the face of repeated gloomy forebodings of an auto slump we learn that sales have picked up surprisingly. What is more, automobile buyers are demanding the luxury models in all cars! It isn't the low-priced models that buyers are ordering. No indeed. They order the fancy, de luxe jobs. They want all the trimmings, all the automatic features, regardless of the extra hundreds of dollars tacked on the price. Manufacturers report throughout the industry that it is their luxury lines that are selling; not the lower cost, stripped-down models. I am speaking percentagewise now. All models of cars are selling, but the luxury jobs with the extras lead by a wide margin.

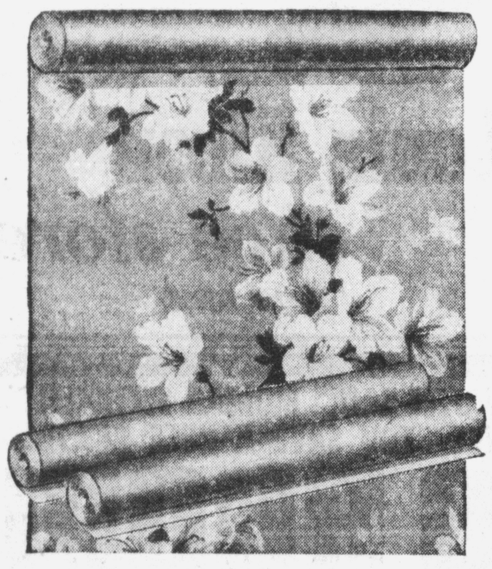

This is indicative, in my mind, of the "spirit" or sentiment that prevails. I think you will see this sentiment toward "better living" reflected more and more as world conditions become less critical.

All these factors—war, peace, prosperity or recession — become psychologically important. It is the Ruminator's view, as you know, that we do not give enough attention to the human side of economics. The human figure is more important than the statistical figure in guessing trends.

The present London Bridge is is still called New London Bridge although it is 123 years old.

Ruling on Natural Gas

Calgary, Alta., March 24 (AP)—Trans-Canada Pipelines, Ltd., has told Alberta's Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board it can export 182¾ billion cubic feet of natural gas annually by 1958. Of this, the company wants to send 128 billion to eastern Canada and 54¾ billion to the United States.

To Call Case Phony

San Francisco, March 24 (AP)—Defense attorneys are setting a clear pattern of their plan in the Leonard Moskovitz kidnap case—that the whole thing was a phony and the two accused ex-private detectives only carried out their part of a bargain with the victim. In yesterday's opening session, defendants Harold Jackson, 53, and Joseph Lear, 42, watched closely as their attorneys questioned seven prospective jurors. Jackson contends Moskovitz, a real estate broker, was a willing guest in the house where police found him in an early morning raid Jan. 19. They had captured Lear, who spilled the location. No money ever was handed over by Moskovitz' family despite the demands of first $500,000 and then $300,000.

Why We Say--

This phrase began with robbers in England. The idea was to trip people by the leg (pull their legs) and knock them to the ground where they would be easy victims for robbery.

Wet in Most of U. S.

(By The Associated Press)

It was more wet weather for wide areas of the country today. The precipitation was in the form of showers, thundershowers, drizzle and snow. Rainfall in most areas was light but it was welcome in the drouth-stricken sections of the southwest and plains states. Rain or drizzle was reported in a wide belt from the central plains eastward into Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee and the western Carolinas. Snow fell in the Rockies and light snow was predicted for northern midwest states. Showers hit areas along the Pacific coast. The northeastern section appeared out of the wet belt as did Florida and southeast coastal areas. Blowing dust was reported in parts of southwestern New Mexico.

Bernhard in New York

New York, March 24 (AP)—Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands arrived here early today after a two-week tour of aircraft factories and defense installations across the country. The prince, who is scheduled to return to The Netherlands this weekend flew here from Fort Bragg, N. C. Next Friday morning, the prince is to inspect the Republic Aviation Corporation plant in Farmingdale, L. I.

Lenten Services

First Presbyterian

Preaching on the subject, What Christ Really Wants From Us, the Rev. John W. Christie, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Wilmington, Del., will be heard Thursday at 8 p. m. in the first of three annual Lenten services at the First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf street and Tremper avenue, of which the Rev. William J. McVey is the pastor.

In this year's series, Dr. Christie, who was heard at the 100th anniversary service of the local church Dec. 13 last, was selected by the Session to take the place of the Rev. Dr. Raymond I. Lindquist, former pastor of the Old First Church of Orange, N. J., and now pastor of the famous First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood, Calif., whose ministry in Kingston annually for the past 10 years at a Lenten service was greatly appreciated by many people of the city's churches.

Under the direction of Miss Edna Merrihew, organist and choir director, the senior choir will sing the anthem, Saviour, When Night Involves the Sky by Schelley; and a duet number, entitled Intercession by Jones, is to be rendered by Mrs. Janet Short, soprano, and Miss Emily Flowers, alto.

For the two succeeding services Thursday night at the same hour the guest preachers respectively will be, the Rev. Dr. William Lloyd Imes, field secretary of the New York State Council of Churches; and the Rev. Dr. Putnam Cady, former pastor of the church and now in his 91st year. These services are open to the public and a cordial welcome is extended to all.

Why We Say--

"PULLING YOUR LEG"

This phrase began with robbers in England. The idea was to trip people by the leg (pull their legs) and knock them to the ground where they would be easy victims for robbery.

Wet in Most of U. S.

(By The Associated Press)

It was more wet weather for wide areas of the country today. The precipitation was in the form of showers, thundershowers, drizzle and snow. Rainfall in most areas was light but it was welcome in the drouth-stricken sections of the southwest and plains states. Rain or drizzle was reported in a wide belt from the central plains eastward into Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee and the western Carolinas. Snow fell in the Rockies and light snow was predicted for northern midwest states. Showers hit areas along the Pacific coast. The northeastern section appeared out of the wet belt as did Florida and southeast coastal areas. Blowing dust was reported in parts of southwestern New Mexico.

Bernhard in New York

New York, March 24 (AP)—Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands arrived here early today after a two-week tour of aircraft factories and defense installations across the country. The prince, who is scheduled to return to The Netherlands this weekend flew here from Fort Bragg, N. C. Next Friday morning, the prince is to inspect the Republic Aviation Corporation plant in Farmingdale, L. I.

Lenten Services

First Presbyterian

Preaching on the subject, What Christ Really Wants From Us, the Rev. John W. Christie, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian Church, Wilmington, Del., will be heard Thursday at 8 p. m. in the first of three annual Lenten services at the First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf street and Tremper avenue, of which the Rev. William J. McVey is the pastor.

In this year's series, Dr. Christie, who was heard at the 100th anniversary service of the local church Dec. 13 last, was selected by the Session to take the place of the Rev. Dr. Raymond I. Lindquist, former pastor of the Old First Church of Orange, N. J., and now pastor of the famous First Presbyterian Church of Hollywood, Calif., whose ministry in Kingston annually for the past 10 years at a Lenten service was greatly appreciated by many people of the city's churches.

Under the direction of Miss Edna Merrihew, organist and choir director, the senior choir will sing the anthem, Saviour, When Night Involves the Sky by Schelley; and a duet number, entitled Intercession by Jones, is to be rendered by Mrs. Janet Short, soprano, and Miss Emily Flowers, alto.

For the two succeeding services Thursday night at the same hour the guest preachers respectively will be, the Rev. Dr. William Lloyd Imes, field secretary of the New York State Council of Churches; and the Rev. Dr. Putnam Cady, former pastor of the church and now in his 91st year.

Gets $78,000 for Leg

New York, March 24 (AP)—Michael Carroll, 55, of (91 Morris avenue) Rockville Centre, N. Y., was awarded $78,000 damages yesterday by a Brooklyn Supreme Court jury for losing a leg under a subway train. Carroll had sued for $200,000, charging negligence on the part of the city, which then operated the subways. The accident occurred on November 27, 1952, at the Van Siclen avenue station of the BMT Jamaica line. Carroll claimed the station lights were out. He testified he was returning home from Thanksgiving dinner in Brooklyn when he felt ill. He said he got off the train at the station and blacked out, falling to the tracks. A later train ran over him.

St. Mary's Benevolent Association Communion Breakfast

Breakfast Speaker Stresses Pride in Catholic Heritage

Thomas D. Connelly, of the Sales Department of Wyeth Laboratories, was the main speaker at the communion breakfast of St. Mary's Benevolent Association, held Sunday at Tommy's Restaurant, High street.

Speaking on the topic, Our Catholic Heritage, Mr. Connelly said that history has recorded the many accomplishments of the early settlers of this country, the Pilgrims, Puritans and Quakers, and asked for the contributions of the Catholics. He named Queen Isabelle who financed Columbus, the discoverer of America; St. Augustine, the oldest city in the United States; the Catholic missionaries who spread faith to the early savages. Mr. Connelly added that the Mississippi River settlement was founded by Catholics, as were the great metropolises, the west coast including San Francisco, Sacramento and Los Angeles.

The speaker said that in the last two world wars Catholics have contributed 40 per cent of the manpower. Mr. Connelly concluded by repeating "we should be justly proud of our Catholic heritage."

The breakfast was held following corporate Communion at St. Mary's Church at the 8 o'clock Mass celebrated by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, PRVF. The welcoming address at the breakfast was given by Edward J. Esposito, president, who presented James F. Gilpatrick, master of ceremonies.

He introduced the Rev. John J. Drew, M. M. who has just returned from the Maryknoll Mission Field in China where he spent five and a half years. He was a prisoner of the Communists and was released and sent to Formosa, which he left January 1.

Father Drew said that he was treated fairly but the Reds were constantly trying to indoctrinate their ideas, and have educated the small children to Communism. He noted that people openly defied the Reds when he and another priest were released, by coming to see them off and kneeling on the beaches for their blessing.

The Reds are well organized and led, and have a definite goal, both anti U. S. and anti-religious, Father Drew concluded.

Mt. Tremper

Mt. Tremper, March 23—The Highland Grange dartball teams played the Mt. Tremper teams at the Grange Hall Thursday night. The local ladies' team won all three games and the men lost all three. The women's team has won 14 out of 18 games played in the second half of this year's schedule. The annual dinner of the Ulster County Grange Dartball League will be held at the Kerhonkson Fire House, April 22. The winners of the two halves will play each other in a tournament for the 1954 championship following the dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Schuhose called on Mr. and Mrs. John Callaghan Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Arlene Smith is recovering from a recent illness.

Mrs. Norman D. Wilber, Mrs. Norman S. Wilber, Mrs. Helene Umhey, Mrs. John Callaghan and Mrs. Howard Umhey were among local residents who spent Friday in Kingston.

Work has been started to rebuild the Rainbow Lodge which was destroyed by fire recently. Mr. and Mrs. Dick Kahil, owners of the lodge, say the main house will have one story instead of two, a large dining room, lounge and kitchen. A separate building will be constructed to house sleeping rooms for guests.

The Onteora Hose Company will hold its second annual roast beef dinner in the Mt. Tremper Church Hall Tuesday evening, April 27. Tickets will be available soon and may be purchased from any volunteer fireman.

Sgt. Robert Klein surprised his parents Mr. and Mrs. Richard Klein by coming home unannounced Saturday night. He had received his honorable discharge from the Army at Camp Kilmer, N. J., earlier in the day. He was stationed in Korea for approximately 15 months during his enlistment. His parents are the owners of the Brookside House in Mt. Tremper.

Hemingway Gets Award

New York, March 24 (AP)—Author Ernest Hemingway has been named winner of the $1,000 award of merit presented by the American Academy of Arts and Letters to a novelist only once every five years. The award is rotated so that each year a sculptor, poet, painter, dramatist or novelist is honored in turn. Hemingway will receive his award, announced yesterday, at a ceremony here May 26.

Ballantine Beer watches your belt-line
...with fewer calories than any other leading beer

The beers of today are lower in calories. None contains starch, and there's not more than a negligible trace of sugar in any of them.

But . . . if you're counting up your calorie quota . . . you'll be happy to know that Ballantine's own laboratory analysis, carried on over a period of years, amply substantiated by independent laboratory tests, shows that Ballantine Beer has fewer calories than any other leading beer.

Ballantine is the product of 114 years of brewing experience. Brewed from nature's finest barley malt and hops, it has the same full flavor and fine character that have made it one of America's largest selling beers.

Next time, ask the man for Ballantine—the low-calorie beer with the flavor that chill can't kill!

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Going back through the June 22, 1923 Kingston Freeman, it must have been hot, although the temperature for the day was not listed. Two men were prostrated by the heat, one a blacksmith and another, a shipyard worker. It is difficult to believe such hot weather is possible during these cool days. In another part of the paper, it said it was around 90 degrees and Kingston Point bathing beach was doing a good business. Berry pickers and other farm workers suspended work because of the heat. It also said, "during the evening the city flusher was busy washing down the streets and this relieved the intense heat in many sections as well as freshened the atmosphere." That is of course of the past. We no longer have it during present day heat waves. Only at night a city truck with revolving brush and a sprinkle of water does the curb.

Those were the days of the trolley-car. During June in 1923 the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Co. gave the trolley-men a raise in wages, of four cents an hour. "First year men would receive 46 cents an hour, second year men 47 cents, and three year men and over, 48 cents an hour." I see the Kingston High School honor roll in this paper. Some of the names I remember in the 90 per cent list are: Charles G. Ellis, Adaline Gulick, Marie Rimmi, and Celia Stone. I see Anna Gasool with five subjects in the 95 list. I remember Anna. She had a marvelous memory. The teacher once put several paragraphs on the board and told us to study it. We all read it over several times, but Anna was able to memorize the entire work, which even then astounded the teacher.

Some of the other names I remember on the 85 per cent list are: Adiska Conro, with five subjects; Maude E. Dudley, Jerome Lehner, Regina Powers, Melba Simmons, Grace Southard, Westbrook Stelle and Ethel Tongue. I notice a large percentage of those on the high honor rolls achieved success in their chosen professions and most of them went to institutions of higher learning.

Remember some of those heavy electrical storms during the summer when the ssky would suddenly turn to a grey mist and sometimes a sort of yellow or deep orange smoke. Kingston must have had some bad ones back in 1923 for one in June of that year was so severe that the local trolleys suspended service for 35 minutes from 2:55 to 3:30 p. m. This was due to the fact that the company itself had shut off the power in order to protect the electrical equipment in the cars. It seems there was no danger to the passengers but they were afaraid that the lightning would put the motors on the different cars out of order. It seems that during a previous storm which went over the city, four motors were put out of commission and the company had to spend $200 to repair them.

I do not know if they refer to the same storm as the above which sent a bolt of lightning into the tower of the city hall, putting the fire bell that hung there out of commission. The police signal system went out of commission also. It seems when the lightning struck the city hall tower, although not damaged otherwise, the ball of fire shot down the wires leading from the tower to the ground. This storm seems to have broken the heat wave Kingstonians were enduring at the time.

Farm Production Increases

In the last 10 years, U. S. farm production has increased by about a third because of improved farm practices, although the amount of cropland has remained about the same.

OF MEN AND MUSTACHES

The Chinese philosopher, Confucius, once observed that vanity is the most frustrating of vices because it is often goes unnoticed. Well, there's a story going the rounds of Fleet Street in London which seems to prove this point . . .

Shortly after the end of World War Two, an up-and-plotting young novelist named, let's say, Keith Montgomery, was faced with the problem which has bedeviled so many a young writer: He looked more like a suspender salesman than a novelist.

How should a writer look? Well, one could do a lot worse than look like Ernest Hemingway. So, suiting razor to reason, Keith Montgomery went and raised himself one heck of a mustache . . .

We now riffle the calendar three years and spotlight the young novelist in his bathroom. He is a success. He has written two spectacular novels about unspectacular people. His photograph, which is mostly mustache, has appeared on the jackets of his books.

Montgomery gazes into the mirror, and is displeased with what he sees.

"Keith, old boy," he says to his face. "You're a big boy now. You've written two best-sellers. It's high time you came out from behind that excrescence on your upper lip. What are you trying to prove anyhow?"

Whereupon, being a man of action, the novelist shaved his upper lip clean.

"I doubt whether anyone will recognize you," he told his face as he patted it with lavender water . . .

Well, it didn't work out that way. At the Savoy grill, where Keith usually had his midday meal, his usual waiter asked if he wanted the usual poached egg on his usual dish of hash. And that was all.

On the way out, the coatroom attendant opined that it was a splendid day and that Montgomery was looking fit. And that was all.

That's how it went for the next 24 hours. His landlady, the maid who did his rooms, the barman at the pub—not one of them made a comment about the vanished mustache. Nor was mention made of it at a party in Bloomsbury he attended that evening.

"The world has lost its eyesight," the novelist told himself that night as he switched off the light next to his bed.

Keith Montgomery, however, did not lose faith in humanity altogether. The following afternoon he had an appointment with his publisher, David Colby, and he was certain that Colby would notice the change in his appearance. After all, David was his oldest friend—Eton, Oxford and a stint in the RAF together.

As he entered the publishing house, it so happened that the receptionist was not at her desk. So he walked directly into Colby's book-littered office.

"Hello there, Keith," said the publisher. "I read your new manuscript over the week end. I think it's magnificent except that chapter eight could do with a bit of pruning."

That was all for more than an hour. Much enthusiasm about the manuscript but not a murmur about the missing mustache.

"Why, Mr. Montgomery!" she exclaimed. "Why, you look entirely different!"

"I love you, Miss Darlington," said the novelist. "I love you dearly. You are the only person in London who noticed I had shaved off my mustache."

"What's this about mustaches?" said David Colby, coming out of his office. "Are you growing one?"

"I am not," said Keith. "Matter of fact, yesterday I shaved off the mustache which has graced the jackets of my books for the past two years. And I have been sitting in your office for an hour waiting for you to notice it."

"Why, of course," said the publisher. "You did have a mustache. I remember it distinctly. Shaved it off? Why, so you have.

"And do you know," David Colby went on, "I've been sitting behind my desk for an hour, wondering when you, you silly ass, would notice that I had shaved off mine."

Whale Killed With Bows

During the 13th Century a large whale swam under London Bridge and was killed up stream with bows and slings says the National Geographic Society.

Termites live for as much as 30 years.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Going back through the June 22, 1923 Kingston Freeman, it must have been hot, although the temperature for the day was not listed. Two men were prostrated by the heat, one a blacksmith and another, a shipyard worker. It is difficult to believe such hot weather is possible during these cool days. In another part of the paper, it said it was around 90 degrees and Kingston Point bathing beach was doing a good business. Berry pickers and other farm workers suspended work because of the heat. It also said, "during the evening the city flusher was busy washing down the streets and this relieved the intense heat in many sections as well as freshened the atmosphere." That is of course, of the past. We no longer have it during present day heat waves. Only at night a city truck with revolving brush and a sprinkle of water does the curb.

Those were the days of the trolley-car. During June in 1923 the Kingston Consolidated Railroad Co. gave the trolley-men a raise in wages, of four cents an hour. "First year men would receive 46 cents an hour, second year men 47 cents, and three year men and over, 48 cents an hour." I see the Kingston High School honor roll in this paper. Some of the names I remember in the 90 per cent list are: Charles G. Ellis, Adaline Gulick, Marie Rimmi, and Celia Stone. I see Anna Gasool with five subjects in the 95 list. I remember Anna. She had a marvelous memory. The teacher once put several paragraphs on the board and told us to study it. We all read it over several times, but Anna was able to memorize the entire work, which even then astounded the teacher.

Some of the other names I remember on the 85 per cent list are: Adiska Conro, with five subjects; Maude E. Dudley, Jerome Lehner, Regina Powers, Melba Simmons, Grace Southard, Westbrook Stelle and Ethel Tongue. I notice a large percentage of those on the high honor rolls achieved success in their chosen professions and most of them went to institutions of higher learning.

Remember some of those heavy electrical storms during the summer when the ssky would suddenly turn to a grey mist and sometimes a sort of yellow or deep orange smoke. Kingston must have had some bad ones back in 1923 for one in June of that year was so severe that the local trolleys suspended service for 35 minutes from 2:55 to 3:30 p. m. This was due to the fact that the company itself had shut off the power in order to protect the electrical equipment in the cars. It seems there was no danger to the passengers but they were afaraid that the lightning would put the motors on the different cars out of order. It seems that during a previous storm which went over the city, four motors were put out of commission and the company had to spend $200 to repair them.

I do not know if they refer to the same storm as the above which sent a bolt of lightning into the tower of the city hall, putting the fire bell that hung there out of commission. The police signal system went out of commission also. It seems when the lightning struck the city hall tower, although not damaged otherwise, the ball of fire shot down the wires leading from the tower to the ground. This storm seems to have broken the heat wave Kingstonians were enduring at the time.

Farm Production Increases

In the last 10 years, U. S. farm production has increased by about a third because of improved farm practices, although the amount of cropland has remained about the same.

Carries Eggs in Mouth

The male hardhead catfish carries eggs in his mouth until the little fish are hatched and then carries the fish until they are about three inches long.

There are about 7½ million widows in the United States.

OF MEN AND MUSTACHES

The Chinese philosopher, Confucius, once observed that vanity is the most frustrating of vices because it is often goes unnoticed. Well, there's a story going the rounds of Fleet Street in London which seems to prove this point . . .

Shortly after the end of World War Two, an up-and-plotting young novelist named, let's say, Keith Montgomery, was faced with the problem which has bedeviled so many a young writer: He looked more like a suspender salesman than a novelist.

How should a writer look? Well, one could do a lot worse than look like Ernest Hemingway. So, suiting razor to reason, Keith Montgomery went and raised himself one heck of a mustache . . .

We now riffle the calendar three years and spotlight the young novelist in his bathroom. He is a success. He has written two spectacular novels about unspectacular people. His photograph, which is mostly mustache, has appeared on the jackets of his books.

Montgomery gazes into the mirror, and is displeased with what he sees.

"Keith, old boy," he says to his face. "You're a big boy now. You've written two best-sellers. It's high time you came out from behind that excrescence on your upper lip. What are you trying to prove anyhow?"

Whereupon, being a man of action, the novelist shaved his upper lip clean.

"I doubt whether anyone will recognize you," he told his face as he patted it with lavender water . . .

Well, it didn't work out that way. At the Savoy grill, where Keith usually had his midday meal, his usual waiter asked if he wanted the usual poached egg on his usual dish of hash. And that was all.

On the way out, the coatroom attendant opined that it was a splendid day and that Montgomery was looking fit. And that was all.

That's how it went for the next 24 hours. His landlady, the maid who did his rooms, the barman at the pub—not one of them made a comment about the vanished mustache. Nor was mention made of it at a party in Bloomsbury he attended that evening.

"The world has lost its eyesight," the novelist told himself that night as he switched off the light next to his bed.

Keith Montgomery, however, did not lose faith in humanity altogether. The following afternoon he had an appointment with his publisher, David Colby, and he was certain that Colby would notice the change in his appearance. After all, David was his oldest friend—Eton, Oxford and a stint in the RAF together.

As he entered the publishing house, it so happened that the receptionist was not at her desk. So he walked directly into Colby's book-littered office.

"Hello there, Keith," said the publisher. "I read your new manuscript over the week end. I think it's magnificent except that chapter eight could do with a bit of pruning."

That was all for more than an hour. Much enthusiasm about the manuscript but not a murmur about the missing mustache.

"Why, Mr. Montgomery!" she exclaimed. "Why, you look entirely different!"

"I love you, Miss Darlington," said the novelist. "I love you dearly. You are the only person in London who noticed I had shaved off my mustache."

"What's this about mustaches?" said David Colby, coming out of his office. "Are you growing one?"

"I am not," said Keith. "Matter of fact, yesterday I shaved off the mustache which has graced the jackets of my books for the past two years. And I have been sitting in your office for an hour waiting for you to notice it."

"Why, of course," said the publisher. "You did have a mustache. I remember it distinctly. Shaved it off? Why, so you have.

"And do you know," David Colby went on, "I've been sitting behind my desk for an hour, wondering when you, you silly ass, would notice that I had shaved off mine."

When you can win a trick either in your own hand or in the dummy, it is usually wise to base your choice on where you want the lead to be at the next trick. In today's hand, for example, South won the opening lead of the queen of spades in his own hand because he wanted to lead a trump towards dummy's king.

This might have been a fine idea except for the fact that West had bid spades. It was quite reasonable to suppose that West had a six-card suit, in which case East could have only a singleton spade. In short, South should have been alert to the danger of a spade ruff.

When South won the first trick with the ace of spades and led a trump, West took the ace of hearts and continued with the jack of spades. Declarer put up dummy's king of spades, but East ruffed. West eventually got in with the queen of clubs to cash a spade trick, defeating the contract.

South should have avoided this defeat by winning the first trick with dummy's king of spades. South can then easily get to his own hands with a diamond in order to start the trumps. West takes the first round of trumps with the ace and leads another spade, but now East can do no damage.

If East ruffs, South can play his low spade and save the ace. If East discards, South wins with the ace of spades and draws East's remaining trump. Either way, the contract cannot be defeated.

The important point is to decide which defender is short when you have A-x-x opposite K-x-x in the suit that is opened. Win the first trick in such a way as to keep a high card behind the short defender. If that defender gets a chance to ruff, he will get your low card but you will still have your top card.

Tape Doctor, Take $300

New York, March 24 (AP)—Three men bound and gagged a Bronx doctor with medical adhesive tape and robbed him of $300 in cash last night, police of the Bronx Park station reported. The victim, who was not harmed, was Dr. Benjamin Israel of 229 East Kingsbridge Road, police said. A woman patient elsewhere in the office at the time was unaware of the robbery. Police said the robbery was probably the work of a gang which had pulled similar holdups of doctors' offices in the Bronx and Manhattan on three previous occasions the past two weeks.

GABBY—Once the quietest man in the courtroom, the court reporter will have plenty to say in the future if Harry Ungarsohn's "Repeat-O-Mask" comes into use. He is shown with the instrument he designed so the reporter could record everything that is said in court. The speaker repeats everything that is said and it is recorded. Later the proceedings are played back for transcription on the court record. The device is now being tested in New York City by the Navy.

Health for All

THE SILLY SEASON

This is the time of year when teen-agers amble home from school with their coats unbuttoned, when younger fry splash through the deepest puddles. In northern states, the man of the house plants a few rows of peas, although he knows there's sure to be another freeze. In southern states, people walk in a happy daze beneath the first flowering trees and are caught by sudden showers.

One mild day in the middle of March, and human beings seem to take leave of their senses. The Silly Season, the Sneeze Season, call it what you will, it usually results in an epidemic of colds.

If you are the mother of a family and responsible for the health of a group infected with False Spring Fever, what can you do? You can't follow each one around constantly with hats, raincoats and rubbers. You can't lock them up until the true spring arrives. Grandmother used to bring out the bottle of sulphur and molasses. She had some vague idea that the blood was sluggish after the long winter months and bodies needed toning up to meet the demands of the new season. She wasn't far wrong.

The wisest thing you can do is take for granted that your family will be especially exposed to colds at this time and build up their resistance. A cold is quite annoying enough in itself, but its worst feature is the fact that it lowers resistance to more serious infections.

Be sure that every member of the family gets plently of rest and sound sleep. If any member of the family seems "run down" and complains of feeling constantly tired, a visit to the doctor is in order. If cold symptoms start, a day of rest in bed will usually ward off serious developments. Children with colds should be kept at home, for their own protection as well as for that of their classmates.

Do the best you can and have patience. The Silly Season will pass.

Talk on Binoculars For Birding Is Set At Paltz College

A joint meeting of the John Burroughs Natural History Society and Nu Pi Sigma, honorary science club of New Paltz State Teachers College, will be held at the College Union Building at New Paltz Wednesday, March 31, at 8 p. m.

R. J. Reichert will deliver a talk, Binoculars for Birding, which will cover such topics as using ones glass to best advantage, choosing the model best suited to ones purpose, checking a glass for condition, and claims made for it. He will review the binoculars currently available, with reference to country of origin. A simple chart and diagrams will be used to illustrate some of the technical details, and an assortment of binoculars and scopes of various types and powers will be demonstrated.

Members desiring to ask Mr. Reichert about their personal glasses may bring them along and consult him after the meeting.

Mr. Reichert is author of Know Your Binoculars, published in Audubon Magazine, as well as numerous other articles, and is listed in "Who Know—and What" as an authority on binoculars.

The meeting is open to the public.

Bar Mitzvah for David Rudisch

Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Rudisch of 235 Pearl street announce the Bar Mitzvah of their son, David, Friday at 7:30 p. m. at Temple Emanuel. An invitation to attend is extended to all their friends.

Ulster Delegates Named for Centennial Conference in D. C.

Mrs. Leslie Hotaling, president of the Ulster County Women's Republican Club, and Mrs. Fred Schwenk will represent Ulster county at the Republican Women's Centennial Conference in Washington, April 6, 7 and 8, it was announced today by Mrs. Charles W. Weis, Jr., member Republican National Committee, and Miss Jane Todd, vice chairman of the New York Republican State Committee.

There will be 125 women in the delegation from counties in New York state who will attend this gathering. The conference will commemorate the 100th anniversary of the founding the Republican Party and highlight issues and techniques for the 1954 Congressional campaigns.

Speakers will include: Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, Senator William F. Knowland and Representative Charles A. Halleck.

Miss Bertha S. Adkins, assistant to the Republican national chairman, reported that women from all parts of the nation have made reservations to attend this conference.

Sponsoring the gathering are: Mrs. Eisenhower and Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, honorary chairmen; Mrs. Leonard W. Hall of Oyster Bay; Mrs. Sherman Adams, wife of the assistant to the president and the wives of Senate and House leaders.

Senator and Mrs. Irving M. Ives and the 27 New York Republican-congressmen and their wives will be guests of the New York delegation at a dinner April 6 at the Hotel Statler.

Mrs. L. Judson Morhouse of Ticonderoga, Essex county, is chairman of the arrangements for the New York state delegation.

Barn Dance at Temple Emanuel

Temple Emanuel Sisterhood will hold a barn dance Saturday at 9 p. m. in the social hall of the temple. Square dancing will be featured, as well as a concert of folk music by Pete Seeger.

To Present Messiah At Ellenville Church

The senior choir of the First Reformed Church, this city, will present Mandel's Oratorio, The Messiah, at the Reformed Church of Ellenville Sunday at 7:30 p. m.

The choir of more than 40 voices will be under the direction of Donald Romme, minister of music at the First Reformed Church, and Miss Gloria Massa, minister of music at St. James Methodist Church, Kingston, will be the organist.

Soloists include June Crosby, soprano, soloist at Fair Street Reformed Church, Kingston; Collette Sonnenberg, alto, soloist at the First Reformed Church; John S. Matthews, tenor, formerly soloist in the West Point Glee Club and Cadet Chapel Choir and presently soloist in the Fair Street Reformed Church and Donald Romme, bass. Mr. Romme is a graduate of Rutger's University where he sang in the Glee Club and has his Master's Degree from Columbia University.

The presentation of The Messiah is being sponsored by the senior choir of the Ellenville Church.

B'nai B'rith Mothers To Meet Girls on Court

A basketball game between the mothers of B'nai B'rith and the B'nai B'rith Girls will be played Thursday at 6:30 p. m. at the George Washington School.

Members of the mother's quintet are the Mmes. Ben Orkoff, Alex Parnett, Joseph Lurie, Sam Barnovitz, Joseph Kessler and Julius Svirsky. The girl's team will consist of members of the BBG who wish to participate.

The public is invited. There will be no admission.

Regional Conference Scheduled by YWCA In Buffalo April 30

The second event on the local YWCA calendar celebrating the 100th Birthday of the YWCA in the world, will follow close behind the opening centennial dinner being held at the Gov. Clinton Hotel on April 22. All YWCA members are invited to attend the regional conference to be held in Buffalo April 30, May 1 and May 2. Mrs. Savilla Millis Simons, new general secretary of the National Board of the YWCA will open the conference at 11 a. m. Friday speaking on the Conference theme New Frontiers at 99. Mrs. Edward W. Macy, president of the National Association of YWCAs of the U. S. A., will address the Friday night session continuing the conference theme A Look to the Future with Faith or Courage. On Saturday, three prominent YWCA leaders will present their interpretation of Pioneering Pointers: Mrs. Maxine Thornton will discuss Creative Relationships, Mrs. Esther Cole Franklin will explore the possibilities of Fortifying Freedom, Miss Dorothy Height will talk on Program Frontiers. Immediately following, the conference delegates will gather in discussions groups to relate three pointers to their own association goals.

Mrs. Ralph D. Booth, chairman of centennial commemoration, together with Mrs. E. Harris Harbison, Mrs. Ralph Earle and Mrs. Beardsley Foster, Jr., will form a centennial panel Saturday afternoon to bring to all associations centennial ideas, plans and a thrilling surprise. A humorous, but highly informative Barbara Abel skit will be the highlight of the banquet on Saturday evening.

Reservations for attendance at the conference must be made by March 30, stressed Mrs. Fred Port, local YW president, "and that's just next week. So all members interested should phone Miss Palmer at the Y now for details of registration. We expect to have several car loads going from Kingston."

ASKING FOR RETURN OF PRESENT

A reader asks my advice on the following matter: "Several years ago I gave a gift to a friend of mine in appreciation for a good turn she did me. It was a very lovely piece of jewelry. This friend, of whom I was very fond, died recently, and as the present was purely a personal one, could I ask her husband to give it back to me to keep as a remembrance of her?"

You might say to her husband, "If there is no one to whom you want to give that piece of jewelry, which I gave to Mary, I would like very much to have it, because it is to me so closely associated with my memories of her."

Seating at Church Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: On which side of the church are the relatives and friends of the bride seated? We went to a wedding recently and as the ushers were busy seating other guests when we arrived, my husband and I walked up the aisle together and sat on the left side of the church. As the rest of the bride's relatives and friends arrived, they were seated on the right side. We were told later that we were seated on the wrong side of the church. Will you please tell me who was right?

Answer: You were right. Certainly, the bride's family and friends are seated on the left, and the groom's on the right.

Introducing Husband's Family

Dear Mrs. Post: I married a widower several years ago. He has a grown married son and whenever I have to introduce him and his wife to friends of mine I never know what to say. Will you please tell me how they should be introduced?

Answer: If standing in a group you introduce them as "My husband's son and daughter-in-law and their children." Separately you say, "John, my husband's son," "Mary, my husband's daughter-in-law" and "John and Bobby, my husband's grandchildren."

How to plan for a wedding and reception is explained in Mrs. Post's booklet No. 501, "Weddings." To obtain a copy, send 25 cents in coin to Dept. E. P., in care of the Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Throwing in the Sponge

This phrase, meaning to admit that one is beaten and to give up a struggle, comes from prize fighting. In the earlier days of professional pugilism each boxer was supported by a backer or second who held a sponge to freshen his fighter by rubbing his bruises between rounds. A backer gave notice of his man's defeat and willingness to acknowledge the fact by tossing his sponge into the center of the ring. The act was a signal of defeat just as throwing a hat or cap into the ring was a challenge to fight. When throwing or chucking up the sponge came into general use is not known. It was already defined in a Slang Dictionary published in 1860. Tossing in the towel is now used in the same sense.

Charged with a hit-and-run accident, Robert Castleberry, of Richmond, Va., discovered the law was on his side. Under law, a wife cannot testify against her husband.

Friend—What is it?

Man—It says, 'Who was your mother before she was married?' and I didn't have any mother before she was married.

Belle—If I were you, Percy, I should tell him just what I think of him.

Percy—How can I? The cad has no telephone.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. B. Teater and Mr. and Mrs. Allen B. Ransdell, of Harrodsburg, Ky., were married in a double ceremony 60 years ago and Oct. 19, 1952, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversaries together.—Alice Ragland, Lexington, Ky.

Sometimes getting in with the "right" people can get you in wrong.

Mike—Say, why do you let your wife rule you? Are you a man or a mouse?

Pat—Of course I'm a man—but I think I'd fare better if I were a mouse.

Throwing in the Sponge

This phrase, meaning to admit that one is beaten and to give up a struggle, comes from prize fighting. In the earlier days of professional pugilism each boxer was supported by a backer or second who held a sponge to freshen his fighter by rubbing his bruises between rounds. A backer gave notice of his man's defeat and willingness to acknowledge the fact by tossing his sponge into the center of the ring. The act was a signal of defeat just as throwing a hat or cap into the ring was a challenge to fight. When throwing or chucking up the sponge came into general use is not known. It was already defined in a Slang Dictionary published in 1860. Tossing in the towel is now used in the same sense.

Charged with a hit-and-run accident, Robert Castleberry, of Richmond, Va., discovered the law was on his side. Under law, a wife cannot testify against her husband.

Friend—What is it?

Man—It says, 'Who was your mother before she was married?' and I didn't have any mother before she was married.

Belle—If I were you, Percy, I should tell him just what I think of him.

Percy—How can I? The cad has no telephone.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. B. Teater and Mr. and Mrs. Allen B. Ransdell, of Harrodsburg, Ky., were married in a double ceremony 60 years ago and Oct. 19, 1952, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversaries together.—Alice Ragland, Lexington, Ky.

Mike—Say, why do you let your wife rule you? Are you a man or a mouse?

Pat—Of course I'm a man—but I think I'd fare better if I were a mouse.

Samsonville

D. C. Van Etten and wife spent the weekend with their son and family in Kingston.

A pancake and sausage supper will be served in the hall at Samsonville Saturday, March 27, starting at 6 p. m. and continuing until all are served. The public is invited. The supper will be sponsored by the Willing Workers Society.

Sunday morning's church service will be conducted at 9:30 a. m. by the Rev. Mr. Brindall of Clintondale in the Samsonville Methodist Church.

In 1890, about 69 per cent of U. S. men over 65 were in the labor force compared with about 42 per cent in 1950.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Then how come Captain Irving Peress hides behind the Fifth, and gets a promotion to Major, and an honorable discharge?

Mr. Hutton

The Army has some explaining to do on that one. And it oughtn't to be foxed up by the way the Senator treated the General in charge. If the General was simply obeying orders, he didn't rate a dressing down. We vote against the Senator on that.

But that isn't the main issue — which is: Who promoted Peress? And why? And does the hush-hush order from the Pentagon make sense when we are hunting skunks?

The Army Brass had better watch their step. Any notion any officer or official may have that he is an "untouchable" won't go down with Ma and Pa. They had better answer the Senator's questions, however rude, and be polite about it; and if they made a mistake, own up to it and thank the Senator for calling it to their attention. Ma and Pa would like that.

When some folks say the Senator has some nerve asking questions of a Generrrralll of the Arrrmy, they remind me of the guy who had a big mean mastiff and a "yappy" little terrier that couldn't lick a woodchuck. Asked why he kept two dogs, he said: "I keep the little dog to wake the big dog up!"

West Hurley Vols Answer Call for Late Rising Moon

A call for the West Hurley fire department at 11:42 p. m., stirred a sizable turnout of volunteers, who, after arriving at the house from which the call originated, decided that the unusual light of the moon had given the impression of a fire in the woods.

Four Acres Burn

A blaze really hit the woods yesterday afternoon, however, and burned off about four acres in the foothills west of the Sawkill road before volunteers from the Town of Ulster fire department and wardens had it under control.

Joseph Dyer, assistant chief of the town of Ulster department, said the fire was quenched within about an hour after firemen arrived. They were called at 3:03 p. m.

Threat to House

Fire Warden Aaron Van DeBogart of the Mt. Tremper area and Deputy Warden Ray Winne, of the Brabrant road were at the fire with equipment. The blaze was making its way toward a house on a backroad near the fire before it was finally checked, Dyer said.

A call in Kingston at 11:50 a. m., today was for a grass fire in the Chapel street area; one at 3:40 p. m., yesterday was for another along the railroad tracks between Downs and Elmendorf streets, and one at 8:39 p. m., to 59 Cedar street was to check a fire in the register of a hot air heater where lint had apparently started burning.

The last in the series of food lessons was held last week at Comforter Hall under the leadership of Mrs. Gustav Immisch. The correct method of boning a whole fish was demonstrated and then the fish was stuffed and baked. During the lesson the class also heard Miss Dorothy Narel of WKNY and learned what foods were economical to buy in the markets. The class prepared potatoes for French frying and made a tossed salad. The class later enjoyed lunch together. At the close of the lesson, the class of 18 members voted thanks to Mrs. Immisch and voted for a continuation of these classes in the fall.

Choice of Service Now Offered by Army

Word has been received by Sfc. Clarence H. Carney, station commander of the Army and Air Force Recruiting Station in Kingston, that men enlisting or reenlisting in the army may choose one of the following as their branch of service: Armor, Artillery, Corps of Engineers, Infantry, Adjutant General's Corps, Army Medical Service, Chemical Corps, Military Police Corps, Ordnance Corps, Signal Corps, Quartermaster Corps, Transportation Corps and Airborne.

Prior to this time, the only branch that could be offered to a man enlisting or reenlisting was Airborne. "We are still accepting qualified young men for Airborne, who wish to become paratroopers," Sgt. Carney said.

Further information on any of the above branches of service, or information on the Army Technical School program for high school graduates may be obtained by contacting the Army and Air Force Recruiting Station, located on the third floor of the city hall building in Kingston.

All Diesels Now

Buffalo, March 24 (AP) — The New York Central Railroad said the last steam powered passenger train arrived at Central Terminal yesterday. The Toronto, Hamilton & Buffalo Railroad converted its passenger trains completely to diesel. The TH&B is a central subsidiary. New York Central passenger and freight operations here already had been switched to diesel.

Verdict Directed In Accident Case

Justice Bookstein directed a verdict for plaintiff, Frank Troncillito and another, in the sum of $178.50 in an undefended action brought against S. & K. Trucking Co., Inc., in Supreme Court Tuesday afternoon. George Rusk appeared for plaintiff. The action arose when a truck damaged a theatre marquee at Milton.

Settlement was reached in a negligence action brought by Arlington Melvin Truax and Anne May Truax against Richard Edward, and Richard Eugene Bonatz. Michael Nardone for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

A jury was taken in No. 296, Ruth Craig against Iskuhi Besharov, a negligence action. A recess was taken and the action settled. Rusk & Rusk for plaintiff and Robert Ortale for defendants.

An action brought by Phyllis Tubby against the Board of Education of School District 13, Port Ewen, was taken up for trial before the court and jury. The action arose when a pupil was injured on the school grounds. It was alleged the injury was due to improper supervision or improper installation of a fire escape. After the case had been partially tried a motion to dismiss the complaint on the grounds of insufficient evidence was granted.

Killed in Riot

Dacca, East Pakistan, March 24 (AP) — Pakistan authorities announced today 13 persons were killed and 35 injured in rioting Monday in a paper mill at Chandroghona. The announcement said the rioting started with an argument between the plant's operations manager and one of his subordinates.

Costa Rica means "Rich Coast."

Red Cross Home Service Volunteers

Aid to Servicemen, Wives, Veterans Most Pressing Cases

Helping the troubled man in uniform, the helpless veteran patient, the service wife overwhelmed by domestic crisis is a primary Red Cross job that requires a major part of the organization's budget and staff. The quota in Ulster county this year is $40,000. Harry Rigby Jr., county chairman, urges all who have not already done so, to join the Red Cross which enables everyone to serve his neighbors in distress or need, whereever they may be.

During the past year Home Service of the local chapter handled approximately 771 cases. Of this number 65 per cent were active servicemen and their dependents; 28 per cent were veterans and their dependents, and seven per cent were civilians.

The services rendered included counseling in personal and family problems, reporting and communications, assistance in applying for government benefits, claims and financial assistance.

24-Hour Service

Mrs. Ethel K. Wood is the local home service director. To maintain 24-hour service, she is assisted by a corps of volunteers. They include Mrs. Gerard Betz, Home Service Committee chairman; the Mmes. Raymond Woodard, Evan Davis, Joseph Deegan, Albert Kurdt, Albert Milliken, Robert Shellenberger, Deweese DeWitt, Leonard Flicker, William Abernethy, and Miss Jane Austen of Kingston. Also, the Mmes. Samuel Adams, chapter chairman, Saugerties; Harry Bessler, Ellenville; John Sloan, Wallkill; Harvey I. Todd, Woodstock; Gordon Wilcox, Highland; Myron Hazen, Milton-Marlborough; and Walter S. Rost, New Paltz.

It is not practical to list all of the individual services granted during the year but in each case interviewed, the reaction was unanimous. Summed up it was, "I don't know what I should have done without the Red Cross."

Takes Mother's Place

Said Mrs. Ward Dunham of 306 Washington avenue, whose son became ill while in service. "If a mother can't be there, the Red Cross is next. They look after the servicemen as if they were their own children." Continuing, she recounted her travels to several hospitals to visit her son. "I have always been in favor of the Red Cross but now that I have experienced their services, I can't do or say enough for them.

"Let me tell you of just one instance," said Mrs. Dunham. Her son had been transferred from a hospital in Kentucky to one in Massachusetts. "The Red Cross made all the arrangements for me to visit my son, even to the point of having Red Cross personnel meet me enroute to transport me whenever necessary. At the hospital, I was greeted by another member of the Red Cross who had arranged for my room and meals and stood by to offer any assistance I might require."

Personal Observation

I have seen at first hand asserted Mrs. Dunham, what the Red Cross really does for our boys in service, and whenever a problem presents itself, they find understanding at the Red Cross chapter."

Mrs. Albert Short of 39 Van Deusen street, described the assistance given her by Home Service in securing an emergency leave for her son because of illness in the family. "They were wonderful, so understanding and kind."

And, Mrs. John Murphy, 20 St. Mary's street, who called upon the Red Cross to assist in securing emergency leave for her son in service, speaking of the Red Cross, said "they were both wonderful and understanding. They helped in every way. I could never have done alone what the Red Cross was able to do for me."

In times of disaster in other areas, residents having relatives in such areas contact the Red Cross which immediately puts into motion the necessary machinery to get reports on the health and welfare of the loved ones.

Financial Assistance

There have been innumerable examples of financial assistance to servicemen's families pending receipt of the first government allotment check. The Home Service is always ready and willing as being well qualified, to sit down with the servicemen's wife and assist her in making out a budget, which is not only reassuring to the wife but to the husband in service.

It was pointed out by Mrs. Wood that the Red Cross does not grant leave to servicemen as leaves are controlled entirely by military authorities. The Red Cross enters the picture to provide verified information about home conditions in cases of emergency.

Time and again during the random interviews conducted this week with persons in all parts of the county who have called upon the Red Cross for assistance, there was a hope expressed that the current campaign for funds "would go over the top" so that these valuable services might be continued for the greater benefit and comfort to the entire community.

The Mature Parent

Youth's Long Dependence On Us Is Hard on Them, Too

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Last Christmas vacation, Beth came home from college in an odd mood. In her recent holiday between semesters, her mood was even odder.

She took down an illuminated text of The Lord's Prayer that had been a childhood gift—and hung a Picasso print in its place. "It's too holy for me, mummy," she said. "Stick it in the guest room, will you?"

She criticized her mother's table cloths as "cultural relics." She attacked her father's politics until he exploded, roaring, "If I have to pay $2000 a year to have you taught to call me reactionary, I'll find another way to invest my money!"

As the final shock, she announced that she had reversed her decision to become a kindergarten teacher and would become an archeologist.

Her parents felt suddenly old and tired. For a moment her mother contemplated the vision of Beth in a tropical topee pulling statues out of ruins, then rose from her chair. "I'm going to bed," she said weakly. "I can't cope any more."

Dr. George E. Gardner of Boston's Judge Baker Guidance Center has spoken helpful words for these occasions.

"My best advice in the face of this behavior," he says, "is the tried and true phrase of the men of the ancient church. When beset by the unpredictable and seemingly uncontrollable, they comforted themselves and each other with the words, "it will pass. It will pass."

My personal feeling is that it will pass when Beth has begun to earn her own living.

In the meantime, it's hard on her parents. To maintain a mutually self-respecting relationship with the grown child whom they financially support is not easy. As their situation is duplicated for thousands of other American parents, perhaps it's time that its problems were brought out into the open.

What's happening is that industry and the profession are demanding more and more prolonged and specialized study from our young people.

At ages when their grandparents were self-supporting parents and masters of their own homes, our young people are still in university classrooms. It's emotionally trying for them and for us. So long as their bills are paid by our energy, their rejection of our values is not easy to accept.

The prolonged dependence contains hurt for them, too. Much of the time, their impatience with us is resentment at the years of financial apron-strings still ahead of them.

Like Benson's Plan

Washington, March 24 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson's plan for a "better selling job" to dispose of some of this nation's huge farm surpluses had support today from senators critical of other Benson proposals. Sens. Young (R-N.D.), Russell (D-Ga.) and Ellender (D-La.), in separate interviews, said they approved Benson's proposals for moving more U. S. wheat, cotton and other farm surpluses into foreign and domestic outlets. All three senators oppose administration proposals to let present rigid farm price supports on basic crops expire at the end of this year in favor of a flexible price prop system which, at least at the start, would result in lower government-assured prices.

Verdict Directed In Accident Case

Justice Bookstein directed a verdict for plaintiff, Frank Troncillito and another, in the sum of $178.50 in an undefended action brought against S. & K. Trucking Co., Inc., in Supreme Court Tuesday afternoon. George Rusk appeared for plaintiff. The action arose when a truck damaged a theatre marquee at Milton.

Settlement was reached in a negligence action brought by Arlington Melvin Truax and Anne May Truax against Richard Edward, and Richard Eugene Bonatz. Michael Nardone for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendant.

A jury was taken in No. 296, Ruth Craig against Iskuhi Besharov, a negligence action. A recess was taken and the action settled. Rusk & Rusk for plaintiff and Robert Ortale for defendants.

An action brought by Phyllis Tubby against the Board of Education of School District 13, Port Ewen, was taken up for trial before the court and jury. The action arose when a pupil was injured on the school grounds. It was alleged the injury was due to improper supervision or improper installation of a fire escape. After the case had been partially tried a motion to dismiss the complaint on the grounds of insufficient evidence was granted.

Killed in Riot

Dacca, East Pakistan, March 24 (AP) — Pakistan authorities announced today 13 persons were killed and 35 injured in rioting Monday in a paper mill at Chandroghona. The announcement said the rioting started with an argument between the plant's operations manager and one of his subordinates.

Aid to Servicemen, Wives, Veterans Most Pressing Cases

Helping the troubled man in uniform, the helpless veteran patient, the service wife overwhelmed by domestic crisis is a primary Red Cross job that requires a major part of the organization's budget and staff. The quota in Ulster county this year is $40,000. Harry Rigby Jr., county chairman, urges all who have not already done so, to join the Red Cross which enables everyone to serve his neighbors in distress or need, whereever they may be.

During the past year Home Service of the local chapter handled approximately 771 cases. Of this number 65 per cent were active servicemen and their dependents; 28 per cent were veterans and their dependents, and seven per cent were civilians.

The services rendered included counseling in personal and family problems, reporting and communications, assistance in applying for government benefits, claims and financial assistance.

24-Hour Service

Mrs. Ethel K. Wood is the local home service director. To maintain 24-hour service, she is assisted by a corps of volunteers. They include Mrs. Gerard Betz, Home Service Committee chairman; the Mmes. Raymond Woodard, Evan Davis, Joseph Deegan, Albert Kurdt, Albert Milliken, Robert Shellenberger, Deweese DeWitt, Leonard Flicker, William Abernethy, and Miss Jane Austen of Kingston. Also, the Mmes. Samuel Adams, chapter chairman, Saugerties; Harry Bessler, Ellenville; John Sloan, Wallkill; Harvey I. Todd, Woodstock; Gordon Wilcox, Highland; Myron Hazen, Milton-Marlborough; and Walter S. Rost, New Paltz.

It is not practical to list all of the individual services granted during the year but in each case interviewed, the reaction was unanimous. Summed up it was, "I don't know what I should have done without the Red Cross."

Takes Mother's Place

Said Mrs. Ward Dunham of 306 Washington avenue, whose son became ill while in service. "If a mother can't be there, the Red Cross is next. They look after the servicemen as if they were their own children." Continuing, she recounted her travels to several hospitals to visit her son. "I have always been in favor of the Red Cross but now that I have experienced their services, I can't do or say enough for them.

Social Security Law Explained

George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Office Social Security Administration, submits the following article on provisions of the new Social Security Law.

Since the amendments to the social security law in 1950, the term "six quarters of coverage" has been used so extensively to denote a fully insured status for eligibility to old-age and survivors insurance payments that many people have come to accept this as being all that is required for a fully insured status for everyone. Beginning in July of this year this will no longer be true.

In order to be entitled to social security retirement payments an individual must be "fully insured." Let's see just what is meant by this term. As everyone knows a year can be divided into four calendar quarters—January, February and March being the first quarter—April, May and June being the second quarter, etc. Any calendar quarter in which an individual works in employment covered by the social security law and is paid wages of $50 or more, is counted as a quarter of coverage. Also any year in which an individual owns or operates a trade or business, covered by social security, will be given credit for four quarters of coverage, if his net earnings are $400 or more.

No one can be insured, and benefits be payable, whether it be in case of retirement or death, unless the individual has at least six of these quarters of coverage. Since 1950 until the present time, this minimum of six quarters of coverage was all that an individual needed to have a fully insured status. That's why you have heard the term "six quarters of coverage" referred to so often.

Now, anyone who reaches age 65 or dies between June 30, 1954, and January 1, 1955, will need seven quarters of coverage to be fully insured. From January 1 to June 30, 1955, he will need eight quarters of coverage. As each two calendar quarters elapse, one additional quarter of coverage will be needed for a fully insured status until December 31, 1970. After this date, anyone who reaches age 65 or dies will be required to have the maximum of forty quarters of coverage to be fully insured. Anyone who has forty quarters of coverage to his credit will be fully insured regardless of whether he continues under social security coverage or not.

There is another term that you may have heard in regard to insured status and it is the term "currently insured." Ordinarily a currently insured status is used in connection with claims for death payments, and then only if the deceased was not fully insured. To be currently insured an individual must have credit for at least six quarters of coverage during the three years just before his death. In event of death, benefits are payable to survivors, if the deceased was currently insured. Other kinds of benefits are payable only if the deceased was fully insured.

Town Clerk's Office, Canal street in Ellenville.

Town Building, Russell street in Saugerties.

High Falls

High Falls, March 23—The American Legion Auxiliary of the town of Marbletown Post held its regular monthly meeting in its new home in High Falls Thursday evening, March 18, with a good attendance. Mrs. Joseph Hoffman, president, presided. Five new members were reported, Mmes. Robert Christiana, Robert Lawson, Harold Newell, Raymond Williams and Clarence Miller. The auxiliary is collecting new Easter cards to send to the veterans in the Albany Veterans Hospital. These cards are given the patients there and they in turn send them to their families. Anyone wishing to help by donating some cards is asked to give them to the Mmes. Frank Altieri, Joseph Hoffman, Isaac Graham or Ernest Jansen, before Saturday, March 27. Mrs. Bryant, coupon chairman, received a large number of coupons but is anxious to get still more. The money received from them is used to help support the Women's Infirmary at the American Legion Mountain Camp. The merchandise club is being started again. The auxiliary is again sponsoring a poppy poster contest in the schools. They also plan to send a representative to Girls' State at Skidmore College. Following the business meeting a social hour was spent with the Legion. Refreshments were served and the Legion was presented with a birthday cake baked by Com. Byrant's wife. The county meeting will be held Tuesday evening, March 30, in Highland. At this time the 3rd District chairman will be entertained.

Trade Commission Action

Washington, March 24 (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission yesterday announced a complaint against Sunshine Biscuits, Inc., charging sales practices favoring heavy purchases and exclusive-dealing contracts with a vending machine company. FTC described Sunshine Biscuits, of Long Island City, N. Y., as the nation's second largest producer of packaged bakery products such as crackers, cookies and cakes. The exclusive-dealing charge was also against the Statler Manufacturers Corp. and Statler Distributors, Inc., of New York city, and Lawrence S. Reiss, vice president of the Statler firms, which sell and distribute vending machines under franchise agreements. This charge alleged that the Statler firms "coerce or intimidate" operators of the machines to sell only Sunproducts in them. The other count of the complaint said Sunshine discriminates among its customers by a discount plan based upon monthly purchases of Sunshine products of each customer.

Social Security Law Explained

George J. Johnson, manager of the Kingston Office Social Security Administration, submits the following article on provisions of the new Social Security Law.

Since the amendments to the social security law in 1950, the term "six quarters of coverage" has been used so extensively to denote a fully insured status for eligibility to old-age and survivors insurance payments that many people have come to accept this as being all that is required for a fully insured status for everyone. Beginning in July of this year this will no longer be true.

In order to be entitled to social security retirement payments an individual must be "fully insured." Let's see just what is meant by this term. As everyone knows a year can be divided into four calendar quarters—January, February and March being the first quarter—April, May and June being the second quarter, etc. Any calendar quarter in which an individual works in employment covered by the social security law and is paid wages of $50 or more, is counted as a quarter of coverage. Also any year in which an individual owns or operates a trade or business, covered by social security, will be given credit for four quarters of coverage, if his net earnings are $400 or more.

No one can be insured, and benefits be payable, whether it be in case of retirement or death, unless the individual has at least six of these quarters of coverage. Since 1950 until the present time, this minimum of six quarters of coverage was all that an individual needed to have a fully insured status. That's why you have heard the term "six quarters of coverage" referred to so often.

Now, anyone who reaches age 65 or dies between June 30, 1954, and January 1, 1955, will need seven quarters of coverage to be fully insured. From January 1 to June 30, 1955, he will need eight quarters of coverage. As each two calendar quarters elapse, one additional quarter of coverage will be needed for a fully insured status until December 31, 1970. After this date, anyone who reaches age 65 or dies will be required to have the maximum of forty quarters of coverage to be fully insured. Anyone who has forty quarters of coverage to his credit will be fully insured regardless of whether he continues under social security coverage or not.

There is another term that you may have heard in regard to insured status and it is the term "currently insured." Ordinarily a currently insured status is used in connection with claims for death payments, and then only if the deceased was not fully insured. To be currently insured an individual must have credit for at least six quarters of coverage during the three years just before his death. In event of death, benefits are payable to survivors, if the deceased was currently insured. Other kinds of benefits are payable only if the deceased was fully insured.

Your local Social Security Office servicing all of Ulster and Sullivan counties is located in the Central Post Office Building, Broadway, Kingston. There are part-time offices maintained as follows:

Town Clerk's Office, Canal street in Ellenville.

Town Building, Russell street in Saugerties.

Otisville Sets Tourney Record Blasting Brown Derby, 102-77

Gardens Eliminate Kettersons

Meehan Withdraws From Tournament

A slick-passing, sharp-shooting Otisville combine set team and individual scoring records in crushing the highly touted Brown Derby, of Poughkeepsie, 102-77, last night in the Kingston tournament.

But the biggest tournament news came out of the opener in which Valley Gardens upset top seeded Ketterson Motors of Newburgh, 63-56.

The Ketterson cagers were without the services of Mickey "The Marvel" Burkoski, who was chained to the bench by Manager Vince Leo in protest against the use of Chick Meehan, ex-NBA cager by the Gardens.

The game started under protest which was later withdrawn, and Meehan agreed to absent himself from the Gardens roster in future contests.

Leo charged that Meehan, who quit the National Basketball Association five years ago and is now coach at Kerhonkson High, was a professional. Under the circumstances, he said, Burkoski would jeopardize his eligibility at Newburgh Academy next season if he played against Meehan.

Meehan, incidentally, led the Gardens with 21 points and engineered their second half drive to victory. The Gardens trailed for three quarters but wore down the Kettersons with their deliberate passing and shooting in a 28-point fourth quarter.

Call 59 Fouls

The foul-ridden contest, a throwback to basketball styles of 20 years ago, saw referees Al Gruner and Bob Beaumont call 59 infractions, 31 against Gardens and 28 against Kettersons. The Motors picked up 30 points from the charity stripe and Gardens hit with 27.

Chick Jergens led Kettersons with 18 points and Bobby Spreer, ex-NFA ace, rimmed 13.

In sharp contrast to the opener, the Otisville-Brown Derby clash was a fast moving brilliant shooting affair in which Dick Wilbur, the sensational Otisville High School star, set a tournament record with 36 points. Ronnie Scheffel had hit 35 in the opening game Tuesday.

Otisville ran up a 12-4 lead in the early moments but Brown Derby tied the score at 16-16 and then 19-19 at the quarter. Thereafter Otisville cagers steadily widened the gap between the teams, leading 47-35 at the half.

Roy Walker hooped 22 points for Otisville to give the winners' front line a total of 58 markers. Charlie Pellegrino led Brown Derby with 25 points. George Martin hit 16 and Rod Sagendorf scored 14, mostly on outside set shots.

No action is scheduled tonight. The tournament resumes Thursday, with Haber's Grill, the KHS combine and Jim Riehl going against Erickson Shell of Hudson at 8:30 p. m. Harry's Angels, "A" League champions at the Y, meet Pine Plains AC at 7:30.

Harry's Angels seeking Big Ed Weaver for the Kingston tournament. The big take-charge guy from West Point would be a tremendous attraction for local fans. Jim Riehl should fit in nicely with Haber's Grills, whose speed will run some of the oldies into the boards on the spacious auditorium boards.

• Flotsam and Jetsam:

Not a word from Bill Ryan of Newburgh regarding the proposed Hudson valley-New Jersey semi-pro baseball league. The volatile Newburgh diamond impressario has withdrawn to voluntary exile since that historic rhubarb late last summer at the Athletic Field. To this day Ryan insists Umpire Bud Zoller robbed the Newburgh Jewels of a chance to win the crown when he forfeited the victory to Kingston. Zoller ruled that the Newburghers were stalling and making a travesty of the game in an effort to have the score revert to the previous inning. But a million Solomons wouldn't convince Ryan and other members of the Jewels that Zoller made the right call. We saw it and think the umpire made the proper decision. It required a lot of guts and courage under the circumstances, but it was the only possible call. Meanwhile, the stunning Sen. Thomas Desmond trophy, emblematic of mid-hudson semi-pro honors, rests behind the bar at Ed McAuley's tavern in Poughkepsie.

• Of Men and Mice:

Another barrage of postcards in protest against omission of Dick Howard's name from the all-time bowling team—nine in all, bring the total to 17—which represents the heaviest volume of protest mail in local sports history. Only one dissenter failed to sign his name. Bud Zoller, a baseball umpire who has experienced the sensation of having people disagree violently with his judgment and opinion, has his name on two of the cards. One signed with Joseph B. Kearney, Walter Harder and Lawrence Dixon asks: "Why was Howard's name left off the list of five best bowlers. Dick's average speaks for itself. Joseph Crispino is an added entry on the other card which is singularly quotable: "When you failed to pick Bill Haber for the All-DUSO, you made the Brinks robbery look like petty larceny. . . ." Just for the record, Kingston placed in nomination Skip Broadhead, Dick Bezemer and Haber. When the DUSO writers decided to ballot on the best all-round players, which included scoring statistics, Haber lost out. It was an unfortunate turn of events but, invariably, somebody gets hurt in all-all balloting. Poughkepsie partisans are miffed that Charlie Johnson didn't get more serious consideration.

• Pro Basketball on the Ropes:

The dismal finish of the New York Knickerbockers in this year's complicated NBA playoffs hints a major rebuilding program in New York next year. The new era that starts next fall may be dominated by Walter Dukes, the 6-11 Seton Hall All-America who was the Knicks' No. 1 draft choice a year ago. Instead of signing with New York, Dukes joined the Harlem Globe Trotters, his decision influenced no doubt by a reported $25,000 salary. Dukes' association with the Trotters hasn't been too happy and he hasn't played or performed up to the standard of his salary. Ned Irish, the Knicks boss, and Abe Saperstein, Globe Trotter owner, a couple of sharp characters, are in the midst of negotiations to transfer Dukes to the Knick roster. Coach Joe Lapchick, thoroughly disgusted with the late season collapse of the New Yorkers, is said to be willing to trade or sell any member of the squad except Carl Braun, Harry Gallatin and Dick McGuire. Sunday's game between the Knicks and Syracuse drew only 2,539 persons, smallest Garden crowd in NBA history. That in itself was a chapter ending in the story of the club.

Walt Alston, moving to Brooklyn, is looking for a home "with wide open spaces." He could try the upper deck of the Polo Grounds on a Monday afternoon.

Expert Trout Fisherman Gives Hints to Beginners

Guide Fred Cleaveland, a Fly Fisherman, Has Earned Reputation in the Catskills

For over 35 years Fred M. Cleveland of Shandaken had fished Catskill mountain streams and as a licensed guide he has conducted many parties on fishing and hunting trips in the Catskills. Always a fly fisherman, "Ted" has earned the reputation among residents of the Catskill mountain area as a fisherman who usually brings home his "limit" even though he may be fly fishing on the cold open day of the trout season.

Recently a Freeman reporter inquired of "Ted" as to his prowess as a lurer of the "speckled beauties" and whether he would compile a few simple "hints" for beginners. As a result "Ted" came up with a host of "beginner tips" which are designed to bring luck to the beginning trout fisherman and at the same time conserve the fish and make for better fishing.

This season the local trout season opens on April 10, the second Saturday of the month, and since that date is not far off, trout fishermen will be getting their tackle ready for the opening day.

Beside being a local guide, ardent fisherman and interested in all civic matters of his town, "Ted" also served as welfare officer for the town of Shandaken.

Hints for Beginners

"The first thing to do is to learn the names of the flies on your favorite streams. The way to go about this properly is to catch the flies that are on the water and look at the color of wings and body with a magnifying glass so that you can compare that fly or flies with the one you buy at the sporting goods store. If you tie your own flies you will know what color materials you need to tie a duplicate of the fly you have seen on the stream."

"Also when you clean trout inspect them closely to determine what they are feeding on as it may show they are feeding on larva from the bottom of the stream. As you begin to learn the different flies make a note of them so you can remember from year to year the months these hatches come out. After a time you will be able to know the flies by heart so you will be able to take a fly right out your fly book to match the one for which the trout are jumping."

"I am strictly a fly fisherman, using flies on the opening day and straight on to the end of the season. I have had many fishermen doubt me when I claim to catch trout in such cold and snow water as may be running at the opening of the season, but many don't doubt me any longer as I have had men fishing with me who saw me catch trout with flies on the first day of the season. Flies I use early in the season are Dark Cahill, March Brown and Hare Ear. One must have lots of patience and perseverance for trout fishing. The reason for this is the trout may not be feeding at the time you start. There is one thing about it, if they are not feeding at all, no one is having any more luck than you are."

Favorite Streams

Cleaveland in discussing the streams on which he has most luck, said he had fished many streams in different counties but speaking of the town of Shandaken where he lives he said "my favorite streams are Fox Hollow, Bushnellville, Peck Hollow and the Esopus. All of these except the latter are feeder streams. Although you may find them hard to cast a line on because of overhanging branches, you make your cast underhand. About 12 feet of line is plenty when fishing feeder streams and fishing the larger streams, 20 feet of line is plenty unless it is a case of a large pool which you cannot get close to on account of water too high to wade."

"Although I am strictly a fly fisherman, I advise beginners to fish with worms the first of the season until they see flies on the water. These are flies I use during the season: Dark Cahill, March Brown, Hares Ear, Light Cahill. Lead-wing Coachman, Mallard Quill, Iron Blue Don, Quill, Iron Blue Don, Quill Gordon, Wild Turkey, Ginger Quill, Grey Hackle, yellow body. Size 10-12 hooks. Wet flies should be used at first until warm weather then you can start fishing with dry fly, using the same fly I have mentioned.

"If possible to fish from the bank of the creek instead of wading in the stream do so. In that way you do not scare the trout in the pool ahead of you. Fish upstream as the trout are headed in that direction waiting for insects and bugs that flow down the stream toward them. Always be careful when you take a hook out of a trout that is not legal size so it will not be injured and will live after you have thrown it back. It is your sport, help to preserve it by being a good sportsman."

In conclusion Cleaveland says "this trout fishing is a great sport and one meets lots of nice people along the stream, and everyone seems so contented and happy. Here is to the season of 1954, may you have good luck."

Wings, Canadiens Gain First Wins In Cup Playoffs

(By The Associated Press)

The regular season champion Detroit Red Wings and the Montreal Canadians, defending Stanley Cup titleholders, held leads in the National Hockey League playoffs today after blanking their opponents in the first games of the best-of-seven semi-finals.

The Red Wings defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-0 last night as goalie Terry Sawchuk stopped 37 shots. Montreal, with Jacques Plante posting his sixth shutout since being recalled from Buffalo last month, whipped the Boston Bruins 2-0.

Marty Pavelich, who scored only nine times during the regular campaign, started and finished the Detroit offensive. He clicked at 8:21 of the first period and 14:01 of the final. Ted Lindsay, Tony Leswick and Gordie Howe tallied the other goals for the Wings.

Plante had a much easier time of it than did Sawchuk. He made only 12 saves, but he pas particularly effective in the third period when the Bruins pressed to tie the score after Lorne Davis' second period goal. Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion drove home the clincher at 13:48 of the last season.

The second games of the Cup series will be played in Detroit and Montreal tomorrow.

Otisville Sets Tourney Record Blasting Brown Derby, 102-77

Gardens Eliminate Kettersons

Meehan Withdraws From Tournament

A slick-passing, sharp-shooting Otisville combine set team and individual scoring records in crushing the highly touted Brown Derby, of Poughkeepsie, 102-77, last night in the Kingston tournament.

But the biggest tournament news came out of the opener in which Valley Gardens upset top seeded Ketterson Motors of Newburgh, 63-56.

The Ketterson cagers were without the services of Mickey "The Marvel" Burkoski, who was chained to the bench by Manager Vince Leo in protest against the use of Chick Meehan, ex-NBA cager by the Gardens.

The game started under protest which was later withdrawn, and Meehan agreed to absent himself from the Gardens roster in future contests.

Leo charged that Meehan, who quit the National Basketball Association five years ago and is now coach at Kerhonkson High, was a professional. Under the circumstances, he said, Burkoski would jeopardize his eligibility at Newburgh Academy next season if he played against Meehan.

Meehan, incidentally, led the Gardens with 21 points and engineered their second half drive to victory. The Gardens trailed for three quarters but wore down the Kettersons with their deliberate passing and shooting in a 28-point fourth quarter.

Call 59 Fouls

The foul-ridden contest, a throwback to basketball styles of 20 years ago, saw referees Al Gruner and Bob Beaumont call 59 infractions, 31 against Gardens and 28 against Kettersons. The Motors picked up 30 points from the charity stripe and Gardens hit with 27.

Chick Jergens led Kettersons with 18 points and Bobby Spreer, ex-NFA ace, rimmed 13.

In sharp contrast to the opener, the Otisville-Brown Derby clash was a fast moving brilliant shooting affair in which Dick Wilbur, the sensational Otisville High School star, set a tournament record with 36 points. Ronnie Scheffel had hit 35 in the opening game Tuesday.

Wings, Canadiens Gain First Wins In Cup Playoffs

(By The Associated Press)

The regular season champion Detroit Red Wings and the Montreal Canadians, defending Stanley Cup titleholders, held leads in the National Hockey League playoffs today after blanking their opponents in the first games of the best-of-seven semi-finals.

The Red Wings defeated the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-0 last night as goalie Terry Sawchuk stopped 37 shots. Montreal, with Jacques Plante posting his sixth shutout since being recalled from Buffalo last month, whipped the Boston Bruins 2-0.

Marty Pavelich, who scored only nine times during the regular campaign, started and finished the Detroit offensive. He clicked at 8:21 of the first period and 14:01 of the final. Ted Lindsay, Tony Leswick and Gordie Howe tallied the other goals for the Wings.

Plante had a much easier time of it than did Sawchuk. He made only 12 saves, but he pas particularly effective in the third period when the Bruins pressed to tie the score after Lorne Davis' second period goal. Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion drove home the clincher at 13:48 of the last season.

The second games of the Cup series will be played in Detroit and Montreal tomorrow.

Expert Trout Fisherman Gives Hints to Beginners

Guide Fred Cleaveland, a Fly Fisherman, Has Earned Reputation in the Catskills

For over 35 years Fred M. Cleveland of Shandaken had fished Catskill mountain streams and as a licensed guide he has conducted many parties on fishing and hunting trips in the Catskills. Always a fly fisherman, "Ted" has earned the reputation among residents of the Catskill mountain area as a fisherman who usually brings home his "limit" even though he may be fly fishing on the cold open day of the trout season.

Recently a Freeman reporter inquired of "Ted" as to his prowess as a lurer of the "speckled beauties" and whether he would compile a few simple "hints" for beginners. As a result "Ted" came up with a host of "beginner tips" which are designed to bring luck to the beginning trout fisherman and at the same time conserve the fish and make for better fishing.

This season the local trout season opens on April 10, the second Saturday of the month, and since that date is not far off, trout fishermen will be getting their tackle ready for the opening day.

Beside being a local guide, ardent fisherman and interested in all civic matters of his town, "Ted" also served as welfare officer for the town of Shandaken.

Hints for Beginners

Based on his 35 years as a trout fisherman, guide and hunter, Cleveland passes on to the beginner the following hints:

"The first thing to do is to learn the names of the flies on your favorite streams. The way to go about this properly is to catch the flies that are on the water and look at the color of wings and body with a magnifying glass so that you can compare that fly or flies with the one you buy at the sporting goods store. If you tie your own flies you will know what color materials you need to tie a duplicate of the fly you have seen on the stream."

"Also when you clean trout inspect them closely to determine what they are feeding on as it may show they are feeding on larva from the bottom of the stream. As you begin to learn the different flies make a note of them so you can remember from year to year the months these hatches come out. After a time you will be able to know the flies by heart so you will be able to take a fly right out your fly book to match the one for which the trout are jumping."

"I am strictly a fly fisherman, using flies on the opening day and straight on to the end of the season. I have had many fishermen doubt me when I claim to catch trout in such cold and snow water as may be running at the opening of the season, but many don't doubt me any longer as I have had men fishing with me who saw me catch trout with flies on the first day of the season. Flies I use early in the season are Dark Cahill, March Brown and Hare Ear. One must have lots of patience and perseverance for trout fishing. The reason for this is the trout may not be feeding at the time you start. There is one thing about it, if they are not feeding at all, no one is having any more luck than you are."

Favorite Streams

Cleaveland in discussing the streams on which he has most luck, said he had fished many streams in different counties but speaking of the town of Shandaken where he lives he said "my favorite streams are Fox Hollow, Bushnellville, Peck Hollow and the Esopus. All of these except the latter are feeder streams. Although you may find them hard to cast a line on because of overhanging branches, you make your cast underhand. About 12 feet of line is plenty when fishing feeder streams and fishing the larger streams, 20 feet of line is plenty unless it is a case of a large pool which you cannot get close to on account of water too high to wade."

"Although I am strictly a fly fisherman, I advise beginners to fish with worms the first of the season until they see flies on the water. These are flies I use during the season: Dark Cahill, March Brown, Hares Ear, Light Cahill. Lead-wing Coachman, Mallard Quill, Iron Blue Don, Quill, Iron Blue Don, Quill Gordon, Wild Turkey, Ginger Quill, Grey Hackle, yellow body. Size 10-12 hooks. Wet flies should be used at first until warm weather then you can start fishing with dry fly, using the same fly I have mentioned.

"If possible to fish from the bank of the creek instead of wading in the stream do so. In that way you do not scare the trout in the pool ahead of you. Fish upstream as the trout are headed in that direction waiting for insects and bugs that flow down the stream toward them. Always be careful when you take a hook out of a trout that is not legal size so it will not be injured and will live after you have thrown it back. It is your sport, help to preserve it by being a good sportsman."

In conclusion Cleaveland says "this trout fishing is a great sport and one meets lots of nice people along the stream, and everyone seems so contented and happy. Here is to the season of 1954, may you have good luck."

Phillies Will Need More Hurling; Erskins First to Go Nine Innings

BY RIP WATSON
Associated Press Sportswriter

As many a poker player has learned to his sorrow, the Philadelphia Phillies discovered yesterday that a pair of aces is good, but not always good enough.

In a day of sterling pitching performances throughout the grapefruit league, the Phils sent Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons against Washington, but the Senators beat the Phillies' aces 3-2. That leaves manager Steve O'Neill's club with a 5-12 spring record, and it looks like they'll be in trouble this summer if they can't win with both Roberts and Simmons going for them.

The Senators, who had the fewest total bases of any American League club last year, put on a typical performance by slashing five straight singles against Roberts to tie the game at 2-2 in the fourth inning.

The Phils grabbed an early lead against the Senators own pitching star, Bob Porterfield.

Then the Senators came back with three more singles—by Eddie Yost, Mickey Vernon and Roy Sievers—for the winning run in the fifth. Simmons restricted Washington to a scratch single over the last three innings, but Bob Ross of the Senators matched his shutout pitching after relieving Porterfield in the seventh.

Erskine Goes Nine

Carl Erskine of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who did not pitch in a game until March 13, became the first major league hurler to go the full nine innings as he turned back the Philadelphia Athletics 10-2. Catcher Roy Campanella led the Dodgers 14-hit assault on two Philadelphia pitchers with a home run and two singles.

Rookie Tom Brewer, who isn't even on the Boston Red Sox roster but looks like a good prospect to stick, bettered Erskine's mark for stinginess in allowing runs as he ran his string of scoreless innings to 17 with three good frames in the Sox' 2-0 victory over the Cincinnati Redlegs. Willard Nixon pitched the first six innings for the winners and also drove in the first run with a double.

Larry Jansen and Johnny Antonelli of the New York Giants also teamed up for a shutout, blanking the Chicago Cubs 5-0 in a game cut to 5½ innings because of rain. Vic Raschi, the St. Louis Cardinals $75,000 purchase from the New York Yankees, made the deal look better and better as he turned in six scoreless innings in the Cards' 6-5 victory over Milwaukee. Raschi, who gave up three hits in four scoreless innings his first time out as a Cardinal March 10, scattered five Milwaukee singles this time.

Raschi was hit hard by the Chicago White Sox March 19, however.

The White Sox collected only eight hits to Detroit's 13, but outscored the Tigers 9-7 in the day's only free-hitting contest. Willard Marshall got the Sox started right with a two-run homer in the first inning.

Stengel Rates Yank Righties Finest in American League

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 24 (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel surveyed his New York Yankee pitching staff today and pronounced his righthanders, "the best in the league."

That's quite a statement particularly since the Cleveland Indians, perennial runners-up to the Yankees, have three top men who throw from the right side—Bob Lemon, Mike Garcia and Early Wynn.

But old Casey sees it this way: "I didn't think it was exceptional after Vic Raschi left. But with Tom Morgan and Johnny Sain back and Harry Byrd and Bob Grimm going good, I'm satisfied with my righthanders."

Stengel didn't mention Allie Reynolds, Jim McDonald and Tom Gorman, his other righties, but he knows what they can do—and it's usually a lot of good.

The veteran skipper is undecided about his lefthanded pitchers, however.

"I haven't figured out the lefthanders yet," he said. "I have to do more looking."

Two Lefties Set

Only veterans Eddie Lopat and Bob Kuzava are certain to be retained among the southpaws. Bill Miller, Steve Kraly, Bob Wiesler and Art Schallock are the others in there pitching for jobs.

Stengel is more than pleased with the makeup of his outfield even without Mickey Mantle.

"Irv Noren is the best fourth outfielder in the league and my defense out there will be all right even if Mantle doesn't play for a whole. Bob Cerv has been terrific. Everybody told me he couldn't play the outfield, but he's done all right so far."

With Yogi Berra behind the plate, Casey has little to worry about, but he also sees improvement there with the addition of rookie Elston Howard.

"He can throw the ball and he hustles and he's not scared up there at the plate. He's going to be a good catcher," Casey observed.

J. Hulsair's 240 New Chalet Mark

Jesse Hulsair set a new individual single high of 240 for the Chalet Leaders League. Other games of 162 and 187 enabled him to lead the league with a 589 series.

E. Kelder shot 205-575, R. Esposito 551, J. Auringer 207-540, Ed Whitaker 524, Clary Buddenhagen 521, D. Burger 518, L. Dyer 507, George Segelken 506, J. Meyers 502.

Team results:

Stengel is more than pleased with the makeup of his outfield even without Mickey Mantle.

"Irv Noren is the best fourth outfielder in the league and my defense out there will be all right even if Mantle doesn't play for a whole. Bob Cerv has been terrific. Everybody told me he couldn't play the outfield, but he's done all right so far."

With Yogi Berra behind the plate, Casey has little to worry about, but he also sees improvement there with the addition of rookie Elston Howard.

"He can throw the ball and he hustles and he's not scared up there at the plate. He's going to be a good catcher," Casey observed.

J. Hulsair's 240 New Chalet Mark

Jesse Hulsair set a new individual single high of 240 for the Chalet Leaders League. Other games of 162 and 187 enabled him to lead the league with a 589 series.

E. Kelder shot 205-575, R. Esposito 551, J. Auringer 207-540, Ed Whitaker 524, Clary Buddenhagen 521, D. Burger 518, L. Dyer 507, George Segelken 506, J. Meyers 502.

Team results:

Rosendale Florist 2, Duffys 1; Runes 2, Marbletown 1; Aqueduct 2, Yonnettis 1; Siors 3, Vaughns 0; Van Kleecks 3, Quicks 0; Zimmers 3, Schryvers 0.

The First Modern Slacks Scientifically Designed For Every Modern Man!

H. Lissner—world renowned slacks manufacturer—has created "Figure-Line" Design in slacks so that you get more enjoyable comfort, more wear, a trimmer and slimmer appearance from your slacks. With "Figure-Line" Design you get the best fit possible.

"ACCORDO-PLEATS" ... cannily conceal the fabric-fullness—so the slacks never bulge or billow—and really make you look slimmer! And these pleats give, yield—go in then out as you breathe—to bring you a new "freedom of the middle"!

"THE COMFORT ZONE" ... its extra roominess cuts out fabric-creeping or cramping. You never feel crotchety!

"THE FULLER KNEE" with the Narrower Look ... eliminates fabric-friction against the knee—so you walk more comfortably. Thwarts "baggy-knees" with its narrower look.

"THE DEEPER SEAT" with the Slimmer Look ... roomier, deeper-cut so the fabric never gets taut—never binds when you bend or squat. Best seat in the house!

"THE TAPERED-CUT" ... lets the cuffs break smartly and correctly over your shoe-tops.

"THE INSIDE STORY" ... you can't see it from the outside but for 50 years Lissner Slacks from linings to buttons to threads have been made with a combination of fine workmanship and fine materials that assure you of a quality product.

BIGGEST TIRE NEWS IN YEARS

NOW you can get the great, new... GOODYEAR 1954 All-Nylon Cord Super-Cushion

ON OUR SPECIAL "YOU CAN'T LOSE" TRADE-IN PLAN!

We buy ALL the unused miles in your worn tires. NOW regardless of the condition of your present tires we'll allow you their full value when traded for new Nylon Super-Cushions.

and look at these EXTRAS!

- Up to 12% more mileage than last year!
- 15% more skid protection
- Quieter ride... less squeal on turns

This great tire is made with Goodyear's exclusive Triple-Tempered 3-T Nylon — the only nylon cord that is fully controlled at its point of maximum strength and resiliency. The result? A tire so strong that impact blowouts are almost unheard of!

And its anti-vibration tread practically eliminates squeal on turns. This remarkable tread has 1806 inches of non-skid edges, 880 deep-cut safety slots for 15% greater skid resistance. When you realize that this new 1954 All-Nylon Cord Super-Cushion costs only a few dollars more than standard tires, yet gives you so much more, you can see why we say, "Trade today without delay!"

ATTENTION NEW CAR OWNERS

Trade your present tires now for stronger, safer All-Nylon Cord Super-Cushions. You'll be pleasantly surprised how little difference you'll have to pay if you trade while your present tires are almost new.

TERMS! Pay as low as $1.25 A WEEK for a PAIR!

Football

General

Racing

Miami—John B. P. ($20.20) captured Saxony Purse at Gulfstream.

Ted Kroll Leads Seminole Golf

Palm Beach, Fla., March 24 (AP)—Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., had a 3-stroke lead today starting the last round of the $10,000 36-hole pro-amateur tournament at the Seminole Golf Club.

Shooting an eagle and four birdies on the back nine, Kroll missed the competitive course record by one stroke in yesterday's first round with a 35-30—65.

With his partner, R. A. Raese, a steel executive from Morgantown, W. Va., Kroll also led the pro-amateur division with a best-ball score of 28-33—61. Raese, with a 12 handicap, helped by two strokes on each nine.

Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., were tied for second in the individual pro standings at 68. Earl Stewart, Jr., of Dallas was fourth with 69 and the favorite, Ben Hogan of Palm Springs, Calif., was tied for fifth at 70 with Jack Burke, Jr., of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y.

Librarians Needed

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that there is still a need for librarians in various federal agencies in Washington, D. C., and vicinity for positions paying entrance salaries of $3,410 a year. Applicants are required to take a written test and must have completed a full 4-year college course which included at least 30 semester hours of study in library science; or four years of progressive experience in library work; or one full year of professional library training in a library school plus three years of college study or three years of progressive experience in library work Further information and application forms may be obtained from the Commission's Examiner in Charge, William P. Barry, located at Main Post Office, Kingston.

BY WARREN PAGE
(Shooting Editor)

The whole question of magnum shotguns is fuel for hot-stove-league arguments galore.

Personally, I feel that the true magnum 12- or 10-bore gun is a tool useful in the hands of the average duck shooter only as a means of making 45-50 yard kills surer, by virtue of an added ¾ ounces or more of shot.

I doubt if he is going to realize its ultra-long-range capabilities for the simple reason that not one duck hunter in a hundred knows how to lead waterfowl much farther out than the 50-yard mark for the ambitious amateur, but only for the exceptionally skilled winged shot.

The 20-bore magnum hull, three inches long, which Western-Winchester are now loading for use in specially chambered and specially choked Model 21 double guns, is a horse of a slightly different color. It isn't expected to stretch practical duck ranges beyond shooter ability. Which is to say it will kill ducks about like a good full choke 12-gauge, to 50 yards.

When these hot-rod 20-bore hulls were first rumored in the shotgun fraternity, there was a great hulabaloo about super-velocity. The pellets were supposed to travel like rifle bullets, and more or less as far, according to some of the rumor mongers.

This was a lot of poppycock. The velocities developed in the three-inch 20-bore load are for shot sizes 4 and 6 the same, to all intents and purposes, as those given the same shot in a Super-X high-based load, for example. To wit, from 1335 to 1345, which is 50 foot-second slower than the 12-bore duck load.

Actually there is no point in trying to drive shot pellets much faster than 1400 foot seconds for the simple reason that beyond that speed too many pellets are deformed, and ultimately spread out of the pattern, from being rammed too fast through the forcing cone and choke of the barrel. A shot shell has to be balanced.

So the long 20 will remain a specialist's item for a little while. Meanwhile, it's sure a doozy on ducks for them as wants to make a souped-up 20 perform like a 12.

Wouldn't Talk Indochina

Washington, March 24 (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) proposed today that the United States refuse to discuss the Indochina question with the Chinese Reds at Geneva and concentrate on seeking a Korean settlement. George, senior Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview he is opposed to giving the Chinese Communists even the implied recognition he contended is involved in negotiating with them on problems of an area where their troops are not directly involved.

Only about a third of the 1,200 million U. S. acres classified as "land in farms" is actually cropland.

Trout Season Opens April 10

Albany, March 23—April Fool's day or lake trout, salmon and, in the Finger Lakes region, rainbows—take your choice but April first is the day, and "weather" or not, fishermen by the thousands will shake off the winter's fidgits to open the 1954 season in New York for these species.

Brook and brown trout may also be taken beginning April first in parts of various tributaries to Seneca, Cayuga, Oswego, Canandaigua, Keuka and Skaneateles Lakes.

The provisions of the law pertaining to the April first opening in this area are the same as were in effect last year. However, the statewide season for brook, brown and rainbow trout will not open until April 10, the second Saturday of the month.

Conservation Department spokesmen said that the 1954 regulations on trout are virtually the same as for last season and last year's "Fishing Guide" could be relied upon with correction of the statewide trout opening date from April 11 to April 10.

They called particular attention, however, to the change this year in size limit on trout from seven inches to a six inch minimum in the northern New York counties of Clinton, Essex, Franklin, Fulton, Hamilton, Herkimer, Lewis, Oneida, Saratoga, St. Lawrence, Warren and Washington. Elsewhere in the state, the seven inch minimum size limit remains in effect, they said, adding that the lowered size limit in those Adirondack area counties was set after intensive studies over a period of years by Department fisheries biologists showed that trout in many of this area's waters lived, matured and died without ever reaching a harvestable or seven inch size.

Will Meet April 6

The Financial Department's Function in An Organization, will be the subject of an address by D. C. Dougherty at the April 6 meeting of Hudson Valley Chapter, SAM at the Hendrick Hudson Hotel, Troy. Dougherty is director of organizational planning for the American Hard Rubber Co.

THAT'S ALL!

Thanks to magical transistors, Sonotone's new tubeless hearing aid has been cut in size to the compact case shown here. It is so small many women can wear the complete instrument in their hair. Only one tiny battery (also shown) is required to power this all-transistor hearing aid, cutting operating costs to a minimum.

Ted Kroll Leads Seminole Golf

Palm Beach, Fla., March 24 (AP)—Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y., had a 3-stroke lead today starting the last round of the $10,000 36-hole pro-amateur tournament at the Seminole Golf Club.

Shooting an eagle and four birdies on the back nine, Kroll missed the competitive course record by one stroke in yesterday's first round with a 35-30—65.

With his partner, R. A. Raese, a steel executive from Morgantown, W. Va., Kroll also led the pro-amateur division with a best-ball score of 28-33—61. Raese, with a 12 handicap, helped by two strokes on each nine.

Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Lew Worsham of Oakmont, Pa., were tied for second in the individual pro standings at 68. Earl Stewart, Jr., of Dallas was fourth with 69 and the favorite, Ben Hogan of Palm Springs, Calif., was tied for fifth at 70 with Jack Burke, Jr., of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y.

Librarians Needed

The United States Civil Service Commission announces that there is still a need for librarians in various federal agencies in Washington, D. C., and vicinity for positions paying entrance salaries of $3,410 a year. Applicants are required to take a written test and must have completed a full 4-year college course which included at least 30 semester hours of study in library science; or four years of progressive experience in library work; or one full year of professional library training in a library school plus three years of college study or three years of progressive experience in library work Further information and application forms may be obtained from the Commission's Examiner in Charge, William P. Barry, located at Main Post Office, Kingston.

(Shooting Editor)

Personally, I feel that the true magnum 12- or 10-bore gun is a tool useful in the hands of the average duck shooter only as a means of making 45-50 yard kills surer, by virtue of an added ¾ ounces or more of shot.

I doubt if he is going to realize its ultra-long-range capabilities for the simple reason that not one duck hunter in a hundred knows how to lead waterfowl much farther out than the 50-yard mark for the ambitious amateur, but only for the exceptionally skilled winged shot.

The 20-bore magnum hull, three inches long, which Western-Winchester are now loading for use in specially chambered and specially choked Model 21 double guns, is a horse of a slightly different color. It isn't expected to stretch practical duck ranges beyond shooter ability. Which is to say it will kill ducks about like a good full choke 12-gauge, to 50 yards.

When these hot-rod 20-bore hulls were first rumored in the shotgun fraternity, there was a great hulabaloo about super-velocity. The pellets were supposed to travel like rifle bullets, and more or less as far, according to some of the rumor mongers.

This was a lot of poppycock. The velocities developed in the three-inch 20-bore load are for shot sizes 4 and 6 the same, to all intents and purposes, as those given the same shot in a Super-X high-based load, for example. To wit, from 1335 to 1345, which is 50 foot-second slower than the 12-bore duck load.

Actually there is no point in trying to drive shot pellets much faster than 1400 foot seconds for the simple reason that beyond that speed too many pellets are deformed, and ultimately spread out of the pattern, from being rammed too fast through the forcing cone and choke of the barrel. A shot shell has to be balanced.

The secret of the extra range performance of this new 20-bore isn't speed but a tight choke.

So the long 20 will remain a specialist's item for a little while. Meanwhile, it's sure a doozy on ducks for them as wants to make a souped-up 20 perform like a 12.

Wouldn't Talk Indochina

Washington, March 24 (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) proposed today that the United States refuse to discuss the Indochina question with the Chinese Reds at Geneva and concentrate on seeking a Korean settlement. George, senior Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in an interview he is opposed to giving the Chinese Communists even the implied recognition he contended is involved in negotiating with them on problems of an area where their troops are not directly involved.

Only about a third of the 1,200 million U. S. acres classified as "land in farms" is actually cropland.

Trout Season Opens April 10

Albany, March 23—April Fool's day or lake trout, salmon and, in the Finger Lakes region, rainbows—take your choice but April first is the day, and "weather" or not, fishermen by the thousands will shake off the winter's fidgits to open the 1954 season in New York for these species.

Brook and brown trout may also be taken beginning April first in parts of various tributaries to Seneca, Cayuga, Oswego, Canandaigua, Keuka and Skaneateles Lakes.

The provisions of the law pertaining to the April first opening in this area are the same as were in effect last year. However, the statewide season for brook, brown and rainbow trout will not open until April 10, the second Saturday of the month.

Conservation Department spokesmen said that the 1954 regulations on trout are virtually the same as for last season and last year's "Fishing Guide" could be relied upon with correction of the statewide trout opening date from April 11 to April 10.

They called particular attention, however, to the change this year in size limit on trout from seven inches to a six inch minimum in the northern New York counties of Clinton, Essex, Franklin, Fulton, Hamilton, Herkimer, Lewis, Oneida, Saratoga, St. Lawrence, Warren and Washington. Elsewhere in the state, the seven inch minimum size limit remains in effect, they said, adding that the lowered size limit in those Adirondack area counties was set after intensive studies over a period of years by Department fisheries biologists showed that trout in many of this area's waters lived, matured and died without ever reaching a harvestable or seven inch size.

Will Meet April 6

The Financial Department's Function in An Organization, will be the subject of an address by D. C. Dougherty at the April 6 meeting of Hudson Valley Chapter, SAM at the Hendrick Hudson Hotel, Troy. Dougherty is director of organizational planning for the American Hard Rubber Co.

THAT'S ALL!

Thanks to magical transistors, Sonotone's new tubeless hearing aid has been cut in size to the compact case shown here. It is so small many women can wear the complete instrument in their hair. Only one tiny battery (also shown) is required to power this all-transistor hearing aid, cutting operating costs to a minimum.

The Weather

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 24, 1954

Sun rises at 5:41 a. m.; sun sets at 6:01 p. m., EST.

Weather, fair.

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 34 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 51 degrees.

Weather Forecast

CLOUDY AND THREATENING

cloudy tonight and not so cold as last night, especially in the suburbs, with lowest temperatures around 40. Thursday rain likely with highest temperature close to 50. Gentle to moderate northwesterly winds this afternoon, becoming light variable tonight. Increasing southerly winds Thursday.

Eastern New York: Increasing cloudiness tonight, lowest 25 to 30 in north and rain in south by late afternoon or night.

City engineer's weather report: Temperature at 10 a. m., today 46, barometric pressure 29.33, humidity 44 and wind E at 8 miles an hour. High temperature yesterday 57 at 2 p. m., and low 33 at 3 a. m. Mean 45 and normal 43. Humidity 51 at 10 p. m. ,and 35 at 2 p. m. Barometric pressure 29.68 at 11 p. m., and 29.48 at 2 p. m. Wind SW at 15 MPH.

A true orchestra is made up mainly of stringed instruments; a band usually has only wind and percussion instruments.

Haymes Ordered Deported

Singer Dick Haymes, shown here with his wife, Rita Hayworth, and her two children, has been orderd deported to his native Argentina, the Immigration Service announced. The order was based on charges that Haymes was ineligible to re-enter the continental U. S. after making a trip to Hawaii last June. Haymes who entered the U. S. for permanent residence in 1937, has 10 days to appeal the decision. The above picture was taken shortly after they were wed last year. (NEA Telephoto).

Action Settled In Henry Death

An action to recover damages for the death of Rose Henry of the town of Shawangunk who was fatally injured last fall at Circleville, Orange county, was settled in Supreme Court today. The action was brought by Stephen F. Henry against the La Mania Truck Renting Corporation and another. Rose Henry was struck and injured while walking on the highway. Charles H. Gaffney appeared for plaintiff and Cashin & Ewig for defendants.

Also announced settled was a negligence action brought by Frieda Klun and another against Donald K. Wiley. Charles H. Gaffney for plaintiff and Casper B. Ughetta for defendant.

Moved for trial was No. 304, John J. Fisher against Edward Angelo Poalillo, Sr., a negligence action. John L. Larkin for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendants. The court went into recess to consider pre-trial conference cases prior to taking up the case.

Sees $67 Million Loss for Milkmen

The present price support level, the Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative said yesterday, "is essential to avert a serious national financial disaster among milk producers."

Presenting the organization's case to House and Senate Agriculture Committees, Eastern's economist, John C. York, suggested that a two-price system be established for dealing with future surpluses.

York said the price support cut to 75 per cent of parity scheduled for April 1 "will lower the average dairymen's income about $600." He added that milk producers in the North Atlantic States would lose approximately 67 million dollars annually and that "the United States would lose approximately three-quarter billion dollars."

York proposed that to dispose of existing dairy surpluses the armed forces and Veterans Administration stop buying oleomargarine and purchase butter instead.

Civil Service Exam

Examination for the position of Laundry Worker, CPC-2, $2,420 a year, for duty at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Albany, was announced today by the Executive Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, Veterans Administration Hospital, Albany. Applicants will not be required to take a written test, but they must have had three months' progressively responsible experience in a modern, completely equipped laundry in the performance or supervision of laundry operations. Complete information regarding this examination, Announcement No. 2-58-1 (1954), together with application blanks, can be obtained from the Executive Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, Veterans Administration Hospital, Albany; any Post Office; or the Regional Director, Second U. S. Civil Service Region, Federal Building, Christopher street, New York 14.

No Sales, He Keeps Open

The answers to everyday insurance problems*
By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: Is my Comprehensive Personal Liability Insurance in force when I'm away from home on my vacation?
ANSWER: Yes. Some policies do restrict their coverage to the continental United States, however, so if you plan a vacation out of this country, better check with your insurance agent.

Haymes Ordered Deported

Singer Dick Haymes, shown here with his wife, Rita Hayworth, and her two children, has been orderd deported to his native Argentina, the Immigration Service announced. The order was based on charges that Haymes was ineligible to re-enter the continental U. S. after making a trip to Hawaii last June. Haymes who entered the U. S. for permanent residence in 1937, has 10 days to appeal the decision. The above picture was taken shortly after they were wed last year. (NEA Telephoto).

Action Settled In Henry Death

An action to recover damages for the death of Rose Henry of the town of Shawangunk who was fatally injured last fall at Circleville, Orange county, was settled in Supreme Court today. The action was brought by Stephen F. Henry against the La Mania Truck Renting Corporation and another. Rose Henry was struck and injured while walking on the highway. Charles H. Gaffney appeared for plaintiff and Cashin & Ewig for defendants.

Also announced settled was a negligence action brought by Frieda Klun and another against Donald K. Wiley. Charles H. Gaffney for plaintiff and Casper B. Ughetta for defendant.

Moved for trial was No. 304, John J. Fisher against Edward Angelo Poalillo, Sr., a negligence action. John L. Larkin for plaintiff and Cook & Cook for defendants. The court went into recess to consider pre-trial conference cases prior to taking up the case.

Sees $67 Million Loss for Milkmen

Washington, March 24 (AP)—The nation's largest dairymen's bargaining cooperative says federal dairy price supports must remain at 90 per cent of parity.

The present price support level, the Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative said yesterday, "is essential to avert a serious national financial disaster among milk producers."

Presenting the organization's case to House and Senate Agriculture Committees, Eastern's economist, John C. York, suggested that a two-price system be established for dealing with future surpluses.

York said the price support cut to 75 per cent of parity scheduled for April 1 "will lower the average dairymen's income about $600." He added that milk producers in the North Atlantic States would lose approximately 67 million dollars annually and that "the United States would lose approximately three-quarter billion dollars."

York proposed that to dispose of existing dairy surpluses the armed forces and Veterans Administration stop buying oleomargarine and purchase butter instead.

The answers to everyday insurance problems* By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: Is my Comprehensive Personal Liability Insurance in force when I'm away from home on my vacation?

ANSWER: Yes. Some policies do restrict their coverage to the continental United States, however, so if you plan a vacation out of this country, better check with your insurance agent.

* If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE or OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.

Civil Service Examiners, Veterans Administration Hospital, Albany. Applicants will not be required to take a written test, but they must have had three months' progressively responsible experience in a modern, completely equipped laundry in the performance or supervision of laundry operations. Complete information regarding this examination, Announcement No. 2-58-1 (1954), together with application blanks, can be obtained from the Executive Secretary, Board of U. S. Civil Service Examiners, Veterans Administration Hospital, Albany; any Post Office; or the Regional Director, Second U. S. Civil Service Region, Federal Building, Christopher street, New York 14.

No Sales, He Keeps Open

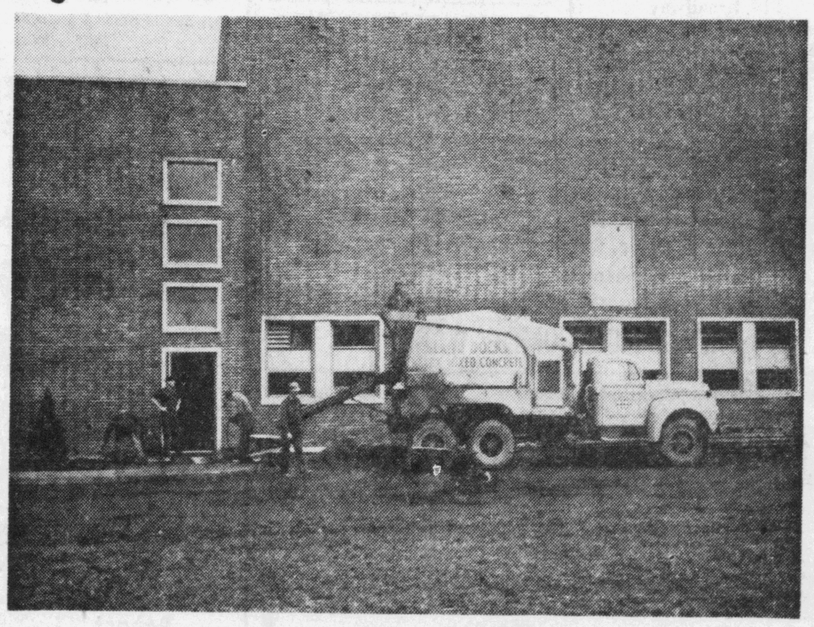

San Francisco, March 24 (AP)—Curious because successive customers entered a Market street luggage store, carefully examined a display of wallets and left without purchasing anything, police moved in yesterday. Inside the wallets they reported finding neatly arranged—a race to a wallet, a track to a row—betting slips and odds charts covering the major operating race tracks. Owner George W. Young, 77, was booked on suspicion of bookmaking.
